Section 24. Any money of such association, over and above the unearned premiums on undetermined risks and such sums as are required to pay all accrued losses, may be invested in the securities above enumerated or loaned upon the security of the same; or in the stock or other evidence of indebtedness of any solvent, dividend-paying corporation, created under the laws of this Commonwealth or of any other State of the United States or loaned upon the pledge of the same, except its own stock or the stock of any other insurance company: Provided, the current market value of such security shall be at least twenty per centum more than the sum loaned thereon. But no such association shall invest any of its funds in any unincorporated business or enterprise, nor in the stocks or evidence of indebtedness of any corporation the owners or holders of which stock or evidence of indebtedness may in any event be or become liable on account thereof of any assessment, except for taxes; not more than one-fifth of its capital shall be invested in a single mortgage, nor shall any of its funds be loaned on personal security alone. No such association shall invest in, acquire or hold, directly or indirectly more than ten per centum of the securities of any single company, nor shall more than ten per centum of its assets be invested in the stock of a single company. No such association shall enter into an agreement to withhold from sale of any of its property; but the disposition of its property shall be at all times within the control of its Board of Directors. If any investment or loan is made in a manner not authorized by this act, the officers and directors making or authorizing the same shall be personally liable for any loss occasioned thereby.

AN ACT

Providing for the creation and administration of a State Fund for the Insurance of Compensation for injuries to employes of subscribers thereto.

Section 1. The State Workmen's Insurance Board is hereby created, consisting of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry, the Insurance Commissioner, and the State Treasurer.

Section 2. Certain sums to be paid by employers, as hereinafter provided, are hereby constituted a fund, to be known as "The State Workmen's Insurance Fund," for the purpose of insuring such employers against liability under Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 and of assuring the payment of the compensation therein provided. Such fund shall be administered by the State Workmen's Insurance Board without liability on the part of the State beyond the amount thereof and shall be applied to the payment of such compensation and for the expenses of the administration of said fund as hereinafter provided.

Section 3. The State Treasurer shall be the custodian of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; and all disbursements therefrom shall be paid by him upon vouchers authorized by the Board and signed by any two members thereof. He may deposit any portion thereof not needed for immediate use, as other State funds are lawfully deposited and the interest thereon shall be collected by him and placed to the credit of the fund.

Section 4. On or before the first day of October, in each year the said Board shall prepare and publish a schedule of premiums or rates of insurance for employers who shall have accepted Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915, which said schedule shall be printed and distributed free of charge to such employers as shall make application therefor, and any such employer may at his option as hereinafter provided, pay to the State Treasurer the amount of the premium appropriate to his business or domestic affairs, and upon payment thereof shall thereafter be considered a subscriber to said State Workmen's Insurance Fund and shall be insured as hereinafter provided for the calendar year for which such premium is paid, and such insurance shall cover all payments becoming due in any year because of accidents occurring during the year for which said premium is paid.

Section 5. The said Board shall determine the amount of premiums which the subscribers to the fund shall pay and shall fix the premiums for insurance, in accordance with the nature of their business and of the various employments of their employes and the probable risk of injury to their employes therein. And they shall fix the premiums at such an amount as shall be adequate to enable them to pay all sums which may become due and payable to the employes of such subscribers under the provisions of Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915 and to create and maintain the surplus provided in Section 7 of this act and to provide an adequate reserve sufficient to carry all policies to maturity and after January 1st, 1918, to pay the expenses of the collection and administration of the fund. In fixing the premium payable by any subscriber, the Board may take into account the condition of the plant, work-room, shop, farm or premises of such subscriber in respect to the safety of those employed therein as shown by the report of any inspector appointed by the Board or by the Department of Labor and Industry, and they may from time to time change the amount of premiums payable by any of the subscribers as circumstances may require, and the condition of the plant, work-room, shop, farm or premises of such subscribers in respect to the safety of their employes may justify and they may increase the premiums of any subscriber neglecting to provide safety devices required by law, or disobeying the rules or regulations made by the Board in accordance with the provisions of Section II of this Act. All premiums shall be fixed with the object that such fund shall be self-supporting; provided, however, that the annual rate of premium charged on account of an employe engaged solely in domestic service or engaged solely in agriculture, wherein neither explosives nor such machinery as is not ordinarily employed in farming is used, shall not exceed one per cent. of the money wages of such employe. The insurance of any subscriber shall not be effective until he shall have paid in cash the premium so fixed and determined.

Section 6. The expenses of the organization and administration of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall be paid until January 1st, 1918, by the State out of funds hereinafter appropriated therefor; thereafter the expenses of the administration shall be paid out of the premiums collected from the subscribers to the said Fund.

Section 7. The Board shall set aside five per cent. of all premiums collected for the creation of a surplus, until such surplus shall amount to $100,000, and thereafter they may set apart such percentage, not exceeding five per cent., as in their discretion they may determine to be necessary to maintain such surplus sufficiently large to cover the catastrophe hazard of all the subscribers to such Fund and to guarantee the solvency of the Fund.

Section 8. The said Board shall divide the subscribers into groups in accordance with the nature of the business of such subscribers and the probable risk of injury therein, and they shall fix all premiums for each group in accordance with the experience thereof. Where the employes in any business are engaged in various employments in which the risk of injury is substantially different, the Board shall subdivide the employments into classes and shall fix the premium for each in accordance therewith. The said Board shall maintain a separate and adequate reserve for each group. The compensation payable for injuries to employes of subscribers in each group shall be paid primarily out of the premiums paid by such subscribers and the reserve maintained for such group. But if there shall be a deficiency it shall be met out of the general funds of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund and shall be repaid out of the funds thereafter collected from such group. The Board shall keep an accurate account of the money paid in premiums by the subscribers in each group and the disbursements on account of injuries to employes therein and if at the expiration of any year, there shall be a balance remaining after deducting such disbursements, the unearned premiums on undetermined risks, the percentage of premiums paid or payable to create or maintain the surplus provided in Section 7 of this act and the proportionate share of such group of the expenses incurred in the operation of the business of the fund during the preceding year (if such expenses are payable by said fund) and after setting aside an adequate reserve for such group, such balance shall be distributed among the subscribers to such groups in proportion to the premiums paid by them and the proportionate share of such subscribers as shall remain subscribers to the fund shall be credited to the installment of premium next due by them and the proportionate share of such subscribers as shall have ceased to be subscribers in such fund shall be refunded to them out of the State Fund in the manner hereafter provided.

Section 9. The said Board may invest any of the surplus or reserve funds belonging to the State Workmen's Insurance Fund in such securities and investments as are authorized for investment by savings banks. All such securities or evidence of indebtedness shall be placed in the hands of the State Treasurer, who shall be the custodian thereof; he shall collect the principal and interest thereof when due and pay the same into the State Insurance Fund. The State Treasurer shall pay all vouchers drawn on the State Insurance Fund for the making of such investments when signed by two members of the Board, upon delivery of such securities or evidences of indebtedness to him, when there is attached to such vouchers a certified copy of the resolution of the Board authorizing the investment. The said Board may, upon like resolution, sell any of such securities.

Section 10. The said Board shall have the power to make all contracts necessary for supplying medical, hospital and surgical services as provided in Section 5, Sub-section (e.), Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915.

Section 11. The said Board shall have the power to reinsure any risk which they may deem necessary.

Section 12. The said Board shall be entitled to inspect the plant, work-room, shop, farm or premises of any subscriber, and shall be entitled to examine from time to time the books, records and payrolls of any subscriber or intending subscriber, for the purpose of determining the amount of the premium payable to such subscriber or intending subscriber, and they shall have the power to appoint such inspectors and auditors as may be necessary to carry out the powers given in this section or, they may, with the consent of the Department of Labor and Industry and Commissioner of Insurance, cause such inspection and examination to be made by the inspectors of the said Department of Labor and Industry and the auditors of the State Insurance Department and such inspectors and auditors shall have free access to all such premises, books, records and payrolls during the regular working and office hours.

The said Board shall make reasonable rules and regulations for the prevention of injuries upon the premises of the subscribers; and they may refuse to insure or may terminate the insurance of any subscriber who refuses to permit such examinations or disregards such rules or regulations and may forfeit one-half of the unearned premiums previously paid by him.

Section 13. Any employer who shall have accepted the provisions of Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915, and who shall desire to become a subscriber to the said fund for the purpose of insuring therein his liability to those of his employes, or any class thereof, who have accepted the said provisions, shall make a written application for such insurance to the said Board in which application the applicant shall state under oath or affirmation (a) the nature of the business or domestic affairs in which insurance is desired; (b) the average number of employes expected to be employed in such business during the year for which insurance is sought, and the average number of employes, if any, engaged in such business during the previous calendar year; (c) the approximate money wages expected to be paid during the year for which insurance is sought, and the money wages paid to such employes during the preceding year; (d) the place where such business is to be transacted; (e) the place where the employer's payroll and books of accounts are kept, and where the employes are customarily paid. And when the employments are subdivided into classes as provided in Section 7 of the act, the applicant shall further state (f) the number of employes of each class expected to be employed or previously employed as aforesaid; (g) the approximate money wages expected to be paid or previously paid as aforesaid to employes of each class for which insurance is sought. Thereupon, the Board shall make such investigations as they may deem necessary and within thirty days after such application, shall issue a certificate showing the classification or group in which they find such applicant entitled to be placed and the amount of premium payable by such applicant for the calendar year or the remainder of the calendar year for which insurance is sought. No insurance shall be issued for a longer period than a single calendar year.

Section 14. All premiums shall be payable to the State Treasurer, who shall issue an appropriate receipt therefor, and such receipt, together with the certificate of the Board specified in Section 12 hereof, shall be the evidence that the applicant has become a subscriber to said fund and is insured therein..

Section 15. On or before the first day of February of each year after 1916 each subscriber to said fund shall, under oath or affirmation, render a written statement to the said Board setting forth the maximum, average and minimum number of employes insured in the said fund, that such subscriber had employed during the preceding year and the actual amount of the money payroll of such employes for such year, and, when the Board has subdivided the employments in any group into classes as provided in Section 7 of the act setting forth the number and actual amounts of the money payroll of such employes of each of such classes, and thereupon, within thirty days, the said Board shall state the account of such subscriber for such calendar year, based on the facts thus proven, and shall render a copy of such statement to the subscriber and a duplicate copy thereof to the Board, and, if the amount of the premium theretofore paid by such subscriber shall exceed the amount due according to such stated account, then the excess shall be forthwith refunded to the subscriber by payment out of said fund in the manner hereinafter provided, and, if the amount shown by said statement exceed the amount of the premium theretofore paid by such subscriber, the excess shall be forthwith due and payable by the subscriber into such fund, and until paid shall be a lien as other State taxes are a lien upon the real and personal property of the subscriber, and, if unpaid, shall be collectible as State taxes are now collectible, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent. per annum, commencing thirty days after the settlement of said account.

Section 16. Any person who shall falsely make oath or affirmation to any certificate, application or statement herein required shall be guilty of perjury; and any subscriber who shall, after notice from the said Board, neglect or refuse to file the statement mentioned in Section 14 hereof within ten days after such notice, shall be liable to pay to the fund a penalty of ten dollars for each day that such neglect or refusal shall continue, to be recovered at the suit of the said Fund.

Section 17. Any subscriber to said fund who shall, within seven days after knowledge or notice of an accident to an employe in the course of his employment, as required by Section 9 of Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915, have filed with the Board a true statement of such knowledge or a true copy of said notice, shall be and hereby is relieved of all liability for the payment of compensation for the personal injury or death of such employe by such accident, and all such compensation due therefor under Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915 shall be paid out of said State Workmen's Insurance Fund; Provided, however, that the report of such accident required by the act entitled "An Act requiring employes to make report to the Department of Labor and Industry of accidents to employes and prescribing a penalty for noncompliance therewith," approved the nineteenth day of July, 1913, shall be sufficient compliance with this section, if such report be made within said period of seven days and shall state that the employer making the same is a subscriber to said fund.

Section 18. In every case where a claim is made against said fund, the said fund shall be entitled to every defense against such claim that would have been open to the employer and shall be subrogated to every right of the employer arising out of such accident against the employe, the dependents and against third persons; and in any such case the said Fund may in the name of "The State Workmen's Insurance Fund" sue and be sued in any county in this Commonwealth in which action may be brought by or against said employer.

Section 19. Upon receipt of a notice or statement of knowledge of an accident to an employe of a subscriber occurring in the course of his employment, the said Board shall, if it deemed necessary, cause an investigation to be made by an inspector appointed by it or an inspector of the Department of Labor and Industry, who shall forthwith report the facts as found by him to said Board, which shall thereupon determine what, if any, compensation is payable thereon and shall issue a certificate stating their findings. If they find that the employe or the dependents of a deceased employe is entitled to compensation, the certificate shall state the sums payable, the length of time during which they are payable and the persons to whom such sums are payable. Such certificate shall be sent to the attorney of the Department of Labor and Industry in the county in which the accident occurred and a copy shall be sent to the injured employe or his dependents. If the injured employe or his dependents agree to accept the compensation as fixed by said certificate then the said attorney shall, together with the injured employe or his dependents, sign the memorandum of such agreement as provided for in Section 18 of Article II of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915 and may file the same with the prothonotary of the said county as therein provided. This agreement or a copy thereof certified by the said prothonotary shall be filed with the Board who shall thereupon issue a warrant to such employe or dependents which warrant shall be signed by two members of the Board and shall be delivered to the person or persons entitled to compensation under the terms of the said certificate and agreement. If the injured employe or the dependents of a deceased employe do not accept the compensation fixed in the said certificate or shall claim compensation where the certificate is to the effect that no compensation is payable, the attorney of the said fund or of the Department of Labor and Industry shall represent the State Workmen's Insurance Fund in any litigation instituted by such employe or dependent thereof in accordance with the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915, and if upon such litigation the court shall award compensation the said attorney shall file with the Board a certified copy of said award upon which the Board shall in like manner issue a warrant upon the State Treasurer for the compensation therein awarded. The Board may from time to time cause its inspectors to report upon the physical condition of any employe receiving compensation or the status and dependency of any person receiving compensation as a dependent and upon such report the Board may in like manner make a subsequent agreemnet modifying the agreement or award as provided in Section 15 of Part II of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915, or may apply through the attorney of the Department of Labor and Industry in the county in which the agreement is filed to the court therein for a modification of the said agreement or award.

Section 20. All payments to employes, dependents of deceased employes, physicians, attorneys, investigators and others entitled to be paid out of the said fund shall be made by the State Treasurer on a warrant of the board as aforesaid, which warrant shall be delivered to the person entitled thereto by the said attorney for the Department of Labor and Industry. But where periodical installments are required to be paid, under Article II of said Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915, a single warrant shall be sufficient to authorize such periodical payments. But in the modification of any agreement or award of the court or in accordance with the provisions of Section 16 of the Workmen's Compensation Law of 1915, upon review by the court the Board shall issue a further warrant in accordance with such subsequent agreement or such modification and such warrant when issued shall supersede and cancel the previous warrant.

Section 21. The Board may employ deputies, attorneys, assistants and clerks as may be necessary and as may be approved by the Governor for the proper administration of said fund and the performance of the duties imposed upon them by the provisions of this act, with such compensation as may be fixed by it, with the approval of the Governor, which compensation shall be paid out of said fund, as aforesaid. The State Treasurer and the Commissioner of Labor and Industry shall include in their annual reports full and complete statements of the administration of said fund, showing its financial status and the outstanding obligations and claims, and the amount paid on each claim, claims not paid, claims contested and the reason for contest, and the general statistics with respect to all business and affairs germane to this act.

Section 22. The sum of dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated for the expenses of the organiatizon and administration of the said fund.

Section 23. This act shall take effect on July 1st, 1915.

The following Constitutional Amendment was recommended by the Industrial Accidents Commission of 1911, and was passed by the Legislature at its last session and comes up again before the Legislature of 1915 for the second passage required for its submission to the people of the State.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section twenty-one of article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:

AN ACT

Authorizing the appointment of a commission to consider the revision and amendment of the penal laws of the State, so as to provide for the employment of all inmates of all penal institutions; to provide for compensation for their labor, and to devise a system whereby the results of such labor shall be utilized in the penal and charitable institutions of the State; and making an appropriation to the expenses of said commission.

Section 1. Be it enacted, &c., That the Governor is hereby authorized to appoint a commission of seven persons, one of whom shall be a representative of organized labor, one of whom shall be experienced in penology, one of whom shall be a person of skill and experience in making investigations, and four of whom shall be learned in the law, to inquire into the advisability of amending the penal laws of this Commonwealth, so as to provide for the employment of all inmates of all penal institutions, to provide compensation for their labor, and to provide for utilizing the results of such labor in the penal and charitable institutions of this Commonwealth.

Section 2. The chairman of said commission shall be designated by the Governor; and the person named on said commission as a skilled and experienced investigator shall be the secretary of the commission. Approved—The 25th day of July, A. D. 1913, in the sum of $5,000. I withhold my approval from the remainder of said appropriation because of insufficient State revenue.

JOHN K. TENER.

Appointments.

In accordance with the provisions of this act, Governor Tener appointed on June 17, 1914, Edwin M. Abbott, of Philadelphia, as chairman; Louis N. Robinson, of Swarthmore, as secretary; Dennis Hays, of Philadelphia, as representative of organized labor; Robert J. McKenty, of Philadelphia, as penologist; and William D. Grimes, of Harrisburg, Andrew Hourigan, of Wilkes-Barre, and Samuel I. Spyker, of Huntingdon, as representatives of the law.

Through pressure of other work, Dennis Hays was unable to serve; and upon receipt of his resignation, Patrick Gilday, of Morrisdale, was appointed by the Governor to serve in his place.

Analysis of the Act.

Three features of the act deserve special mention, for a consideration at the outset of these three features will do much to explain the problems of the commission and to make plain the principles which have guided it in the work of investigation and constructive planning.

The act is broad in its scope. "—to inquire into the advisability of amending the penal laws of this Commonwealth, so as to provide for the employment of all inmates of all penal, institutions," so runs the act. The commission has understood this to mean that all state institutions such as the two penitentiaries, the reformatory at Huntingdon, and the training school at Morganza, all county and municipal jails, workhouses, houses of correction and even subsidized private institutions used for the detention of those committed by the courts having criminal jurisdiction are included within the scope of its investigations and recommendations.

Secondly, the commission is asked to consider the question of compensating prisoners for their work.

Thirdly, the law explicitly directs the commission to report on the advisaiblity of utilizing the products in the penal and charitable institutions of the State. This method of disposing of the goods produced in the prisons is the distinguishing characteristic of the so-called State-use System of employing prisoners.

Record of Meetings and Trips of the Commission.

The first meeting of the commission was held in Philadelphia on June 24, 1914, in the offices of the chairman, 700 Land Title Building. At this meeting, the general nature of the work was discussed and investigations planned for the purpose of furnishing the commission with data on which to base its recommendations.

On August 28, the members of the commission met at Eagles Mere to go over the work which the secretary had been carrying on in the interval since the last meeting. So much interest was manifested in the work of the commission that a public meeting was held in the parlor of the hotel.

On the morning of September 29, the commissioners visited the Western Penitentiary and, in the afternoon of the same day, held an open meeting in the Law Library of the Pittsburgh Court House. The next day, the commissioners visited the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, and on October 1, were shown over the Cooley Farms near Cleveland by Mr. Cooley. On October 2, a conference was held with the Ohio State Board of Administration at Columbus, Ohio, and the penitentiary at this place inspected.

A visit was made on October 20 to the District of Columbia Workhouse situated at Occoquan, Virginia.

On November 19, the members of the commission who were within reach were called together in Mr. Abbott's office to meet with labor leaders attending the meeting of the American Federation of Labor and to discuss with them the problem of prison labor.

The commission met in Philadelphia on December 30 and 31. Visits were made to the Eastern Penitentiary, the House of Correction, and the County Prison at Holmesburg. Part I of the Report was read and the bills drafted to carry out the recommendations of the commission were carefully considered and revised.

On January 15 and 16, the commission met again in Philadelphia. Part II of the report was read and certain features of the bills received fresh attention.

Scope and Limitation of the Work.

The law creating the commission directs that it report to the General Assembly which convenes in January, 1915. As the members of the commission were not appointed until June 17, 1914, only such work was planned as it was thought could be accomplished in the brief time intervening before the meeting of the General Assembly.

The first task to which the commission naturally turned was to obtain the facts as to institutions, employment and wages. The limitation of time and the small appropriation granted to the commission with which to carry on the work compelled it to rely on existing records supplemented by correspondence with the institutions for the facts relating to these subjects. While such information can never be as satisfactory as that obtained by special agents, it is thought that the facts obtained are sufficiently complete and reliable to serve as a basis for recommendations and constructive legislation.

In the United States, past investigations have shown that prisoners have been employed in six different ways. These six methods of employment are known respectively as the Lease System, the Contract System, the Piece-Price System, the Public-Account System, the State-Use System, and the Public-Works-and-Ways System.*

As was pointed out in the analysis of the act, the commission is asked, in its investigations, to give special attention to that form of employment known as the State-Use System. As a matter of fact the commission has given little time to the study of other systems. There were several reasons for thus limiting the work. No one wishes for a moment to install the Lease System. In 1883, the Contract system was prohibited in Pennsylvania. It is a system which is everywhere fast being supplanted, and the opposition to it in Pennsylvania is such that a repeal of the law of 1883 is not to be expected. The Piece-Price System is but a modification of the Contract System. Pennsylvania already has the Public-Account System. Besides the State-Use System, there is thus left for consideration only the Public-Works-and-Ways System. This, too, Pennsylvania has in part as will be explained later. For several reasons, no detailed study was made of this system. There is great disagreement as to the benefit of employing prisoners under this system; and this situation coupled with the fact that the best experiments along this line have nearly all been made in the far western States has made it seem advisable, in view of the shortness of time and the limitations as to funds, to postpone for future consideration the question of the advisability of establishing the Public-Works-and-Ways System in Pennsylvania. Fortunately, the adoption of the State-Use System will not in any way interfere with a later attempt to introduce the Public-Works-and-Ways System. Under the State-Use System, road and other material would be produced, and the only change necessary in case it was later felt desirable to employ prisoners under the Public-Works-and-Ways System, would be the passage of an act making it lawful to use prisoners in the actual work of building the roads or constructing the works with the material already prepared.

*"The Lease System.—Under this system the contractors assume entire control of the convicts, including their maintenance and discipline, subject, however, to the regulations fixed by statute. In general, the prisoners are removed from the prisons, and are employed in outdoor labor, such as mining, agriculture, railroad construction, etc., though manufacturing is sometimes carried on. The nature and duration of the employment are, within the restrictions of the law fixed by the lease.

"The Contract System.—The employment under this system is usually within the prison shops or yards, discipline and control remaining in the hands of the officers, only the labor of the convicts being let to and directed by the contractors for manufacturing purposes. The State usually furnishes shop room and sometimes also provides power and machinery.

"The Piece-Price System.—Not only the discipline of the convicts, but the direction of their labor as well, is retained by the State under this system, the contractors furnishing the material to be made up and receiving the finished product, an agreed price per piece being paid for the labor bestowed.

"The Public-Account System.—There is no intervention of outside parties under this system, the employment of the convicts being in all respects directed by the State, and the products of their labor being sold for its benefit.

"The State-Use System.—This system is similar to the above, except that such articles are produced as will be of service to the State in supplying and maintaining its various institutions, and are appropriated to such use instead of being put on the general market.

"The Public-Works-and-Ways System.—Under this system convicts are employed in the construction and repair of public streets, highways, and other public works." (Senate Document No. 494, 63d Congress, 2d Session, p. 10, May 22, 1914.)

The organization of the State-Use System varies from State to State. A brief study was therefore made of this system and the results have been included in the report.

No one can fully understand the meaning of the present movement to change the conditions of employment in the penal institutions of the State without some knowledge of the history of prison labor in Pennsylvania. Accordingly a sketch of the subject has been prepared to show the changes that have taken place.

The employment of the jail population presents special difficulties not connected with the laws which limit employment. As will be seen, little is done in these institutions, but such is also the situation in States where these hampering laws are not found. The situation calls for something more than the repeal of old laws and the creation of the machinery of the State-Use System. In an article which has been made a part of this report, an attempt has been made to indicate what a successful system of employing the prisoners of these institutions would involve.

The payment of compensation for the work of prisoners is not a new thing. Many States have begun this policy, and such information as could be obtained from them through correspondence has been analyzed and included in the report.

The commission has also caused bills to be drafted to carry out the measures recommended, and these bills together with other matters thought to be of use to legislators and the general public have been printed as part of the report.

Penal Institutions in Pennsylvania.

Number.—There are in Pennsylvania at the present time two penitentiaries, one reformatory for adults, four institutions for juvenile delinquents and seventy county institutions, making a total of seventy-seven institutions which are used for the detention of sentenced prisoners. In addition, there are about fifty municipal jails and lockups; used mainly for the temporary safe-keeping of prisoners who are afterwards transferred to the county jail. In 1913, an act was passed providing for the establishment of a State Industrial Home for Women. This institution is not yet ready to receive inmates.

Population.—With one slight exception, it has been possible to secure information from two separate sources as to the number of sentenced prisoners in all classes of institutions. This commission itself did not include the municipal jails and lockups in its investigation. In view of the short time in which the commission had to carry on its work and the difficulties experienced in obtaining information from the county institutions it was not thought wise to attempt to bring these within the scope of its report. As will be seen, moreover, from the following table, the number found in these institutions in 1910 was insignificant. On January 1, 1910, the total population of all institutions, exclusive of the municipal jails and lockups, was 10,205; on September 15, 1914, the number was 10,375. There has been a decided decrease in the number of those found in penitentiaries, but this decrease has been more than made up by a large increase in the population of county institutions.

In 1910, slightly over ninety per cent. of the inmates were males; and as such percentages usually remain fairly constant over a long period of years the sex composition of the prison population may be given as one female to nine males.

The following table gives in detail the penal institutions of the State and the number of sentenced inmates found in them on January 1, 1910, and on September 15, 1910.

Employment in Institutions.

a. Legal situation.—Any exposition of the present labor situation in the penal institutions of the State, should be prefaced with the statement that there is a mighty legal obstacle in the way of the employment of prisoners. The act of June 18, 1897 (P. L. 170), as amended by the act of April 28, 1899 (P. L. 122). prohibits the use of power machinery and forbids the employment of more than thirty-five per cent. of the inmates of any State or county institution in the production of goods for sale. It is, of course still possible for the officials in control of such an institution to use the inmates as cooks, chambermaids and men-of-all-works and, so far as the county institutions are concerned, to employ the inmates in the production of goods for their own use; but these opportunities do not afford any real employment to the thousands of individuals in confinement. Enlightened wardens, as the warden of the Eastern Penitentiary, have sought to interest the idle men in school and trade work, and three jail wardens employ, so it would seem from the figures, more than the allotted thirty-five per cent. of the inmates of the institution under their charge in the production of goods for sale. The Act of May 27, 1907 (P. L. 247), offers on the face of it some relief to the county jails and workhouses. It makes it legally possible to employ on the highways all able-bodied males serving sentences in jails and workhouses, although the consent of the managers or officers in control of a workhouse is necessary if more than ten per cent. of the inmates of such an institution are to be employed. As a matter of fact. only three of the sixty-seven counties of the State have taken any advantage of this act.

b. Facts as to employment.—From data which the Commission has secured through correspondence with the institutions in regard to the subject of employment, a table was prepared not only to show the extent of employment but to differentiate between the employment of prisoners in the production of goods for sale and their employment in the care of the institution or in making goods for their own use.

So far as can be determined the situation would appear to be as follows:

1. Penitentiaries: The Western Penitentiary employs its full quota of 35 per cent. in the production of goods for sale, while the Eastern Penitentiary employs but 17 per cent. for similar purposes. The Western Penitentiary reports that 56.4 per cent. of the inmates are employed in institution work; the number thus employed in the Eastern Penitentiary is given as 14 per cent. The Western Penitentiary has. of course, an apportunity not open to the Eastern Penitentiary in that it can employ a large number of prisoners on its immense tract of land in central Pennsylvania.

2. Reformatory: No goods are produced for sale in the Pennsylvania Industriay Reformatory at Huntingdon. The inmates are taught trades and are employed to some extent in the manufacture of goods for their own use and in serving the institution.

3. Institutions for Juvenile Delinquents: None of these institutions employ their inmates in the production of goods for sale. On the other hand practically all are kept busy either in attending schools, in caring for the institutions, or in producing goods for their own use or that of the institution.

4. County institutions: In forty-two of the seventy county institutions, the inmates carry on no work whatsoever, but are kept in comlpete idleness. Goods for sale are produced in twelve, but in only five of the twelve does there seem to be an attempt to employ in this way as many as the law allows. Three of the five, as was stated previously, employ more than 35 per cent. in the production of goods for sale. Twenty-six of the institutions employ some of the prisoners in other ways, mainly in caring for the institution. The Philadelphia House of Correction also assists certain departments of the city government. Three institutions report that they have done some road-work. On account of the lack of detail, it is impossible to state with any degree of accuracy the average percenetage employed taking the county institutions as a whole. In all probability, the figures overstate the amount of employment. Desultory employment is one thing, steady employment is another, and yet the figures fail to reveal this fact. One thing at least is certain. Idleness is the rule and effective economic enterprise a rare feature of the county institutions for criminals.

5. General Conclusions: An examination of the figures for all the institutions enables one to note other facts of importance. In the first place, it will be seen that the legal limitation already mentioned could not have been the only obstacle in the way of the employment of the prisoners. since only seven of the institutions come anywhere near employing the 35 per cent. allowed by law, in the production of goods for sale. The reformatory and the four institutions for juvenile delinquents have given up entirely all attempts to manufacture goods for outside use, and the large number of county institutions which do no work at all is particularly noticeable. The Commission is decidedly of the opinion that the real explanation of the failure on the part of the county institutions to employ their inmates is to be found not in the law of 1897 but in the nature of the county jail or prison itself. Its location, size and customary management make it, in general, unsuitable for the successful employment of prisoners. As this phase of the problem is discussed fully in Part II, it is not necessary to enlarge on it here.

The following table on employment gives the facts in detail for each institution:—

See Secs. 1 and 2, 28 April, 1899, P. L. 123.

Compensation of Prisoners.

a. Legal situation: There are two laws which in a measure establish a legal system for the compensation of prisoners. Section 4 of the act of June 13, 1883 (P. L. 112), reads as follows:

"All convicts under control of the State and county officers, and all inmates of reformatory institutions engaged in manufacturing articles for general consumption, shall receive quarterly wages equal to the amount of their earnings, to be fixed from time to time, by the authorities of the institution, from which board, lodging, clothing, and the costs of trial shall be deducted, and the balance paid to their families or dependents; in case none such appear the amount shall be paid to the convict at the expiration of the term of imprisonment."

Taken in conjunction with the law of 1897 limiting the number that can be employed and preventing the use of power machinery, it does not seem to offer much hope of reward to the average prisoner.

The act of June 12, 1913 (P. L. 502), provides that when a defendant is sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for non-support of wife, children, or aged parents, the official in charge of the institution shall pay to the person designated by the court the sum of 65 cents per day, Sundays and legal holidays only excepted. Such sums come out of the general running expenses of the institution. If the labor done in such institution is not sufficient to pay the running expenses then this sum is charged to the county from which the defendant was committed.

Votaw states on page 10 of his supplement to No. 53 of the Journal of Prison Discipline and Philanthropy that the judges omit the words "to labor" and that the law in consequence is generally inoperative throughout the Commonwealth.

b. Facts as to compensation: Inquiries were sent to all the institutions in which the prisoners were reported as employed either in the production of goods for sale or in making things for their own use or that of the institution. In only five would it appear that the prisoners are paid wages. One of the five mentions the non-support act and another one refers to it but adds that no appropriation has as yet been made by the county commissioners. The Eastern Penitentiary is the only State institution in which wages are paid.

As a general thing, the prisoners are paid according to the amount produced. Sometimes a stated amount is exacted from them and they are then paid for all produced over and above this amount. In other cases, they are paid by the day, month, etc. As a general thing, this latter method of payment is used in those cases where it would be difficult to estimate the amount produced, as engineers, assistants, etc. Under the circumstances, any individual differences in the amount received would depend on the amount produced or on the occupation followed. The amount is always small, never, it would seem equaling the wages of the worst paid free day laborer.

In all cases but one, the amount allowed is determined by the board in charge of the institution; in one instance the wages are fixed by the warden. All the institutions, with the exception of Chester County Jail, charge the wages direct to the cost of production. This one institution states that the wages are paid by the county treasurer.

It is clear that the compensation of prisoners in Pennsylvania is as yet only an isolated phenomenon. The limitation in the number that can be employed, the ban on power machinery, the kind of work carried on, the nature of the institution, and the attitude of those in charge must all be taken into consideration in an effort to account for the small number of institutions in which prisoners are paid. The two laws governing the payment of wages seem to have had little or no effect on the actual payment of wages.

The following table gives the situation in detail as to the compensation of prisoners.

Recommendations of the Commission.

The recommendations of the Commission have all been embodied in bills and have been printed in Part II of this report. Stated briefly, these bills provide for six things, as follows:

a. The employment under the State-Use System of the inmates of the Eastern Penitentiary, the Western Penitentiary and the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon.

b. The administrative machinery necessary for the introduction of the State-Use System in these three institutions.

c. The purchase of a moderate sized farm to be used in connection with the Eastern Penitentiary.

d. An opportunity for the counties to employ the inmates of the jails, workhouses, houses of correction, etc., in the production of goods for the use of county institutions or the inmates thereof.

e. The creation of six industrial farms for misdemeanants and the employment and compensation of the inmates.

f. A modification of the existing wage system in so far as it applies to the Eastern Penitentiary, the Western Penitentiary and the Huntingdon Reformatory.

These recommendations, if put into effect, would, the commission firmly believes, do much to insure proper treatment to all the prisoners of the State. No attempt has been made by the commission to strike out into untried fields. The bills are but an effort to put into tangible form the experience and thought of present day students and administrators. They leave untouched the many good features of the Pennsylvania prison system. For example, the commission has made no recommendations in connection with the institutions for juvenile delinquents. It believes that these are on the whole doing excellent work and feels that the present task of the State is to afford to adult offenders something of the same opportunity for reformation that is now open to juvenile delinquents.

AN ACT

Providing a system of employment and compensation for the inmates of the Eastern Penitentiary, Western Penitentiary and the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, and for such other correctional institutions as shall be hereafter established by the Commonwealth, and making an appropriation therefor.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same:

Section 1. All persons sentenced to the Eastern or the Western Penitentiary, or to the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, or to any other correctional institution hereafter established by the Commonwealth, who are physically capable of such labor, shall be employed at hard labor, for not to exceed eight hours each day, other than Sundays and public holidays. Such hard labor shall be for the purpose of the manufacture and production of supplies for said institutions, or for the Commonwealth, or for any political division thereof, or for any public institution owned and managed and controlled by the Commonwealth or any political division thereof, or for the preparation and manufacture of building material for the construction or repair of any State institution, or in the work of such construction or repair, or for the purpose of industrial training and instruction, or partly for one and partly for the other of such purposes, or in the manufacture and production of crushed stone, brick, tile, and culvert pipe or other material, suitable for draining roads of the State, or in the preparation of road building and ballasting material.

Section 2. The Secretary of the State Board of Public Charities, a member of the board of prison inspectors of the Eastern Penitentiary designated by such board, a member of the board of prison inspectors of the Western Penitentiary designated by such board, a member of the board of managers of the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon designated by such board, and five citizens to be appointed by the Governor, by and with the consent of the Senate, one of whom shall be known and so designated by the Governor, as the Business Agent of the Commission, shall constitute the Prison Labor Commission, which commission shall perform the duties herein specified with reference to the regulation and supervision of the labor of inmates of the penitentiaries and reformatory, and other correctional institutions hereafter established by this Commonwealth, and for the disposal of the products of the labor of such inmates. The five citizens to be appointed by the Governor shall be appointed as follows: One for one year, one for two years, one for three years, one for four years, and one for five years. Their several successors shall each be appointed for a full term of five years, but vacancies occurring otherwise than by expiration of term shall be filled for the unexpired term only. The Governor may remove any of the commissioners for misconduct, incompetency or neglect of duty, after opportunity shall be given him or them to be heard upon written charges. Each member of the commission with the exception of the Business Agent shall receive an annual salary of one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) payable monthly and shall also be allowed his expenses actually and necessarily incurred in the discharge of his duties. The Business Agent of the Commission shall be a man skilled in the administration of business affairs and shall be the secretary of the Commission. He shall give his entire time to the work of the commission, paying special attention to the development of a market for prison-made goods, and to securing an output that will be satisfactory as to quality and price to the consumer of the product. He shall at all times be subject to the orders of the commission and act under their general direction. He shall receive an annual salary of seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500.00), payable monthly, and shall also be allowed his expenses actually and necessarily incurred in the discharge of his duties. The Prison Labor Commission is empowered to employ such clerks or other employes as are necessary for the proper conduct of its business at such salaries as shall be determined by the Commission.

Section 3. It shall be the duty of the Prison Labor Commission to classify the buildings, offices and institutions owned or managed and controlled by the State, or by the political divisions thereof, and fix and determine the styles, patterns, designs and qualities of the articles to be manufactured for such buildings, offices, and public institutions. So far as practicable, all supplies used in such building, offices and public institutions shall be uniform for each class. The styles, patterns, designs and qualities shall be such as can be manufactured in the reformatory and penitentiaries, and other correctional institutions hereafter established.

Section 4. The Prison Labor Commission shall assign in the penitentiaries and reformatory and other correctional institutions hereafter established, the industries to be carried on therein, having due regard to the location and convenience thereof with respect to other institutions to be supplied, to the machinery therein and the number and character of inmates.

Section 5. In November of each year, the Prison Labor Commission shall issue to the official or officials having lawful authority to purchase such article or articles a descriptive list of the styles, designs and qualities of said articles and materials; and the requisitions shall conform to the said list.

Section 6. Annually in December the officials having lawful authority to purchase such article or articles shall send to the Prison Labor Commission an estimate of the quantities of the articles and materials that will be needed during the ensuing calendar year by the Commonwealth or by the political subdivision or institutions for whom they are acting. Said estimates shall observe the styles, designs and qualities named in the descriptive list. If any special style is desired in considerable quantity, the estimate shall contain a request that the Prison Labor Commission arrange for the manufacture of such special articles as may be needed.

Section 7. The price of all articles and materials supplied by the prisons shall be fixed by the Prison Labor Commission and shall conform as nearly as may be to the wholesale market rates for similar goods manufactured outside of the prisons.

Section 8. In January of each year the Prison Labor Commission shall send to the auditor General, to the controllers, commissioners, auditors and treasurers or other proper officers of the several counties, and to the auditor, controller and treasurer or other proper officers of each city, borough, town and township, a list of the articles and materials that can be produced by the labor of prisoners for the use of public institutions, offices and departments of the Commonwealth, of the counties and of the cities, boroughs, towns and townships. No bills for any such articles or materials purchased for the use of said institutions, offices or departments, otherwise than from the Prison Labor Commission shall be approved, allowed or paid, unless it is accompanied by a certificate from the Prison Labor Commission, showing that a requisition therefor has been made and that it cannot supply the goods.

Section 9. For the purchase of material, equipment and machinery used in manufacturing industries, a special appropriation of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000.00) shall be made to the Prison Labor Commission, to be known as the manufacturing fund. Payment of such moneys shall be on requisition of the Commission, and on warrant of the Auditor General. Receipts from the sales of manufactured articles shall not be turned into the State Treasury, but shall be credited to said fund, to be used for the purchase of further materials, equipments, machinery and supplies for such industries, and the Business Agent shall make a full monthly report of the products, sales, receipts and disbursements of said industries to the Auditor General of the Commonwealth.

Section 10. The sum of fifty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby specifically appropriated to the Prison Labor Commission for the two fiscal years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen for the purpose of paying salaries, clerk hire, traveling expenses and contingent expenses.

Section 11. Hereafter an account shall be kept by the proper officers of the Western Penitentiary, the Eastern Penitentiary and the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, and the other correctional institutions hereafter established by the Commonwealth, of the labor performed by all prisoners under sentence in such institution.

In such account the prisoner shall be credited with wages for the time he is actually engaged in work, the rate of such wage and the amount credited to each to be regulated at the discretion of the Prison Labor Commission or such persons as they may designate. In no case shall the amount be less than ten cents nor over fifty cents for each day of labor actually performed. The difference in the rate of compensation shall be based both upon the pecuniary value of the work performed, and also on the willingness, industry and good conduct of such prisoner.

Section 12. Three-fourths of the amount credited to each prisoner, or the entire amount if the prisoner so wishes, shall constitute a fund for the relief of any person or persons dependent upon such prisoner, and shall be paid, upon the order of the Prison Labor Commission, to the person or persons establishing such dependency to the satisfaction of said board, at such time and times as said board may order.

Section 13. In case a prisoner has no person or persons dependent upon him, the sums so credited shall be invested for the benefit of such prisoner under the rules and regulations of the Prison Labor Commission; and the sum so credited, together with the accrued interest of the same, shall be paid to the said prisoner one-third on discharge of prisoner, one-third in three months after his discharge and the balance in six months after his discharge.

Section 14. All wages paid under the provisions of this act shall be charged to the manufacturing fund provided for in section ten of this act.

Section 15. The Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings shall provide adequate offices and quarters for the Commission in the State Capitol or elsewhere, and shall on requisition of the Commission furnish all such books, stationery, furniture supplies, et cetera as may be needed to conduct properly the affairs of the Commission.

Section 16. The printing and binding necessary for the proper performance of the duties of the Commission and for the proper preservation of the records of the Commission shall be done by the State Printer upon order of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding upon requisition of the Commission.

Section 17. Any officer who wilfully refuses or neglects to comply with any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be liable to a penalty of not more than five hundred dollars for each offense.

Section 18. Section one of an act approved the eighteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven, entitled "An Act limiting the number of inmates of State prisons, penitentiaries, State reformatories and other penal institutions within the State of Pennsylvania to be employed in manufacturing goods therein, and prohibiting the use of machinery in manufacturing of said goods;" Section one of an act approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand eight hundred ninety-nine, entitled "An Act amending Sections one and two of an act, entitled 'An Act limiting the number of inmates of State prisons, penitentiaries, State reformatories and other penal institutions within the State of Pennsylvania to be employed in manufacturing goods therein, and prohibiting the use of machinery in manufacturing said goods;' " and Section three of an act approved the eighteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven, entitled "An Act limiting the number of inmates of State prisons, penitentiaries, State reformatories and other penal institutions within the State of Pennsylvania to be employed in manufacturing goods therein, and prohibiting the use of machinery in manufacturing said goods," are hereby specifically repealed. Section four of an act approved the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred eighty-three, entitled "An Act to abolish the contract system in the prisons and reformatory institutions of the State of Pennsylvania, and to regulate the wages of the inmates," in so far as it applies to convicts under control of State officers, and to inmates of reformatory institutions, is hereby repealed. All other acts or special acts inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

Section 3. Upon the approval of this act, a commission shall be created which shall be composed of five reputable citizens of the Commonwealth to be appointed by the Governor, not more than three of whom shall be members of the same political party, and such commission is hereby authorized by a majority vote, to select suitable sites for the State Farms. The commission shall serve without compensation, but all of their expenses actually and necessarily incurred shall be paid. The commission shall purchase six tracts of not more than five hundred acres of land in each tract, the title to which shall be good and sufficient and approved by the attorney general, and such title shall be taken in the name of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 4. In the selection of sites, the commission shall take into consideration the objects and purposes of the institutions and all or as many as practicable of the following enumerated advantages and resources; the land selected and purchased shall be of varied topography with natural resources and advantages for varied forms of husbandry, fruit growing, and stock raising, for brick making and for the preparation of road and paving material, and shall have good railroad, drainage, sewage and water facilities.

Section 5. Upon the selection of locations and sites and the purchase of land for the State Farms, the Governor shall appoint a board of trustees for each of said institutions, to consist of five members, who shall be reputable citizens of Pennsylvania, not more than three of whom shall belong to the same political party. Such trustees shall serve without compensation, but their expenses actually and necessarily incurred shall be paid. One member of each board shall be appointed for one year, one for two years, and one for three years, one for four years and one for five years. Thereafter all appointments shall be for a term of five years respectively. In case of a vacancy from any cause, the appointment to fill such vacancy shall be made by the Governor for the unexpired term. The Governor may remove any of the trustees for misconduct, incompetency or neglect of duty, after opportunity shall be given him or them to be heard upon written charges.

Section 6. All buildings constructed in pursuance of this act shall be plain and inexpensive in character and the labor in constructing such buildings, improvements and facilities shall be supplied by the persons committed to the institution or confined in the State penal and reformatory institutions so far as found practicable.

The boards of trustees shall procure all necessary materials, erect and equip such buildings, employ such skilled labor as cannot be furnished by the prisoners committed thereto or by prisoners in the State penitentiaries or the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, and provide all proper facilities for their use and for the practical use of the institution.

When the board of trustees of the State Farms shall have made all preliminary arrangements for the construction of the buildings and equipment, they shall notify the Governor, who shall issue a proclamation thereon, and thereafter prisoners having more than thirty days to serve may be transferred to the State Farm from any jail or workhouse in that district on the order of the Governor.

Section 7. The boards of inspectors of the Pennsylvania State Penitentiaries and of the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon on request from a board of trustees of a State Farm, are authorized to transfer to a State Farm from their respective institutions any prisoners of special or mechanical ability therein who may be found in the judgment of such board and the board of trustees of the State Farm suitable for the purpose, and provide transportation and proper guards therefor; and while such prisoners remain at State Farm, they shall be subject to the orders of the managers or inspectors of the institution from which they were transferred as to their return, and in all other respects except as to discipline and government. While at such State Farm they shall be under the control, discipline and government and subject to the orders of the board of trustees of the State Farm and its executive officers.

The prisoners transferred for the purpose of supplying labor as aforesaid from the State Penitentiaries and the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, shall be apportioned as to number by agreement of the managers or inspectors of said institutions respectively, and in case they cannot agree thereon, the Governor is authorized to determine the number and kind of mechanics or prisoners of special ability to be transferred from each of said institutions and cause the same to be so transferred.

The expense of transportation and transfer of the prisoners used in the construction of building and equipment to and from the state farms shall be paid on bills rendered to the Auditor General out of the fund provided for the establishment of the State Farms.

The maintenance of such prisoners as are transferred from the State Penitentiary or Reformatory shall be paid by the institution from which they are transferred; but the cost of such maintenance in excess of the average per capita cost of the prisoners at the institution from which they are transferred shall be refunded to the said institution from the fund appropriated for the State Farm.

Section 8. When any State Farm shall be equipped with buildings and other facilities sufficient in the opinion of its board of trustees to receive prisoners, such board of trustees shall notify the governor and upon such notification the Governor shall by proclamation declare the State Farm ready to receive prisoners; and thereafter it shall be the duty of all judges of courts of record of that district to commit thereto all persons convicted of the violation of any law of this State, the punishment for which now consists of imprisonment in any county jail or workhouse. All such commitments shall be to the State Farm of the respective district.

Section 9. The cost of transportation of persons committed to the State Farms shall be paid by the counties respectively from which the prisoner is committed and the sheriff of the county shall receive the same mileage and fees for prisoners committed to the State Farm as are now allowed by law for transporting prisoners committed to the State Penitentiaries and Reformatory. When any prisoner is discharged from a State Farm, the superintendent or warden thereof shall procure for him a railroad ticket to any point to which said prisoner may desire to go, not farther from said State Farm than the point from which he was sentenced, and it shall be the duty of the superintendent or warden or his duly authorized agent, to accompany the prisoner to the railroad station, deliver the ticket to the proper railroad conductor and formally release the prisoner on the train which he takes for his destination.

Section 10. In case, at any time it shall be found that a State Farm can accommodate and care for more prisoners than are of the class above designated, the Governor may order to be transferred to the State Farm, from the State Penitentiaries or the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon, or both such prisoners as he and the board of such institutions shall find can be better cared for at the State Farm. Such prisoners so transferred may be returned to the institution from which they were transferred whenever the Governor and the board of trustees of the State Farm shall find such return for the benefit of the prisoners of the institution.

Section 11. It shall be the purpose of the State Farm to employ the prisoners committed or transferred thereto, in work on or about the buildings and farm and in growing produce and supplies for its own use and for the other institutions of the State; in preparation of road material; and in making brick, tile, paving material and such other products or material as may be found practicable for the use of the State or any political subdivision therein and for the proper and healthful employment of such prisoners.

Section 12. For the purchase of the land contemplated in this act, there is hereby appropriated for the use of the commission and boards of trustees created by this act, the sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000.00), or so much thereof as may be necessary, twenty thousand dollars ($20,000.00) of which shall be made available June first, one thousand nine hundred fifteen, for the taking of options, and the balance January first, one thousand nine hundred sixteen. For the erection of buildings and other construction and development contemplated by this act and the running expenses of the commission and the boards and the salaries and expenses of executive officers of the institution and the expense incident to the transfer of prisoners to the institution, the sum of eighty thousand dollars ($80,000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated to be available June first, one thousand nine hundred fifteen. Any part of the appropriation for the purchase of land which shall not be needed therefor shall be placed in the fund for the erection of buildings and other construction and development. Payment of such moneys shall be on requisition of the commission, and on warrant of the Auditor General.

Section 13. The six boards of trustees acting as a body shall adopt and may amend or revoke or add to at any time rules governing the State Farms. Such rules shall be subject to the approval of the Governor and shall not be inconsistent with the constitution or laws of the Commonwealth or of the United States.

Section 14. Each board of trustees shall appoint a superintendent of the farm and such other employes as the board may deem proper, all of whom shall be bona fide citizens of Pennsylvania. The compensation and duties of the superintendent and employes shall be fixed by the board.

The Organization of the State-Use System.

Definition: The State-Use System of employing prisoners can be briefly defined as that system under which the State itself, through its own agencies, undertakes the work of production and then, in its capacity as a consumer, uses all the goods which it has thus created. It differs from the State-Account System only in the fact that the goods are not sold on the open market but are taken direct by the State or its political divisions, usually at current prices. To the extent that it can in this way satisfy its own wants, the State binds itself not to purchase elsewhere.

Variations of the State-Use System in Practice:—It can be easily seen that wide variations might be possible in the extent to which a State might adopt this system. As a matter of fact, such is actually the case. In the paragraphs which follow, the most important cases are cited for the reason that they offer a partial explanation of the diversity in organization which is found in the States having this system of employing prisoners.

Probably the simplest situation is where part of the inmates of an institution are employed in growing vegetables or in making clothing for themselves or in repairing or constructing buildings forming a part of the institution in which they are confined. No goods are sold to other institutions; everything is used on the spot. The inmates who are not employed in this way may form by far the larger per cent. of the total number and may conceivably be worked under any of the other systems.

A system somewhat more developed is seen in the case of a prison or reformatory which furnishes some one or two products, as coal or coke, to various State institutions. Although under the State-Use System, the State is always in the broad sense both producer and consumer, yet in the situation which is here depicted, in the narrow sense at least, unlike the previous case there is a differentiation of producer and consumer. Outside tastes have now to be consulted, and the producing institution enters the market, but with customers guaranteed to it by the State.

The next and last stage in the evolution of the State-Use System, in so far as it has yet been developed, is reached when a great variety of goods are produced and distributed throughout the State to the institutions which can use them. This situation does not differ from the one outlined in the preceding paragraph except in the greater number of goods that are produced. While the difference is only one of degree, the problem of administration is more complex since the quality and style of the goods needed is not so easily determined or so easily produced.

A single institution has been assumed in all that has yet been said. This assumption is justified for two reasons. In the first place, it corresponds to the facts in some States; and in the second place, the evolution of the system can be best explained in this way. It is, of course, true that in some States, the prisoners of two or more institutions are employed under the State-Use System; and while this involves, in some cases, additional machinery of organization, such a situation can not logically be looked upon as a fourth stage in the development of the State-Use System. It constitutes merely a variation of any one of three stages already described.

Management of Institutions: There is no one form of management of the institutions for delinquents in the United States. The practice varies greatly from State to State, and a detailed study of the whole question would undoubtedly show great differences along many lines. For the purpose, however, of this chapter, all minor differences may be omitted and attention focused on the two main forms of prison management—centralized and decentralized. In some States each institution has its own board of managers or trustees, while in others all are under one board. There are, moreover, two forms of centralized management. The central board may have control merely of the prisons or it may also manage other State institutions as hospitals, asylums, etc. Each form of management has, as will be presently shown, its influence on the organization of the State-Use System.

Essential features of the State-Use System: The problem of organization has to do largely with two things. Into whose hands is to be entrusted the production and sale of the goods; and who is to decide the styles and designs? Ordinarily these two functions are left in the same hands. The free manufacturer who produces for the market also decides on the styles and designs; but it must be remembered that the prisons are not producing for the market but for customers who must buy. Hence it is but reasonable for those who must buy to have a hand in determining the kind of goods which they must purchase. The result is that, in justice to all, either the group that decides on the styles and designs ought to be different from the group that controls the production and sale, which would naturally be made up of prison representatives, or if one body exercises both functions it should be composed of representatives of both the producing and consuming institutions.

Effect of Number of Institutions and Form of Management on Organization of State-Use System: It is clear from what has already been said that the organization of the State-Use System would be little affected in the first stage of its development by either the number of prisons or the form of management. Since in the first stage, the same institution consumes the goods that produces them, under either form of management, whether one institution or several, the board in control of production would be ipso factor representative of the consuming interests.

In the second stage of development, the situation is not so simple. Both the number of producing institutions and the form of management is of consequence. Inasmuch as the second stage differs only from the third stage in the variety of goods that are produced, what follows applies equally to both the second and third stages, although it is easy to understand that there is not so great a necessity of consulting the tastes of the consumers. if there is but one commodity supplied and that a staple one as coal or coke.

The combinations of management and number which might result are five:—

1. One prison under its own board.
2. One prison under a board also controlling other State institutions.
3. Two or more prisons, each under its own board.
4. Two or more prisons under one board also controlling other state institutions.
5. Two or more prisons under one board.

As will be presently shown, combinations No. 1 and No. 5 and combinations No. 2 and No. 4 are, from the point of view of the organization of the State-Use System, practically the same.

Keeping in mind the essential features of the State-Use System and the fact that the present discussion relates only to the second and third stages of its evolution, it is clearly apparent that the only additional machinery that is needed for the organization, of the system, in a State represented by combination No. 1, is some board or group of officials to represent the consuming interest. If, as has been pointed out, but a single commodity is offered for sale, the consumers may need no such body to represent them. The production and sale can be carried on by a board of management and the consuming institutions can trust to it to supply a standard article.

If, as in combination No. 2 the prison is managed by a board controlling other State institutions, no additional machinery is needed at all, for, since the board represents both the consuming institutions and the producing one, to it may be safely entrusted the production of goods and the determining of styles and designs.

The situation in a State like Pennsylvania, portrayed by combination No. 3, calls for the greatest additions to the existing machinery. Not only is it necessary to create a group representing the consuming interests which will determine styles and designs, but there is also necessary a board of some sort that will apportion the industries among the various prisons and act as the selling agent of them all. One board can be made to serve, providing it is made up of representatives of both the interested parties.

Combination No. 4 differs in no wise from combination No. 2 with the exception that there are two or more producing institutions instead of one. This fact, however, does not alter the situation as the controlling board can distribute the industries among the prisons and direct the production in them as well as it could in the case of one institution.

Likewise, combination No. 5 is the same as No. 1 in its effect on the organization of the State-Use System. What is needed here is the creation of some board to look after the interests of the consuming institutions by determining the styles and designs of the goods.

Summary: No attempt has been made in this discussion of the State-Use system to do more than account for the main differences or organization. In general. it will be found that the existing organization of the State-Use System can be accounted for by reference either to one or all of the following facts—the stage of its development, the number of producing institutions or their form of management. In the table which is attached, all of the States in which provision by law is made for the State-Use System have been tabulated in such a way that the main features of the organization of the State-Use System can be seen at a glance. Attention is called to a few of the most prominent examples of the State-Use System, which illustrate types of organization.

In Massachusetts, the prisons, with the exception of the State farm, are all under one management. This board, however, does not control the other State institutions; consequently the styles and designs are determined by another board directly representative of the consumers.

The Ohio Board of Administration controls both the prisons and the other State institutions. As both interests are thus represented in the same board, the production of the goods and the determination of the styles are left to it.

The prisons of New Jersey are under separate boards, as in Pennsylvania; as a result a new board was created composed of representatives of the two interests involved.

The Kansas State Penitentiary supplies coal to other institutions. There is no board to look after the intersets of the consumers, nor is there any need for one since the commodity furnished is a staple one.

Prison Labor Legislation in Pennsylvania.

I. Introduction.

A. Purpose.—The aim of this resume is to represent the results of an investigation of legislation in Pennsylvania relating to prison labor. There is not included any survey of the conditions induced, or affected by the laws, except as those conditions may be reflected in the statutes themselves.

The study of the enactments regarding prison labor was made with special attention to the following subjects: (1) Management (who may be employed, where, by whom directed); (2) Kind of work; (3) Financing (purchase of raw materials, disposition of products); (4) Application of profits.

B. Evolution in Type of Institution and Corresponding Influence on Prison Labor.—In order to appreciate the purpose and effect of legislation dealing with prison labor one should first have a general conception of the kind of institutions existing at the time, as a marked influence was exerted on prison labor by the changing nature of the institutions.

In the evolution of the penal institution in Pennsylvania, there have been three eras, distinguished by the type of institution. (a) 1676-1818. Gaols or local prisons were the only institutions existing during this time. The buildings were generally small and intended principally for confinement. (b) 1818-1871. The Penitentiary was pre-eminent throughout this period. Both of the State penitentiaries were established at the beginning of the period on the principle of separate and solitary confinement, which has since become known as the "Philadelphia System." The buildings were constructed so as to provide for every inmate a separate cell to which adjoined an individual, walled yard. With solitary confinement rigidly enforced, the method and kind of labor was practically determined within narrow confines by that principle alone. Power machinery, such as was in use at that time in general industry, was practically impossible under such conditions. The factory system was thereby excluded.

In 1831 a prison for Philadelphia was established on the same general principle of separate and solitary confinement as had been adopted for the penitentiaries.

Prior to this the creation of the House of Refuge of Philadelphia in 1826 showed a purpose to segregate different classes of delinquents.

(c) 1871-1915. Reformatory institutions were provided for in this era. As will be shown later, the House of Correction of Philadelphia (1871), the Huntingdon Reformatory (1881), the county workhouses (1895), the new Western Penitentiary (1911), and the State Industrial Home for Women (1913), because of the way they are planned, permit in the absence of special limitations, a wide diversity of industries.

II. Period of Unrestricted Prison Labor.

1676-1883. In speaking of this period as one in which there were no positive enactments restricting labor, it must be borne in mind, as has been indicated in the first division of this article, that the nature of the institution itself might have the same effect as a positive restriction.

The Duke of York's Laws (1), as first published, provided for "a pair of stockes for offenders" in every town, and prisons and pillorys in those towns where the several courts of sessions were held. These laws were in force in the territory afterwards comprised within the limits of Pennsylvania from 1676 to 1682.

In the "laws agreed upon in England" (2) there was a provision that all prisons should be workhouses. This became operative in Pennsylvania in 1682. And the Great Laws (3) provided that when the penalty of an offense was a fine or imprisonment at hard labor, the magistrate might inflict either, at his option. An Assembly held in Philadelphia in 1683 made it incumbent on every county to build "a sufficient house, at least twenty foot square, for restraint, correction, labor and punishment of all such persons as shall be thereunto committed by law." (4)

Although there were these early authorizations for the establishment of labor in the prisons, the laws made no provision for any system whatsoever, nor did they even intimate under what conditions or plans the offenders were to be employed.

In 1790 there was passed "an act to reform the penal laws" (5a). This act was, in comparison with previous laws, very well considered and comprehensive. Some of its provisions are in force today. This law changed the punishment for certain crimes to forfeiture of property and the "addition of unremitted solitude to laborious employment." (5b)

The Commissioners of the County of Philadelphia were to cause to be erected cells in the yard of the county gaol in which were to be confined "the most hardened and atrocious offenders (5c) who had been sentenced to hard labor. The "residue of the gaol" was to be used for confining the female convicts and all others that could not be accommodated in the cells in the yard. All the inmates were required to be kept separate and apart from each other as much as the convenience (5d) of the building and the nature of the employment would admit. (5e)

The work was to be carried on under the direction of the keeper of the gaol and the Board of Inspectors. The employment was to be conducted in the gaol and cells, and if suitable work could be found, in the yard (5f). The inmates were to be kept "to labor of the hardest and most servile kind, in which the work is least liable to be spoiled by ignorance, neglect or obstinancy, and where the materials are not easily embezzled or destroyed." Provision was made for instruction in the labor, when necessary. (5g).

The offenders were to be employed every day in the year, except Sundays; the hours of work varied with the season. In November, December and January they were not to exceed eight hours, in February and October, nine hours; and ten hours during the rest of the year. (5h)

The keeper (with approval of two Inspectors) obtained the materials necessary through the county treasurer. The products of the labor were sold by the keeper, who obtained thereon a commission. (5i)

A separate account was kept with every convict wherein he was to be charged with the expenses of clothing and substance, and a proportionate part of the cost of raw materials. He was credited with the amount received by reason of his labor. If his amount was greater than his expenses he received the benefit of one-half the excess. (5j)

Practically the same provisions were applicable to the counties other than Philadelphia (5k). In the counties the product was to be disposed of, as directed by the county commissioners. (5l)

An act of 1807 (6) penalized commissioners for not furnishing materials upon the requisition of the jailer. So that however well conceived the act may have been, this feature does not seem to have been welcomed enthusiastically by the county commissioners.

It is to be noted that so far the legislation dealt only with county or local jails. There were as yet no State penal institutions.

The act of 1790 marks the real beginning of prison labor. It seemed to contemplate the public account system. Although it is not to be doubted that there was at this time a desire to reform the offender, the controlling motive perceptible throughout the act seems to have been to punish him in such a way as to deter others from wrong doing, and the kind of employment was determined with this in view.

The era of State penal institutions began in 1818 by the establishment of the Western Penitentiary (7), closely followed by that of the Eastern Penitentiary (8) in 1821.

In both institutions the principle of separate and solitary confinement was made mandatory. Reference has already been made to the effect of this provision on prison labor.

In the act of 1826 establishing the House of Refuge of Philadelphia, the managers were directed to make annual report to the legislature of the disposition made of the children, "by instructing or employing them in the said house of refuge, or by binding them out as apprentices" (9). In 1950 (10) the same provisions were enacted for the House of Refuge of Western Pennsylvania. By not making more specific provisions as to the employment of the inmates, the former act left the consideration of methods to the discretion of the managers, although, as has been shown, it authorized the lease system.

By an act of 1829 (11a) it was provided that "instead of the penitentiary punishments heretofore prescribed," the person convicted of certain crimes should be sentenced to suffer punishment by separate or solitary confinement at labor in the penitentiaries,, which had been established.

The prisoners "shall be kept singly and separately at labor in the cells or work yards of said prisons." (11b).

The Inspectors of the penitentiaries were authorized to direct the manner in which the raw materials should be purchased, and the articles manufactured, sold. Accounts are to be kept of all expenditures and receipts (11c). Here again we have the public account system.

A prison for the City and County of Philadelphia. to accommodate three hundred on the principle of solitary confinement, was provided for in 1831 (12). The same plan for labor was to be followed as had previously been established in the penitentiaries.

In 1835 it was made the duty of the Inspectors of the jail thus established, "to make the necessary contracts for the support and employment of the persons confined in said prison, and to direct the manner in which they shall be employed, and the articles manufactured shall be sold" (13). This would seem by inference, to authorize either the contract system or the public account system.

The expense of maintaining prisoners in the penitentiaries is charged to the respective counties from which the prisoners are sent, in proportion to the number of convicts received. The act of 1844 (14) provides that any excess that may remain after paying the expense of maintenance shall be paid into the State Treasury.

Inspectors, sheriffs, and persons in charge of penitentiaries or jails are required to report annually "how the prisoners are classified, their different trades, and occupations, if any, while in such penitentiary or jail; whether an opportunity is afforded to the prisoner for doing overwork, or for receiving in any other manner the profits of their labor" (15). This will be seen to give wide discretionary powers to the person in charge.

In 1857 (16) and 1858 (17) the managers of the houses of refuge in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties were empowered to indenture the inmates of those institutions to service during minority, after first having obtained the consent of the inmates.

In 1869 (18), the congregation of prisoners in the Western Penitentiary was allowed for the "purpose of labor. learning and religious services." This removed a great impediment in the management of the labor, and permitted it to be carried on upon a more extensive scale under the factory system.

The Philadelphia House of Correction, established in 1871 (19a), marks a great advance in constructive legislation providing for the administration of the labor problem in penal institutions. The persons to be confined are limited to certain classes (19b), but all the inmates are to be employed by the superintendent. A great diversity of occupations is provided (19c), but the controlling consideration still seems to be that the labor selected shall be profitable to the institution. As shown by the excerpt in the foot-notes, the act seems to authorize the lease system (quaere), the public account system, and the state-use system, except that to make the last effective there was lacking a provision requiring "the other public institutions" to purchase of the House of Correction, such goods as it could supply.

The prevailing thought until 1881 seemed to be that the prisoners should be made self-supporting, or, indeed, a source of profit. The work was selected not with the consideration of better equipping the inmate to support himself after his discharge, but chiefly for the purpose of enabling the institution or the State to reimburse itself for the expense to which the prisoner had put it. There was in 1847 (note 15 supra) an intimation that inmates might receive profits of their labor, but at no time was there a provision enacted that prisoners should receive any compensation.

The desire to reform offenders was first formulated in pronounced terms so that there could be no question as to the purpose. in the act of 1881 (20), establishing the Huntingdon Reformatory. The purpose of this institution is expressed in the act of 1887 (21), where also, it is provided that the employment of the inmates is to be such as will "be useful after discharge." This is the keynote in the establishment of institutions after this date.

During the period 1676-1883 prison labor developed and expanded. New institutions were established into which the system was introduced. The number of offenders employed under the State was also increased by drafting out of the local jails, the long term prisoners and putting them in the penitentiaries. No laws were passed for the purpose of restricting the employment of prison labor in any way.

III. Period of Restricted Prison Labor. .

1883-1914. The year 1883 was rather prolific with respect to prison labor (1). The contract system of labor was abolished (22) in all institutions under control of the State or receiving any appropriation from it. It would seem from this fact that the system had become widely prevalent.* Prisoners in penitentiaries are to be employed "for and in behalf of the State"; those in reformatories, for and in behalf of such institutions; and those in county institutions (prisons, workhouses, and reformatories), for and in behalf of their respective counties. This wrought a radical change in the method of employment. (2) Convicts are to receive wages (23). (3) Convict-made goods are to be branded whether made for the institution or upon (unexpired) contracts (24).

In 1891 the number of hours in a working day in penal institutions was limited to eight. (25)

An act of 1895 (26) makes it lawful for county commissioners with approval of grand juries to erect workhouses in which the prisoners are to be kept at "useful employment such as may be suited to his or her age and capacity, and such as shall be most profitable to the institution and tend to promote the best interests of the party." * * * *

In 1897 (27) the use of machines operated by any power other than hand or foot power, was prohibited in penal institutions in the manufacture of goods that are made elsewhere in the State, and the employment of more than thirty-five per centum of the whole number of inmates of any penal institution was prohibited.

An act passed in 1899 (28) "authorizing the employment of male prisoners of the jails and workhouses" of the State, and permitting this employment to be on public highways. The money received "for labor done within such jails or workhouses" shall be credited in the account of the institutions.

In the same year 1899 (29) the restricting act of 1897 was amended, seemingly for the purpose of clearing of a small point which was in controversy.

An act passed in 1901 (39) is interesting because it is one of two laws in which the legislature specifies the exact allowance that is to be made for the labor of a prisoner. When a county prison board permitted work to be done on the streets of the borough in which the jail was located, that borough was to pay to the county treasurer thirty-five cents a day.

An act of 1913 (31) providing that the wages earned by prisoners, who have been committed for non-support shall be payable to certain dependents, allows sixty-five cents a day. It would seem therefore, that the wage value of prison labor has risen about eighty-five per centum in a dozen years.

*See Pennsylvania Legislative Documents, Vol III, 1878, Doc. No. 21.

Some insight into the effect of the law prohibiting the use of machinery, or that restricting the number of inmates to be employed (or of both) is shown by an act of 1901 (32) authorizing the sale by the State reformatories of any machinery that "shall become unserviceable owing to the discontinuance of any manufacture thereof carried on in said institution."

The act of 1907 relating to jails and workhouses makes it lawful for prison boards to require able-bodied male prisoners confined under sentence to perform eight hours of manual labor daily, except Sundays or holidays. The labor to be done is to be classified and established by the prison boards (33a) which have authority to compel the labor to be done on public highways (33b) within their respective counties. The boards are required to purchase all materials and tools, which are to be paid for by the county treasurer, upon warrants drawn by the county commissioners (33c). Guards are required while the prisoners are employed outside of the prisons (33d). This act does not affect the method of employment within the prisons (33e). Although authorizing labor on highways, the act still operates as a restriction on the kind of work.

An act of 1909 (34) creates a board of inspectors of the jail or county prison in counties having a population between 150,000 and 250,000, and provides for the appointment of a warden who, instead of the sheriff, shall reside in the building.

In 1911 because of congested conditions in the Wsetern Penitentiary (35a) authority was given for the purchase of a tract in a rural district for a new site for the penitentiary. It was provided that as far as practicable, the work should be performed by the inmates of the institution (35b). In 1913 (36) authority was given to purchase live stock and farming implements. The construction of this new penitentiary by its inmates is an example of a modification of the state-use system, known as the public works and ways system. The work on the public highways (supra 33b) is another illustration.

Congregation in the Eatsern Penitentiary was allowed for the "purpose of worship, labor, learning and recreation" by the act of 1913 (37). It is rather remarkable that this privilege should not have been granted until forty-four years after a similar right had been given the Western Penitentiary.

The same legislature (38) provided for the Penal Commission that is making the report of which this history of the legislation is a part.

The legislature of 1913 also provided for the establishment of a State Industrial Home for Women (39), which is to be quite similar, in its purpose to the Huntingdon Reformatory. The industrial reformatory embodies the most advanced ideas of penology shown in Pennsylvania legislation.

The last period (1883-1914) shows an apparent conflict between the desire to protect free labor from the direct competition of prison labor, and the desire to alleviate the present condition of the prisoner and prepare him for a more useful life after his discharge. The contract system received its death blow, thus making the exploitation of prison labor less probable. Just as the first period 1676-1883 showed the extension of prison labor, the last period emphatically shows a series of checks, curbing the free production of goods within prisons and thereby militating against the choice of occupation because of their value to the delinquent as well as to the State. These restrictions have been seen to apply to: (1) the method of employment (abolition of the contract system); (2) the kind of labor in which the prisoners may be employed (prohibition of power machinery); and (3) the amount of goods that may be produced (limitation on number of inmates employed).

The problem in Industrial Penology in Pennsylvania is to devise a system that, while conserving the interests of free labor, will permit adequate methods of employment conducive to the reformation of the prisoner and beneficial to the State. The solution proposed by the Commission is the establishment of the State-Use System of employing prisoners.

The following extract is instructive:

Whereas, ——— by the 39th sec. of the constitution of this state, it is declared, "That to deter more effectually for the commission of crimes, by continued visible punishment of long duration, and to make sanguinary punishments less necessary, houses ought to be provided for punishing, by hard labour, those who shall be convicted of crimes not capital, wherein the criminal shall be employed for the benefit of the public, or for reparation of injuries done to private persons." And whereas the laws heretofore made for the purpose of carrying the said provisions of the constitution into effect have in some degree failed of success, from the exposure of the offenders employed at hard labour to public view, and from the communication with each other not being sufficiently restrained within the places of confinement; and it is hoped that the addition of unremitted solitude to laborious employment, as far as it can be effected, will contribute as much reform as to deter: 2 Sm. The contract system of labor shall not exist in any form whatsoever in said reformatory, but the prisoners shall be employed by the Commonwealth. Townships and Cities. A number of acts give to townships and cities power to set at work on roads, streets, or elsewhere all able-bodied paupers, or vagrants found within the jurisdiction of townships or cities. Cities are also given a similar power in the case of default of payment of fines imposed for violations of ordinances.

Effect of Unemployment.

A brief scrutiny of the figures relative to the employment of prisonrs in Pennsylvania reveals the fact that detention in idleness is the fate that awaits the majority of convicted criminals in Pennsylvania. Probably no State in the Union has as many idle prisoners as does our own State. The seriousness of this situation can not be over emphasized.

From the financial point of view no policy could be more silly than that of supporting in idleness the thousands of prisoners which make up the never-ending stream of humanity that pours through our penal institutions. The combined plants represent an enormous outlay of capital, and the annual maintenance cost alone lays a burden of no mean magnitude on the tax-payers of the State. This policy of idleness has no justification either in theory or in fact. It is partly the result of the attempt to eliminate the competition of prison-made goods, and partly the inevitable outcome of our present system of institution for misdemeanants.

But the financial point of view is by no means the deciding factor. If it could be shown, as in the case of the institutions for juvenile delinquents, that the entire time of these unfortunate members of society was spent in ways certain to benefit them physically, mentally and morally to the lasting good of society, no one would object to the size of the bill. Unfortunately, no such rosy picture of our institutions can be accepted as true to the facts. Here and there, exceptional wardens or keepers have tried to do this very thing, but they have been frightfully handicapped by the law or by the nature of the institutions under their charge. Great credit must be given them, but they are the type of men who need not praise but help, which the legislature alone can give.

What can be said in defense of a system which condemns a man to complete idleness in a cell! No more diabolical puishment could be invented. It is a sentence to gradual dissolution and decay. It means the physical, mental and, in many cases, the moral degeneration of the prisoner. After such a condition has been arrived at, is it any wonder that a prisoner returns to crime and becomes a recidivist. Instead of profiting by the discipline of work, he loses his desire to work and comes to the conclusion that society must owe him a living, a perfectly natural conclusion in view of his experience as a boarder of the State from whom nothing was expected.

But perhaps the greatest danger in this policy of idleness lies in its effect on family life. Many prisoners have been, prior to their conviction, members of a family group the support of which has rested largely or entirely on their shoulders. Compelled to endure months or perhaps years of inactivity, with no chance to contribute through their effort to the economic welfare of their family group, they must resign themselves to the fate which has overtaken it. Private or public charity must come forward and take up the burden or become an unwilling witness of a disheartening struggle on the part of the remaining members to obtain a livelihood. When the State openly and with intent breaks the economic bond which unites members of a family group, it has no right to criticise the results of this policy which appear in the various forms of desertion, divorce and laxness in morals. The opportunity to work and the right to the products of his labor ought to be inviolate rights of every prisoner, if not for his sake. then for that of his family and for that, above all, of the State.

The Jail Problem.

The recommendations of the commission with reference to the county jails or prisons may seem on the surface to be of a slightly contradictory nature. On the one hand, the commission has drafted an act providing for the county-use system of employing prisoners, while on the other hand it has drawn up a plan which if adopted, would to a large degree make the county jails and prisons mere detention places for witnesses and untried prisoners. Rightly understood, however, these two recommendations are in no sense opposing measures but form parts of one consistent plan which the commision has all along had in mind.

The commission believes that the county jails or prisons should be replaced by industrial farms located in places easy of access to the surrounding counties and managed entirely by the State. The commission realizes, however, that two or three years must elapse before such farms would be ready to receive inmates; and, wishing to remove all excuse which county authorities might have for not employing their prisoners in the meantime, it has offered as a temporary expedient a plan by which all prisoners in jails and county prisons could be employed, if county authorities deemed it advisable. The commission does not believe, however, that any plan short of the adoption of the idea of State industrial farms will solve the problem of employing short term prisoners.

The jails of Pennsylvania do not at the present time. as is shown by the table on employment in Part I, come anywhere near employing the percentage of prisoners which the law allows; and a study of the jail situation in other States, where no legal restrictions are found, confirms the commission in its view that the real cause of unemployment in these institutions is to be sought in the nature of the institutions themselves rather than in any laws which seem to offer a barrier to the employment of the inmates.

The experience, moreover, of England supports this view which the commission holds. Nameless abuses in the jails of England were exposed by John Howard in the eighteenth century. Later, Elizabeth Fry took up the work of reform; but even she, in spite of her immense influence, felt that reform could only come through centralization of control and a decrease in the number of institutions. And this has been the course of reform there. From her time on, there was a steady growth of supervision and control of the central government which finally terminated in 1878 in the assumption by the state of the entire control of the jails. At once an enormous reduction in the number was made.

In the United States, the movement is well under way. New York has created a State industrial farm to which all tramps and vagrants will henceforth be sent. In Indiana, a State industrial farm for misdemeanants has been established by law, and to it will be sent all sentenced prisoners having to serve a term of more than thirty days imprisonment. The State of Iowa has signed a contract for the purchase of a site for the new industrial farm for misdemeanants and the coming legislature will be asked to authorize the purchase of four others. The commission is reliably informed that similar movements are on foot in other States, and the time seems propitious for the change in Pennsylvania.

The reasons which have influenced men to work for the abandonment of jails as places of detention for sentenced prisoners are two in number. In the first place, the county is entirely too small a unit of prison administration. The modern conception of a prison is a place that affords ample opportunity for work and exercise where trades can be taught and instruction given to those who need it, an institution. in short, which might be termed an industrial school for adults. Reference to the first table printed in this report shows what a large number of jails of Pennsylvania there are having a population under thirty. Some indeed have no inmates;. others but three or four. It is, therefore, useless to expect county authorities to establish a modern prison for the detention and reformation of criminals. Nor would it be wise for them to do so. Such institutions are costly, and for each county to think of running such a plant would be as foolish a policy as for each school district to have its own high school. One such institution would easily suffice for several counties; and, while it is a crime not to have any for the misdemeanants of the State, it would be perhaps a still greater one to saddle sixty-seven of these—one for each county—upon the backs of the tax-payers. Six would suffice.

The second reason for this attempt to replace the jails by state institutions is closely akin to the first. Just as the county is not able, on account of its size, to provide the kind of prison which public opinion now demands, so also it fails, and will continue to fail, to solve the question of management because a good superintendent is not to be had for the money which the county authorities, having in mind the small number of prisoners in the jail, are willing to offer. No one will deny that the man placed in charge of misdemeanants ought to be a capable and skilled administrator, having a clear understanding of the task before him and a vision of what it is possible to do under the circumstances. Only the most densely inhabited counties can pay the salary necessary to secure a superintendent of this sort. Moreover, such a man could easily take charge of six or seven hundred prisoners, perhaps even more.

As it is, the management of most jails is placed in the hands of the sheriff, an official who is chosen for every other reason than his ability to run a prison. His tenure of office is uncertain, and he makes little or no attempt to develop a policy of reform or advancement. In those counties where a keeper is appointed, the situation is little better. Small pay and little opportunity do not attract big men. As a rule, however, the county probably gets a better man than it deserves to have from the point of view, at least, of the compensation which it offers. Again, in many counties, there is little public discussion of prison matters and the management gets in a rut. It is far easier to bring the pressure of public opinion to bear on a few State institutions than it is on sixty-seven local jails or prisons which seem to many so unimportant, however great their possibilities for harm may be. The State can secure wide-awake administrators; and once they are placed in charge of such prisons or industrial farms as are called for in the act embodying the main recommendations of the commission in reference to jails, not only would the great problem of the proper employment of misdemeanants be solved, but the evils of jail life would be banished once for all.

The following extracts concerning county jails have been collected with the intention of presenting the opinion of men who are well qualified to speak of the jail as an institution for the detention of prisoners. As will be seen by reference to the names attached, the best thought of Europe and America on the jail problem is here represented. The quotations indicate most clearly and convincingly that the jail problem is not the problem of any one State but of practically all, and that sane reform is to be sought in the abandonment of the jails as places for the detention of sentenced prisoners and in the creation of State industrial farms to take their place.

"Report of the Indiana Penal Farm Commission.

"Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 10, 1913.

"To the Sixty-eighth General Assembly, State of Indiana.

"Gentlemen:—The penal farm commission appointed under authority of concurrent resolution No. 4, of the legislature of 1911, presents herewith its report and recommendations.

"The resolution referred to is as follows:

"Whereas, The prisoners sentenced to county jails in this State are usually maintained in idleness at the expense of the taxpayers, and

"Whereas, The treatment of short-sentenced prisoners in this county is believed a fruitful source of supply for our State Prison; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Lieutenant Governor appoint two hold-over Senators and the Speaker of the House appoint two members of the House, who together shall constitute a commission to investigate these questions and the desirability of the establishment of a State penal farm, or other State institution for the treatment and employment of such prisoners, and report at the next session of the General Assembly any recommendations which they may be able to make as to the solution of this problem.

"In compliance with this resolution, Senators J. J. Netterville and W. S. Commons and Representatives Mord Carter and Edwin Corr were appointed by the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House respectively. Later W. S. Commons, who resigned, was succeeded by Senator John A. Hibberd.

"The commission has studied the system under which the county jails of Indiana operate and the conditions surrounding the prisoners, and it has sought expert advice as to more advanced methods of dealing with petty crime. One of its members visited the penal farms at Guelph, Ontario, and Cleveland, Ohio, and attended the twenty-first session of the Indiana State Conference of Charities and Corrections at Logansport; two others attended the annual meeting of the American Prison Association at Balitimore, Maryland, and afterward visited the District of Columbia workhouse farm at Occoquan, Virginia. Several meetings have been held in Indianapolis, to which came by invitation State officials, representatives of various benevolent and commercial organizations and other interested citizens.

"Under the State's penal system, men found guilty of felony are sent to the State Prison or the Reformatory, unless released on probation or under suspended sentence. There, if they need it, they are given the rudiments of an education; they have opportunity to work at a trade; they are built up physically, mentally and morally; everything that the institutions can do to make them better citizens is done. In the course of time, under certain restrictions, they may be released on parole. Employment is found for them before they leave, and they are visited afterwards until the State is reasonably sure they will thereafter be law-abiding. The State has found this the wise and economical thing to do, for it is a matter of record that but a small proportion of the men paroled are again found behind prison bars.

"On the other hand, if the offense committed is what the law designates a misdemeanor, the offender is locked up in a county jail. As a law-breaker, he is no less a menace to society than the felon; in the majority of cases he is equally in need of reformatory treatment and equally capable of profiting by it; he is as much a state prisoner as the felon and should be under state control. Under our present system, however, he is committed to the custody of county officials and the records show that approximately fifteen thousand sentences, including laidout fines, are served annually in the county jails.

"Much has been said and written in condemation of county jails. Two years ago when the International Prison Congress met in Washington it made a tour of a considerable portion of this country, visiting courts and penal institutions. It was the general verdict, after conditions were observed, that in the matter of State penal and reformatory institutions the United States led the way, but that our jails and minor prisons were a reproach in the eyes of the world. There are jails in Indiana which are clean, sanitary and well managed, but they are the exception rather than the rule. In most of them the conditions are so unsanitary as to undermine the strength of any one confined for even a short time. Ordinarily the prisoners remain day after day in absolute idleness, mingling indiscriminately together. Even where the plan of construction permits it, little attempt is made to keep the younger inmates apart from those more experienced in vicious and criminal ways. No one who has studied the situation doubts that these institutions have been rightly named 'training schools of crime,' 'cess pools of moral contagion,' 'the disgrace of modern civilization.'

"The history of Indiana jails convinces us that it is futile to expect any improvement in them, other than in physical condition, unless there is brought about a radical change in the system under which they operate. They are designed originally as places of temporary detention. That is the only purpose for which they should be used. Convicted law-breakers should be taken charge of by the State, unless the sentence be a very short one. The constitution of Indiana declares that the penal code shall be founded on principles of reformation, and what the State is doing in this direction for its felons is most commendable. It is imperative that something of a like nature shall be done for misdemeanants if criminals are not to be manufactured more rapidly than the State can hope to reform them.

"In marked contrast with county jails there are what are known as penol farms, many of which are in successful operation. They are common in Europe. Perhaps the best known is that established by the government of Switzerland on a 2,000-acre tract of land near Witzwil. It has been in operation since 1895 and is not only self-supporting but turns varying sums into the government treasury every year. There are from 200 to 250 prisoners. The main industry is that of farming, but a number of industries are carried on which help the prisoners afterward to maintain themselves. 'Witzwil teaches an impressive lesson in its proof that dissolute and untrained prisoners may be made industrious and self-supporting in an open air prison colony.'

"As previously mentioned, members of this commission have visited three penal farms in this country. One of these is located on 800 acres of land, one and one-half miles from the city of Guelph, Ontario. It has good, rich soil, unlimited gravel beds and building and limestone. There are 400 prisoners. They are now living in cheap frame structures while working on the permanent buildings. They wear no uniforms and have no armed guards. Out of 2,800 commitments to the farm, there have been but 21 escapes and a very few are ever recommitted. They are operating a stone quarry, a stone crushing plant and lime kilns and they are doing all the work of construction on the new buildings with the assistance of a few skilled workmen.

"The Cleveland (Ohio) farm consists of 2,000 acres, divided into four estates, containing approximately 500 acres each. On one of these is the correctional department. The buildings are chiefly concrete, with tile roof, furnished throughout substantially but very plainly, with every modern convenience. With the assistance and supervision of a few expert mechanics and foremen, all the work in the construction of these buildings was performed by the prisoners. Last year they cultivated 600 acres of land and produced $24,000 worth of farm products. The daily average attendance was 428.

"There are 1,150 acres of land in the District of Columbia Workhouse Farm at Occoquan, Virginia. A small beginning was made three years ago by building some bungalows in the woods with the labor of prisoners and from that time until now great progress has been made in surveying and improving the land, establishing a water system and a sewerage plant, erecting buildings, etc. They have a stone crushing plant, brick plant, and saw mill, a farm and garden, an orchard, dairy and poultry yard. There was a daily average of 534 prisoners on the farm, during the year ending June 30, 1912. The buildings are inexpensive, one-story frame structures of the dorimotry type, with outer windows opening directly to sun and air.

"In all these institutions the inmates live under healthful, wholesome conditions. They are under good discipline, and they are compelled to keep clean and to do an honest day's work. Their food is ample, their clothing good. They work willingly, apparently enjoying the freedom and exercise of the open-air employment. It has been demonstrated that it is unnecessary to guard with guns. In fact, the prisoners have been made to feel that the management is trying to better their condition, and a good spirit of helpfulness prevails. Those who are in charge are enthusiastic over their work. They feel that the farms are infinitely better than the prison walls, that the outdoor labor is rational and effective in cases of vice and that it tends to develop normal, physical, mental and moral conditions.

"Having investigated the jail system in Indiana and the system of outdoor employment in operation elsewhere, we are convinced that there can be no difference of opinion as to which is the better plan for both the prisoner and the taxpayer. Therefore, we recommend that this General Assembly enact legislation looking to the establishment of a penal farm for short-term prisoners who under the present laws are confined in jails and workhouses.

"We believe that such an institution can be established and maintained without great expense. The work of construction can be done by prisoners and the initial cost need not be more than that of three or four ordinary jails such as several counties will have to build if a State farm is not established. All the maintenance expense should be borne by the State, the counties paying the transportation. The counties will profit through being relieved of the cost of prisoners' board, which at forty cents a day for any length of time is greater than would be the transportation from even the remote parts of the State. They will be benefited also by the reduction in numbers which will inevitably follow a change in system. The benefit to the State will come later. From what has been learned from some circuit judges we are led to believe that certain classes of law-breakers whom they now commit to the State Prison and the reformatory would be sent to a penal farm if we had one. And both the institutions named could be relieved of selected classes of prisoners who might be transferred to the new institution where the maintenance expense would be less. Such an institution will assist in relieving the State of the odium of the contract labor system in State prisons. We believe also that with a penal farm will come a reduction in State Prison and Reformatory commitments from that class which the present jail system is surely training in criminal ways. This has been demonstrated as a result of the State taking over the minor prisons in Great Britain and Ireland, as well as in the correctional department of our own Woman's Prison.

"But aside from the benefit to the State, we believe that a penal farm is a progressive and humane step in the treatment of prisoners; it reflects the changed attitude of society toward its erring members; it is the best method of relieving the State from the disgrace of the present county jail system of confining prisoners indefinitely in idleness at the expense of the taxpayers. In any law which is passed provision should be made for the payment of a sum not less than forty cents a day to the family of a prisoner, if the family is entirely dependent upon him for support."

The Endless Jail Problem.
Isabel C. Barrows.
The Survey, Vol. 26, 1911, p. 157.

"By way of conclusion here is the substance of what one of our German guests who attended the International Prison Congress, says of our county jails:

'In the county jails of the United States are uncounted thousands who sit in idleness, wasting their time in brooding over their condition as they sit and smoke. Any good in them is swamped by the evil conditions of the jails. These jails are not arranged with individual cells. No, they are in blocks where ten to twenty may mingle. And worse yet. Over and over we saw places where the prisoners who had been together all day were locked up two in a cell at night. That is contrary to decency and morality. If each convict cannot have night quarters to himself then at least there should be three in a cell, for obvious reasons. And even that was not the worst. I myself saw in one jail a murderer whose guilt was certain, locked up with a man accused of forgery, but whose guilt had not been proven. What a perspective it opens, if one thinks of it, that the state should allow a young man who has taken his first wrong step to be the room-mate and companion of a murderer! Respect for humanity should make it possible for the bolt to be drawn before the cell of each prisoner, so that no one should be compelled to kill time by smoking and gossiping in jail corridors. Of what use are preventive measures and the best reformatories if detention before trial and short sentences entail injury that can never be made good?'"

Summary of a Report of a Committee of the American Prison Association to Investigate the County Jails of the Nation.

The Clank of Mediaevalism in Our County Jails.

P. 1757. "It is a strong temptation to specify particular cities where nameless abuses exist; where vile men find their way to the door behind which prostitutes stand; where little children are kept in rooms with polluted and diseased adults; where a thoughtless lad is thrust by the hand of our country's law in the school of vice and crime, taught by trained scoundrels; where a girl for venial fault is shut up to her damnation for a night with some strumpet; where a poor insane victim of brain disorder howls all night in company with ruffians; where an honest fellow, unable to pay a fine for a spree, is locked in with burglars and thieves. These are not pictures from novels; they are bald prosaic facts set down by honest eye-witnesses in answer to printed questions."

Some European Comments on the American Prison System.
Ugo Conti and Adolph Prins.

P. 208. "The jails (for short sentences and accused persons awaiting trial) are defective, as we have above explained. In particular, there is lacking an organic system of institutions for protection of the community against dangerous characters, habitual delinquents and incorrigible tramps and rascals."

P. 201. "We also visited at Mansfield a county jail. It had three stories of small dark cells, with from one to three persons in each! In this respect it was plain that offenders sentenced for less than a year, and still worse, accused persons awaiting trial in America are less fortunate than offenders sentenced for long terms. There are county jails where men and women are kept together and children are reprehensibly left to mingle with adult offenders. And these jails, furthermore, even apart from their crude conditions, do not satisfy our idea of the proper method for a brief deterrent detention, much less for detention pending trial. Of course, it is not to be expected that all the penal establishments could be model institutions, nor that a perfect disciplinary system could be found everywhere. But the contrast here was certainly depressing."

The Jail.

"Is this a clinic, then, for ailing souls?
A shop for damaged Manhood's skilled repair?
Life-saving station on the shores of time
To save Time's shipwrecked sailors from despair?

Filth and disease to threaten all mankind?
A furnace for the shreds of self-respect?
A slaughter-house for wounded souls and blind?"

Pp. 57-58. "The picture drawn by Krohne of the primitive prisons applies with much force especially to our jails and lockups. 'Gentle simple people from the country and low characters who have passed through all the dirt and filth of a great city present a picture of degradation. There is contempt for the feeble direction of the establishment, unclean wit, obscenity and communication of plans of former crimes or of new ones, deception and trickery used to blind the police and the judge. The life in many a jail is not altogether monotonous. Each new-comer brings fresh news and material for conversation.'"

An English View of the American Penal System.
Sir Evelyn Ruggles-Brise.

Journal of American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology. September, 1911. Vol. II, No. 3; pp. 356-369.

Pp. 365-366. "In these gaols it is hardly too much to say that many of the features linger which colled forth the wrath and indignation of the great Howard at the end of the eighteenth century. Promiscuity, unsanitary conditions, absence of supervision, idleness, and corruption—these remain the features in many places. Even the 'fee' system is still in vogue. The gaolers are still paid by fees for the support of prisoners, and commitments to gaol are common when some other disposition of the case would have been imposed had not the commitment yielded a fee to the sheriff, who is usually in charge of the gaol. In many gaols there are not facilities for medical examination on reception, for ventilation, for exercise, or for bathing. In one gaol I conversed with a man who had been twelve months awaiting trial, all that time in association with ordinary convicted prisoners. In another I came across a man held on the charge of murder who was obviously insane and subject to violent fits. He was kept in the corridor of the gaol, in the sight of all the prisoners, and as the fits recurred was strapped down to a bed in the corridor until he recovered. The foreign delegates were amazed at this startling inconsistency between the management of the common gaols and that of the state prisons and state reformatories. The evils to which I refer are well known and deplored by that body of earnest and devoted men and women in all sections of American society with whose lofty ideals on the subject of prison reform and generous aspirations for the humane treatment of the prisoner, the Washington Congress made us every day familiar, but they seem helpless and almost hopeless. The political forces and interests which favor the retention of the system cannot for the present be overcome. I was appealed to by leading men in more than one state, as British representative, to publicly condemn the system, and this I did, at a risk of giving considerable offense. Until the abuses of the gaol system are removed it is impossible for America to have assigned to her by general consent a place in the vanguard of progress in the domain of 'la science penitentiaire.'"

The Abolition of the County Jail.
Frederick Howard Wines.

Conférence of Charities and Corrections, Boston, 1911. pp. 52-56.

"But in plain Anglo-Saxon, the truth is, that wherever there exists local graft and political dishonesty, the county prison is its center and its stronghold. The sheriff or the jailer makes a personal profit from crime by charging a per diem for board for prisoners, and by the receipt of fees for locking and unlocking the jail doors. That profit is a live wire; no local politician, possibly no member of the legislature, or even of the state administration, dares monkey with it. We have addressed our arguments (and remonstrances) to the county authorities, of whom there are in round numbers, twenty-five hundred sets, instead of to the legislative bodies, of which there are less than fifty. We have pleaded for new jails, better jails, when we should have insisted upon their replacement by prisons owned and controlled by the State, thus emancipating them from local political control, with its pettys and selfish interests.

"The only hope of enlightened progress in dealing with the problem of crime in America is the overthrow of the county jail system. To this end we must direct our energies. With the State once in command, there can be no question but it will find a way to right the wrong and remedy the evils which inhere in the present organization and management of minor prisons. This State has a wider outlook, and a deeper sense of responsibility; it is less directly influenced by purely local considerations, and it possesses the power which the county lacks. Five years from now, we shall meet our European friends in London to renew this great debate. Meanwhile, they point to us with polite scorn, and tell us that, until we change our method of treatment of misdemeanants, we have no right to arrogate to ourselves the position of leaders in the great work of prison reform. One of my secret griefs is the shame I feel, that my country has so long tolerated, and continues to tolerate, a wrong which disgraces it in the eyes of the world, and which, unless it is redressed, must sooner or later bring down upon it the vengeance of Almighty God."

Report on the Conditions of the County Prisons of Pennsylvania by the Acting Committee of the Pennsylvania Prison Society. October, 1914.

Enormous Cost.

"Accurate statistics of the cost of maintaining our county jails are unattainable. After rummaging through the records in sheriff's office, in the office of the county clerk, and of the county commissioners, the Secretary ascertained an approximately correct estimate of the cost of maintenance. Quite often the expenses for light, fuel, gas, etc., are so blended with the same expenditures for the Court House or other county offices that a definite determination of the cost is impossible. The estimate of the Secretary is that the cost of supporting our county jails in 1913 was approximately $1,000,000. The Board of State Charities estimated this cost in 1912 to be $1,009,000, hence the estimate of the Secertary is not exaggerated. It represents the net cost of maintenance, all receipts from articles sold being deducted. This enormous expense entailed on the taxpayers of the Commonwealth and one which annually increases, should receive careful consideration. If a half dozen Industrial Farms could be established, the Secretary fully believes that after one year of operation one-half of the expense of maintaining the prisons could be saved, more than necessary to purchase and equip the farms. With each succeeding year the net cost of maintenance could be diminished, and the time may come when with judicious management these prisons could be made self-supporting. In fact, to that end our efforts should be directed. It is not only the waste of this enormous amount of money, applied often to the making of criminals, that we need to deplore, but also the tremendous waste of human effort directly resulting from our methods of dealing with those who have gone astray."

"The Secretary does not unite with those who condemn in a wholesale manner the management of our county prisons. They are often managed as well as conditions will admit, and those in charge frequently realize the deficiencies of these institutions. Very many officials have assented to the proposition that the Union of several counties in the establishment of a penal institution on some farm would help to solve the problem.

"But the conditions now obtaining at the county prisons, for which we, the people, are responsible, are greatly to be deplored. These conditions are utterly unworthy of the enlightened ideals of the twentieth century.

"This great Commonwealth will doubtless in the near future effect such changes in our penal methods as will tend to diminish the economic waste of time and expenditure, and will give these wards of ours, for whom society must assume large responsibility, the opportunities for reformation which is our ultimate aim, and thus in good measure arrest the growth of criminality, which, under our present system, meets with so much to encourage its development."

Iowa's New Custodial Farm System Starting.

The Delinquent. December, 1914. Vol. 4, No. 12, p. 7.

"A contract to but 800 acres located in Polk county has been signed by the State of Iowa, says the Des Moines Register and Leader. The land will be used for the largest of the five custodial farms authorized by the last legislature to care for the first and short term prisoners of the State.

"The tract lies along the north side of the Fonda branch of the Rock Island railroad, and it is about a mile west of Olive station. The State will pay an even $200 an acre for the land, and it will take exactly 728 acres. The purchase price thus is $156,400. Buildings estimated to be worth $60,000 become the property of the State by the transfer.

"The law under which the purchase was made provides for but one farm of the sort, and it is to be used for the incarceration of jail prisoners, Attorney General Cosson says.

"The coming legislature will be asked to authorize the purchase of four custodial farms, one in each corner of the State. When this system is working the attorney general would, so far as possible, abolish the jails, make the minimum sentence for a misdemeanor thirty days, and send offenders to the custodial farms to work out their sentences.

"The board of control needs only authorization by the legislature to install State prisoners on the tract, build a brick plant there, and manufacture enough brick to supply all the State's official wants. The land purchased contains a heavy deposit of shale which experts have declared is excellent for brick-making purposes. It is considered likely that a brick plant will be established first—probably next spring, and that the rest of the buildings will come some time later. It is not likely that the legislature will be asked to authorize the use of prisoners in making brick there during the coming summer.

"When the custodial farm is in complete operation it will be able to care for several hundred prisoners, providing outdoor work for them and clean, healthful living quarters. It is the State's plan to farm the tract, just as any other land is farmed, using the prisoners committed to its warden to do the farm work.

"The establishment of the custodial farm system undoubtedly will mean the abolishment of jails quite generally in Iowa. It is considered altogether probable that as soon as the Polk county farm is in smooth running order Des Moines will be glad to abandon its present jail except for holding prisoners until the next session of police court, utilize the custodial farm for serving of sentences and go over to the thirty-day minimum system advocated by the attorney general."

Prisoners' Wages—State Institutions.

In compiling the table on prisoners' wages, three sources of information were used. The most important source and the one supplying the most of the details was Senate Document. No. 494, 63d Congress, 2d Session, containing the Federal and State laws relating to convict labor. A questionaire was also sent to the prison authorities in the different States and in most cases an answer was received with the desired information. In addition a number of reports published by State boards of control, State boards of corrections and charities, wardens of penitentiaries, and other prison officials were secured. In case of any disagreement of these three sources on points in the table, note of the disagreement has been made.

All the States and four possessions of the United States —Alaska, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, and Porto Rico— were investigated. Of this number, thirty-four States and one possession, Porto Rico, were found to provide some sort of compensation for prisoners in institutions under State control. Several cases were found where the law provides for the payment of wages, but according to letters from prison authorities of those States the law is not enforced. The laws given in the table for Kentucky and Texas have been declared unconstitutional by the courts. Wherever the law and the actual practice in the States are not the same at the present time, attention has been called to the fact in the notes attached to the table.

In what institutions paid or for what work:

In seven of the States, wages are paid only for overwork or for work accomplished in addition to the regular daily task. In three States and Porto Rico, wages are paid only to prisoners engaged in work on the public roads. In one State, only prisoners working on public account are paid wages. and in another only those working in the manufacturing department. Missouri pays prisoners both for their regular daily task and for overwork. The sum paid the prisoners in Vermont is not really a wage as it is only paid as a reward for especially good work. In New Mexico, only prisoners with families dependent on them for support receive any compensation.

In most of those States where provision is made for the payment of wages to prisoners, the wages are paid both in the penitentiary and in the reformatory where one exists. In California, and in Washington with the exception of road work, as nearly as could be determined from the law, wages are paid only in the reformatories.

By whom the wage system is administered:

The payment of wages to prisoners is left entirely in the hands of the boards controlling the penal institutions in fifteen of the States. These boards are given different names in different States. Some of them control only one institution while others control all the penal institutions of that particular State. In Colorado, Illinois, New York, North Dakota, and Oregon, the wardens or superintendents of the penitentiaries determine what wages shall be paid. In Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, Pennsylvania. South Dakota, and Virginia the wardens or superintendents and the boards of control act together on the question. In Florida, the lessee of the prisoners has final authority. In Idaho, the State Highway commission is required to decide on the wages, as only those prisoners receive wages who are employed on the State highway. In Missouri, where the prisoners are paid both for their regular task and for overwork, the contractor fixes the compensation for overwork, the officers of the penitentiary for the regular task. In New Hampshire, the governor and council determine the wage. In the case of Porto Rico, West Virginia, Connecticut, and Wyoming it was impossible with the available material to find who determined the wages to be paid to prisoners.

Amount of Wages:

In most states the amount of wages to be paid the prisoners is left to the discretion of some controlling board. For this reason it is difficult to find the exact amount paid. There seems to be very little uniformity in the wage-scale of the different States.

In Idaho, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Porto Rico and Texas, the amount to be paid is fixed by law. The Idaho prisoner is paid fifty cents for every day that he is employed on the State highways. In Missouri the prisoner is allowed five per cent. of his daily earnings. The law provides that ten cents per day shall be paid in Nevada, but at the present time the prisoners receive twenty-five cents per day. In the construction of a road recently in Washoe county, Nevada, arrangements were made with the county officials to pay the prisoners an additional seventy-five cents per day, making the total daily wage of each prisoner one dollar. In New Mexico the law provides that the net earnings of the prisoner shall be turned over to his family if it is necessary for their support. The State of Oregon makes the payment on a basis of merit and fifty cents is paid for each merit mark received by the prisoner. The Porto Rico law fixes the wage at five cents per day, and the Texas law at ten cents per day with ten cents per hour for all overtime.

The wage is left to the discretion of the board of control of penal institutions in Alabama, California, Iowa, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont. Virginia and Wisconsin. The wages paid in Minnesota at the present time are nine to fifteen cents per day and in a few cases forty to fifty cents; in South Dakota, five to twenty-five cents per day. The prisoners are divided into three classes in Ohio, class one receiving one cent per hour; class two, two cents; and class three, three cents.

Other States fix by law a certain maximum for prisoners' wages; or a maximum and minimum, and leave the determining of the wages of the individual prisoner to the board of control. This is the case in Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Rhode Island. Utah, and Washington. In Colorado, Illinois, Michigan, and New York the maximum is ten per cent. of the earnings of the institution. The wages paid in Kansas and North Dakota are between ten and twenty-five cents per day. In still other states the prisoner is given a certain per cent. of his earnings as a maximum, varying from ten per cent in Rhode Island to thirty-three and one-third per cent. in Nebraska. Utah has a different rate for married and unmarried prisoners, the married men receiving twenty-five per cent. of their earnings as a maximum and the unmarried men only ten per cent.

The sum paid to the prisoners in Connecticut is a bonus for extra work and is fixed on this basis. In Florida, the prisoner bargains directly with the lessee of his labor for compensation for overwork, so that the rate might be different for each prisoner.

From what sources derived:

In the case of California, Connecticut, Nevada, New Jersey, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Porto Rico, Rhode Island, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wyoming, it was impossible to find from the materials available from what sources the earnings of the prisoners were derived. In the States of Colorado. Illinois, Michigan, New York, Ohio, and Texas, the wages are drawn from the earnings of the institution. In Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, and Alabama, the wages are paid from the fund the convict actually earns for the State. In Idaho, where the only work engaged in is road work, the wages are paid from the State highway fund. In Florida where the lease system prevails, the lessee is required to pay the wages. For overwork on contract in Missouri, the contractor pays the wages. The wages are paid from the general funds of the institution in Kansas, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Texas (overtime), and Vermont. When the prisoner is employed on State account in Minnesota and Wisconsin, he too, receives his wages from the general funds of the institution; if he is employed under the contract system, the wages are paid by the contractor.

By what determined:

The tendency seems to be to base the amount of wages paid on the character of the prisoner, his conduct and attitude toward his work. In Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Porto Rico, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wisconsin, the authorities take into consideration the conduct of the prisoner and his general deportment in fixing the amount of wages he is to receive. In Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, New York, North Dakota, Texas, Vermont and Wisconsin the value of the work done is also considered. The nature of the crime for which the prisoner has been convicted is one of the factors entering into the determining of the amount of wages to be paid in Kentucky, Nebraska. Ohio, South Dakota, and Washington. In New Mexico and South Dakota, the financial condition of the prisoner's family is taken into consideration. In Pennsylvania, Idaho, and Iowa, there are no individual differences. The wage differs for married and unmarried prisoners in Utah, the married prisoner receiving a larger percentage of their net earnings than the unmarried prisoners. The wages paid in Vermont are merely a reward for especially good work. In Florida, Michigan, Oklahoma, Virginia, West Virginia, Wyoming, and Alabama, wages are allowed only for work accomplished in addition to regular daily tasks. In these States the amount paid is determined by the amount of overwork done. The laws of California, New Hampshire. New Jersey and Rhode Island, that are available, do not specify what determines the wages of prisoners. In Nevada, the amount paid is fixed by the State law.

To whom paid:

In the majority of States, provision is made by law for the payment of the earnings either to the prisoner or to his dependents if he has any. Such is the case in Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada. New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. In all these States. the prison boards or the wardens have control over the disbursements, whether to dependents or for the prisoner's own use. In California, Florida, Michigan, Oklahoma, Oregon, Porto Rico, Vermont, and Wyoming, the law seems to provide only for the payment of the earnings directly to the prisoner himself. In New Mexico, all the earnings are sent to the family of the prisoner if they are dependent on him for support. If a prisoner has no dependents, no wages are credited to him.

Several States require that a certain minimum shall be allowed to accumulate to be paid to the prisoner at the time he is released from prison. This minimum is twenty-five per cent. in Kentucky and Washington, ten per cent. in Ohio, fifteen dollars in Missouri and fifty dollars in North Dakota. In Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, New York, South Dakota, Virginia, and Wisconsin, the prisoners are allowed to use a portion of their earnings for the purchase of books, instruments, and small necessities as approved by the warden or board of control. The law passed in April 1914, in New Jersey provides that part of the earnings due a prisoner shall be used to pay for the cost of his trial. In all the States, with the exception of Nebraska, the entire amount credited to a prisoner is paid to him at the time of his discharge. In Nebraska, in case a prisoner has no dependents, his earnings are invested for him and paid to him, one-third on discharge, one-third in three months, and one-third in six months. When a prisoner is released on parole in Colorado, Illinois, and New York. he is allowed to draw on the fund due him for such sums and at such times as the warden or board of control may approve. Ohio provides for the payment of half of the accumulated earnings when the prisoner is paroled and the other half when he receives his absolute discharge, but if he can show that for some good reason he is unable to support himself during his parole, the entire amount may be paid to him.

NOTES—TABLE ON PRISONERS' WAGES—STATE INSTITUTIONS.

(1) This is the law, but in reply to questionaire, secretary of Colorado Prison Association declares prisoners are not paid in either state or county institutions.
(2) Letter from F. S. Treat, secretary of Iowa Board of Control of State Institutions, does not mention compensation of prisoners for work on roads.
(3) The act of the legislature allowing certain money for savings fund was put into operation by the present Board of Penitentiary Commissioners, but was declared unconstitutional by the Kentucky Court of appeals. E. H. Ray, Secretary of Prison Commissioners in letter of October 21, 1914.
(4) Provision made by law for compensation to families of prisoners. In a great many cases, in addition to what prisoner earns, there is a monthly grant paid to certain families. Each case is decided on its individual merits.
(5) This is the law, but according to letter from New Hampshire state officials, it is not in force at present. Law also provides for assistance to dependents of prisoners from same fund, regulated by governor and council.
(6) In April, 1914, a law was passed in New Jersey, amending law of 1911 and requiring Board of Managers of Prison and Reformatory to establish wage system for payment of all prisoners. Amount to be paid has not yet been decided. Main provisions of new law are given above.
(7) This provision is in Article XX, Section 15, of the New Mexico State Constitution, but according to letter from the Superintendent of the State Penitentiary, John B. McManus, dated Sept. 17, 1914, wages are not paid to prisoners.
(8) The law provides that all convicts under control of state engaged in manufacturing articles for general consumption shall receive quarterly wages equal to amount of earnings, to be fixed from time to time by authorities of institutions, from which board, lodging and clothing, and cost of trial have been deducted. Balance paid to dependants or to prisoner at expiration of term. According to letters from the authorities, of the different state institutions, wages are paid the prisoners only in the manufacturing department of the Eastern Penitentiary.
(9) This is the law, but according to letter from Charles Potter, Secretary of Board of Charities and Corrections, the prisoners are not paid wages in the Rhode Island penal institutions.
(10) This is the law as found in Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, 1911, Articles 6214, 6215, 6220, but according to letter from Oscar F. Wolff, Secretary of Board of Prison Commissioners, this law was declared unconstitutional and void and prisoners are not paid wages.
(11) This is the law, but according to letter from Arthur Pratt, warden of Utah State Prison, the prisoners do not receive wages for their work.
(12) This is the law, but letter from State Board of Control mentions only payment of 50 cents per day in Honor Camps. The State Board of Control does not govern the State Reformatory so this fact may account for the omission of the mention of the payment of wages in the reformatory.

Prisoners' Wages—Local Institutions.

All the facts as to the wages paid to prisoners in local institutions were obtained from Senate Document, No. 494, of the 63d Congress, 2d Session, and hence relate only to the possibilities of compensation under the law. The legal provisions are brief, and in most cases merely permissive. From the table containing the facts, a few general conclusions can be drawn.

In the first place, it is apparent that wages are in many cases to be paid only to such prisoners as are engaged in a particular kind of work, as road or farm work. The amount paid is determined either by the official or officials, in charge if the institution or by the county officers, who are given a great deal of discretion in deciding the amount due the prisoner. It is evident, however. that in many cases the intention is to base the wages on net earnings, although the law in some cases sets limits to the amonut. In some instances the wages are to be paid out of county funds, while in others they are paid directly from net receipts. As a general thing, dependents are to receive the wages. In one case, it is stated that not money wages but wages in kind are to be paid to the dependents.

It would be an almost endless task to make a complete study of wages in the local institutions. The facts obtained for the institutions in Pennsylvania were secured only after repeated inquiries, and must be taken as indicating only in a general way what the actual practice is. The problem, moreover, is one that does not, it would seem, merit very serious consideration. The typical county institution is the jail which it must be remembered was never designed as a place for the employment of prisoners, but solely for their detention. For reasons that have been mentioned in chapter 5, Part II, the jail will probably be forced off the stage and other institutions in which prisoners can easily find employment will take their place. Until such time comes, effort spent in an exhaustive study of wages paid in institutions for misdemeanants would be largely wasted.

LETTER OF THE CHAIRMAN.

To the Members of the General Assembly.

Gentlemen:—The commission was appointed in June, 1914. This late appointment allowed us but six months in which to do the work. The employment and compensation of prisoners is a problem of no mean magnitude and one which, in our opinion, no state has as yet completely and satisfactorily solved.

In the brief space of time afforded us, it has been impossible to prepare a complete report on all phases of the subject. We have been unable to visit the Western States where prisoners are worked upon the roads; and as a consequence, scant space is given in the report to this important method of employing prisoners. The relation which exists between short sentences on the one hand and work and reformation on the other is also a much mooted question which from lack of time we have not been able to investigate or even consider. Other problems likewise remain untouched.

We, therefore, respectfully ask the Legislature to continue the commission for the next two years. In 1917, we will be able to present to you a complete and exhaustive study of the entire situation. To do this, of course, an additional appropriation will be necessary which we trust will be provided for.

The bills which we have drafted should be passed at once as they provide the necessary foundation on which to build.

Respectfully yours,
EDWIN M. ABBOTT, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE CERTAIN CONDITIONS ALLEGED TO EXIST IN CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS IN WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The Joint Commission appointed by virtue of the concurrent resolution of your honorable bodies, which resolution reads as follows, viz:

No. 5.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

March 1, 1915.

Whereas, Grave criticism has been directed in the public prints of recent date against the management of certain charitable institutions, and

"Whereas, The allegations are directed inter alia against institutions to which the Commonwealth biennially appropriates large sums of money, and

"Whereas, It would be highly improper were such charges to be ignored and the grave danger run of giving State funds to institutions that would make a wrong use of them, and

"Whereas, It is incumbent on the Appropriation Committee of each branch of the General Assembly to eliminate the undeserving applicants for State aid; therefore

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur), That a joint commission is hereby established whose duty it shall be to investigate thoroughly all charges appearing in the public prints recently against institutions of the State and those receiving State aid and to report therein in writing as soon as practicable at this session of the General Assembly.

The Commission shall consist of the chairman of the Appropriation Committee of the Senate and the House and five members from each Appropriation Committee as may be selected by the respective chairmen.

"The Commission is hereby given authority to issue subpoenas and to compel the attendance and testimony of persons and the production of books and papers. The subpoenas shall be served by the sergeant-at-arms of the House.

"Any members of the Committee shall have power to administer oaths or affirmations in any matter under consideration by the Committee," approved the 19th day of March, 1915.

Beg leave to submit the following report, viz:

On the 30th day of March, 1915, the Commission met at Harrisburg and organized by the election of Hon. Charles H. Kline, Chairman; A. B. Smith, clerk; John Ruth, stenographer; and Oscar Baird, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Pursuant to the said resolution, the Commission met at 10 o'clock A. M., on April 9, 1915, in the rooms of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, sixteenth floor Kennan Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., where the testimony of numerous witnesses were received, a transcript of which testimony will be found annexed to this report as Appendix A.

It appeared that the criticisms in the public prints against the management of charitable institutions receiving appropriations from the State originated in a report made by the Allegheny Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania on subsidized institutions for the care of dependent, delinquent, and crippled children, which report was written for the Committee by Abram Osseroff, A. M., and printed and published February 19, 1915, copies of which report were furnished to the press and otherwise circulated throughout the Commonwealth, and on a special report by the same writer on the Curtis Home at Pittsburgh.

The report was confined to an investigation of twenty such institutions located in Allegheny County, two of such institutions, however, the Thorne Hill School and the Juvenile Detention Home, being county institutions and not receiving State aid, were not within the purvue of the work of this Commission.

All the allegations referred to in the resolutions having been confined to these institutions, the Committee resolved to limit its investigation to the management thereof.

No other allegations appear to have been made against these institutions than those contained in the said report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania and the newspaper charges as to such management appear to have been wholly based upon this report.

The reason for the publication of said report is stated therein to have been as follows:

"This study of subsidized institutions for dependent, delinquent, and crippled children in Allegheny County is based upon the fact that these institutions are doing public work and that the public, which helps to support them through money from the State treasury and through private donations, has a right to know with what efficiency the essential needs are provided for these children who have become its wards. It is expected to supply the need of information with regard to the actual conduct of these institutions and to propose well considered remedies where improvements seem to be essential."

This statement of purpose is followed by a table showing the amounts appropriated to each of such institutions for the two years ending May 31, 1915.

It is proper to state that it appeared from the evidence that the report in question was based solely upon the investigations of the agent of the Allegheny County Committee, and that with very few exceptions no attempt was made on the part of the members of the Committee to substantiate his statements. It further appeared from the evidence of the investigator himself that the report was not submitted to the Committee as a whole, but only to the publication committee thereof. The responsibility for the report, therefore, rests wholly upon the investigator and the publication committee.

The essential portions of this report will be found cited in the proper places in the report of the Commission.

After the publication of the said report of the investigator of the Allegheny County Committee, a special investigation of each institution covered by the report was made under instructions from the Board of Public Charities by William G. Theurer, Assistant General Agent of that body, the results of which he reported to said Board. A further investigation was also made of each institution by Francis J. Torrance, President of the Board of Public Charities, and others, at which the officers of the various institutions were examined under oath. The report of Mr. Theurer, and the stenographic report of the testimony taken at the investigation were offered and admitted in evidence by the Commission and are annexed hereto as Appendices B and C, respectively

At the beginning of the hearing at Pittsburgh, the Allegheny County Committee aforesaid requested to be represented by counsel, which request was refused upon the reasons set forth in the following written statement read by the Chairman of the Commission at said meeting:

For the information of those present the declaration of the Commission is that the Commission has selected A. C. Stein, Esq., as its counsel. He will ask the questions and conduct the inquiry. The presence of other counsel is welcome as individuals having an interest in the matter in question but not as participants. The desire of this Committee is to ascertain the truth or falsity of certain assertions issued by or on behalf of the association styled the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, or the Allegheny County Committee thereof, the same being set forth in a pamphlet and in numerous newspaper articles, all emanating from the same source. It is the desire of the Commission, therefore, to establish, as above stated, the truth or falsity of these statements. The assertions referred to are more or less grave in their character and reflect on the management of the institutions in question. Therefore, in order to expedite matters and clear the records, if possible, of any such charges, the inquiry will be narrowed down to specific cases or points upon which the Commission have determined. The exclusion of counsel at this stage is thought advisable. In fact the presence of counsel would be unnecessary and unwise. Neither the State nor the institution in question have the time or funds to carry on a useless or unnecessary prosecution, as it might be termed at this juncture. If any grave charges are established the same will be dealt with subsequently and summarily elsewhere. Counsel, therefore will be permitted at this hearing for the purpose only of preventing clients from incriminating themselves in testimony or involving themselves in liability to prosecution. While it is the desire to shorten the proceedings as much as possible the greatest latitude will be permitted for a proper refutation of the charges and for that matter for any additional charges that may have a bearing on the case and which may be properly substantiated. The various homes and institutions charged have, it is recognized, the greatest right in this matter, because the possibility of their support from the State is directly involved and any and every means must be afforded them to contradict the charges. The Charities Association, so styled, is not charged, but has charged these institutions under inquiry, and therefore counsel, we think, in either case would be unwise as it is unnecessary. Should the course of the inquiry prove our decision unwise we reserve the right to change the same. I will further state for the benefit of the people present that this inquiry will be confined entirely to the institutions which have been charged with gross violations set forth in public print and we are here today to hear charges against these institutions, and that is the reason why we deem it unwise to have counsel make any remarks, because we are sitting here like a grand jury. We, however, will hear the evidence and draw our conclusions from the evidence produced at this hearing.

After the Commission had made this ruling, a number of the members and officers of the said Allegheny County Committee withdrew from the hearing, refusing to testify except upon being compelled thereto by subpoenas. They were all subpoenaed and later testified at an adjournment meeting of the Commission held at the aforesaid place and date at two o'clock P. M.

The Chairman expressed the desire of the Commission that anyone having any knowledge of the affairs and management of any of the institutions in question should appear and give evidence, but with the exception of the persons subpoenaed no one volunteered for that purpose.

An examination of the report in question shows that exception is very generally taken to the method of keeping records followed at the different institutions. No law of the State provides how the records of such institutions shall be kept. The act of May 1, 1913, provides that the Commissioners of Public Charities may prescribe to all institutions receiving State aid a method of keeping their books, and the Commissioners shall make no recommendation for the allowance of State aid to any such institution which shall not adopt said system, but the Board of Public Charities has not yet prescribed such a method. The Auditor General, however, regulates through his traveling auditors the method by which accounts shall be kept of the receipt and expenditures of State appropriations and also provides a form on which they shall be kept.

This being the case, the method of keeping records, aside from the financial requirements of the State, will naturally differ in different institutions, depending largely on the nature of the work of the institutions, and the fact that such methods are not uniform is not a matter of serious criticism.

Another exception very generally taken in the report to the management of institutions is a lack of proper investigation before the admission of children. This exception seems to be based upon the theory of the investigator that no child should be admitted to an institution if it can possibly be otherwise provided for. Even if this theory be correct, the necessities of children often demand that they be provided for before such an investigation as would be necessary could be made, and frequently the investigations would involve work which the institutions are not financially able to make.

The report states that:

"In one institution, where a careful family study was made, at least thirty per cent. of the children need never have entered inside an institution's wall."

It does not appear to what institution this statement refers, but inasmuch as the special report of the investigator on the Curtis Home, annexed to this report as Appendix D, is the only report giving data from which any conclusion upon this subject can be reached, it is thought that it refers to that institution. If so, it would seem that the investigator concluded that if one parent of a child were living the child need never enter an institution, as there is no other data in the report from which that conclusion could be reached.

Whether a given child should be admitted to an institution is a matter of opinion upon which well-disposed people may well differ, and it is not a subject of legitimate criticism that the boards of trustees of the different institutions do not look upon this question in the same light that the investigator does.

The investigator seems to be cognizant of the fact that it is impossible for small, poorly supported institutions to arrange for a system whereby private homes may be ascertained and children placed therein, and recommends as follows:

"In order that inherent defects of the child-caring system may be remedied, so that proper investigations shall be made before the admission of a child into an institution, and so that sufficient efforts shall be made toward placing children in good family homes it is advisable that a central supervisory body be provided, either on the order of a Board of Children's Guardians or a State Public School System."

The Commission agrees with this recommendation, but until such a body is established is of opinion that the existing conditions in this respect in any institution are not properly open to criticism. Plainly an institution ought not to be criticised because of the "inherent defects of the child-caring system."

Another objection frequently made in the report is that the institutional aspect of the work of the institutions is very much in evidence and that the children suffer for the want of real home life. It is very much to be regretted that this institutional aspect is to a certain extent unavoidable in such institutions, depending upon the number of children in an institution, their age, and other factors, but from the evidence submitted the Commission is of opinion that the institutional aspect has been eliminated in these institutions as far as practicable, and that the children maintained therein compare very favorably with children of the average home.

Charges of cruelty in the matter of punishment are confined to three institutions, viz: The Sunshine Children's Home, the Home for Colored Children, and the Coleman Home. It appeared from the evidence that the only allegation of cruelty in the Sunshine Home was that on one occasion a girl was ducked because she refused to wash dishes and that in certain instances children were shaken up by the President of the Home. From the testimony submitted to the Commission it appears that the girl referred to was an incorrigible child who had been dismissed from a similar institution and had been guilty of a grave offense. It appears that she was not ducked, but on being threatened with such punishment she did the required task. No allegation of the shaking of any particular child was made in the report, but the President of the Home admitted that she occasionally mildly shook a child.

In the report for the Home for Colored Children, it is alleged that there was a dungeon therein in which refractory children were confined and that such children of tender age were sometimes tied to the banister for long periods. It appeared from the evidence, however, that these practices had been discontinued for more than two years, a new matron having been installed since that time. It was alleged that the Superintendent of the Coleman Home stated that "There ain't never a boy come into this Home that I could not lick and show him that he ain't yet a man." No particular instance of the exercise of any cruelty by the Superintendent is alleged, his statement amounting to a declaration of his confidence in his ablity to maintain discipline.

In view of the fact that the most serious practices pointed out have been admittedly discontinued for a long period and that the other punishments seem to have been trifling and perhaps permissable in the handling of refractory children, the Commission is of opinion that no charge of cruelty in any institution has been maintained.

The Commission would suggest, however, that the publication in the report of a gruesome picture of the alleged dungeon at the Home for Colored Children, which had admittedly not been in use for over two years, could not but convey a false impression to persons who did not carefully examine that document, especially as the location of the said dungeon was not given, and each and every one of the institutions covered by the report might have labored under the imputation of maintaining such a place. The same comment might also be made as to the publication of a photograph of a building of the Coleman Industrial Home for Colored Boys, a picture of the very adequate main building, which it appears from the evidence was taken at the same time, having been omitted.

Other deficiencies alleged to exist in these institutions will be considered later in this report with regard to each institution.

It appears from the evidence that the investigator in calling at several institutions was sometimes mistaken for a representative of the Board of Public Charities, an impression which he did not seem to take great pains to dispel. It is unfortunate that the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania should bear a title so near that of the Board of Public Charities, inasmuch as the two bodies have no connection with each other, and while the Eastern Association has co-operated with the Board of Public Charities, the Allegheny County committee thereof has not done so. It appears from the evidence that Mr. Osseroff communicated none of the results of his investigation to the Board of Public Charities, nor did any other member of that committee do so.

If the object of the committee was to do away with objectionable conditions, it would naturally be supposed that it would first have made representations to the Board of Public Charities, which body is charged by law with the supervision and management of such institutions. Had the committee done so, and the Board of Public Charities refused to investigate the charges, it would then have been time for the committee to make its charges public.

The Commission is not aware of any process of law by which the Public Charities Association could be compelled to change its name, but it is suggested that if it should voluntarily do so it would prevent a confusion in the public mind as to the two bodies which it is desirable to avoid.

The advisability of admitting unauthorized persons to charitable institutions is shown by the action of the investigator, Mr. Osseroff, himself, at the Curtis Home, where he was present when a number of girls were physically examined. This included an examination of the heart and necessitated an exposure of the bust. It appears that the girls were mostly of tender age and his presence at the examination was justified in her testimony by Doctor Drada, who was present, but the Commission is of opinion that his presence on that occasion was, to say the least, indelicate, and that such a practice would have a tendency to scandal. Such a thing would certainly not be permitted in the public schools, and the Commission can see no reason why the modesty of the dependents of the State should not be respected as much as that of public school children.

The investigator of the Allegheny County Committee concludes the general report which prefaces his reports on the individual institutions in Allegheny County as follows:

"A distinctive feature brought vividly to the surface by this investigation is the fact that the vicious practices here detailed are permitted and the continuance of inefficiency and mismanagement made possible by the State of Pennsylvania, which helps to support these institutions by money from the State Treasury. Through its haphazard, chaotic system of appropriating public funds to institutions under private control, Pennsylvania is today helping to promote the existence of some institutions which are worse than useless. Instead of utilizing the available public funds to provide needed care, first, for those who are distinctly State wards, Pennsylvania, through its system of subsidies to private charities, has burdened itself with institutions which are a shame to the State and a detriment to the charitable system of which they have parasitically become a part."

In the opinion of the Commission, this statement is untrue, misleading and scandalous. The only practices which he points out which could in any sense be called vicious, with the exception of practices which he admits have long since been discontinued, and which never existed to any considerable degree, were the occasional mild shaking of a refractory child in one institution, and a statement by the superintendent of another that he was physically capable of maintaining discipline. No specific instance of any punishment in either of these institutions was given.

The statement that such vicious practices are permitted is particularly offensive. A practice cannot be said to be permitted when it is not known to exist. It is generally known that the Board of Public Charities is charged by law with the duty of inspecting, through its agents, all institutions receiving State aid, and the plain inference is either that that body has neglected its duties and did not ascertain the existence of such practices or that, having inspected these institutions and ascertained the existence of such practices, it permitted their continuance.

The statement as to "the haphazard, chaotic system of appropriating public funds to institutions under private control" is untrue. No appropriations are made to any institution, except after investigations made by the Board of Public Charities and also by the Appropriation Committees of the two Houses.

It is not true, as the investigator states in his concluding sentence, that "Pennsylvania has burdened itself with institutions which are a shame to the State and a detriment to the charitable system of which they have parasitically become a part." Admitting the entire correctness of the investigator's report on each institution covered thereby, no one of them could be considered "a shame to the State."

It was this statment which gave the keynote to the various articles which appeared in the public prints.

The Commission considers the whole statement as untrue in fact and reprehensible in the highest degree.

Of the eighteen State-aided institutions treated of in the report, no serious critcism is made therein as to the following institutions: Boys' Industrial Home of Western Pennsylvania, Industrial Home for Crippled Children, Improvement Children's Home, Sewickley Fresh Air Home, Pittsburgh Home for Babies, Pittsburgh and Allegheny Home for the Friendless, First Allegheny Day Nursery and Temporary Home for Children, Children's Temporary Home, and St. Joseph's Protectory for Homeless Boys. The institutions reported as deficient are as follows:

PITTSBURGH SUNSHINE CHILDREN'S HOME.

Mr. Osseroff's first allegation is that the investigation before the admission of children to this institution is too meager. "Applicants are required to write a letter stating references and these references are acted upon. This institution has very little data concerning the children under its care and the records kept of the children are insufficient. The financial records are handled by the Treasurer." It appears from the evidence of Mrs. Katherine E. Newingham, President and Treasurer of the Home, given under oath before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was admitted in evidence by the Commission, that "when application is made, we have them write letters stating the circumstances that necessitate the aid of a children's home, and whether or not they would be eligible to our organization * * * * * we have a book or records in our office in which we place the date of admission, date of birth, religion, Catholic, or Protestant, date they are dismissed from the Home, etc." Two pages are allowed in the record book for each admission. The book is indexed by the names of the inmates. A record of the inmates is also kept on the minutes of the Board of Trustees of the institution.

There will naturally be a difference of opinion as to the completeness with which records should be kept in an institution of this nature, but in the absence of any requirement of law or of any regulation of the Board of Public Charities, the Commission is of the opinion that the records kept in this institution are sufficiently full.

Mr. Osseroff further states that:

"The management is not efficient. The staff of employes at work is entirely too small to provide proper care for the children; the matron does not live in the house and works only several days a week, for which she receives $1.25 per day. The only other workers in this institution were a housekeeper receiving $30 a month and keep and the chambermaid receiving $5 a week. For scrubbing and cleaning, women are occasionally called in to work by the day. The number of children in this institution requires the provision of a larger number of employes * * * * that the absence of sufficient and competent supervision, the close association of boys and girls of twelve to fourteen years of age, of whom there are a number in this this institution, becomes a matter of considerable concern."

It appears from the evidence of Mrs. Newingham that the matron, Mrs. White, resides in the institution and is on duty at all times. The statement made by Mr. Osseroff evidently refers to Mrs. Batcheler, a former matron. Mrs. Newingham's testimony is substantiated by the report of William G. Theurer, Assistant General Agent of the Board of Public Charities.

With regard to the absence of sufficient supervision, Mrs. Newingham testified that "the segregation of the sexes is such as to preclude any possible chance of immorality * * * * * * There has never been, to our knowledge, anything that would lead us to think that there was any immoral conduct." Mr. Theurer reported that the arrangement of the sleeping rooms precluded any possibility of any immoral conduct taking place between the boys and girls, and that there are four employes at the Home to look after the care of forty-three children, which he deems sufficient, in view of the fact that no laundry work is done at the Home and that these four employes are required to care for the children. The Commission is of opinion that the charges made against the institution in this respect cannot be sustained.

With reference to punishments in this institution, Mr. Osseroff states as follows:

"The constant changing of those in charge and their lack of adaptability to the children and their needs, has brought on at times considerable punishment of the children. One of the older girls, because she refused to wash the dishes allotted to her, was put head first into a tub of water until she acceded to orders."

In this connection, Mrs. Newingham testified that the child referred to by Mr. Osseroff as having had her head plunged into the water was not so punished. We threatened to do that, but did not carry it out. I might add that this was for a serious offense * * * * * and this threat was only resorted to after all milder means had been exhausted, for this case was one of an incorrigible girl who had been dismissed from another institution. It was only a threat, never carried into effect, and the girl is still in the institution and very happy."

With reference to the statement about shaking of children, Mrs. Newingham testified "I made the remark that I shook them up occasionally."

As to other punishments, Mrs. Newingham testified that "In case of disobedience they are spanked, mildly spanked, the same as a good parent might inflict."

The Commission is of the opinion that the evidence does not show that there is any undue severity of punishment in this institution.

The Commission is of the opinion that the Pittsburgh Newsboys Home is a particularly well managed institution.

Mr. Osseroff criticised the sale by the institution of the Sunshine Magazine, questioning whether a magazine should be sold in the name of charity when so small a percentage from the proceeds of its sale is actually devoted to charitable purposes. Mrs. Newingham's testimony upon this subject is as follows: "The magazine is published, delivered to us at a price, the solicitors get their pay, all expenses, even the rent of the office which is necessary for the conduct of this part of the work is deducted, and the three and one-half cents, which is the net result, gives the Home an added income of about a thousand or more dollars annually of a pure gain."

THE PITTSBURGH NEWSBOYS' HOME.

Mr. Osseroff finds but little to criticise in this institution. He objects that the institution conducts practically no investigation before the admission of a child, but inasmuch as the institution is established, as he states, to provide for homeless and indigent boys, no such investigation would seem to be necessary. He states that the Home does not allow a sufficient approximation to real home life to satisfy the needs of any child who has lived within its walls as long as five years, and that it does not supply the boy's natural craving for home environment.

Any such institution is necessarily open to this criticism, but it appears in the report of Assistant General Agent Theurer that in the case of this Home it is reduced to a minimum. The institution supports a gymnasium and library, a game room, and some other departments in which the boys may spend their evenings, thus keeping them from the streets and undesirable resorts. Mr. Osseroff criticises the sleeping accommodations, but it does not appear that deficiency is owing to any lack in the management.

HOME FOR COLORED CHILDREN.

No charge is made against the present management of this institution except as follows:

"The records concerning the children in this institution consist only of two small books in which are recorded the names of all the children who entered the institution since 1900. Meager data with regard to the age, religion, and parentage of the child marks the outside limit to the knowledge which the management of this institution has concerning its wards. The financial records are also inadequate. A general ledger, a handful of loose pages of scrap paper covered with jottings, a little handbook in which the superintendent records the payments made by relatives of inmates, without specifying the time for which such payments were made, completes the system of bookkeeping. The ledger apparently handled by different people, shows very definite signs of poor bookkeeping."

It appears from the testimony of Mary E. Monroe, President of said Home for Colored Children, given under oath before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was admitted in evidence by the Commission, and also from the report of Mr. Theurer, Assistant General Agent of the Board of Public Charities, that a record is kept of the age, parentage, religion, and other data in the case of each child; that a card system is in use; and that books showing the financial status of the institution are kept and audited quarterly by traveling auditor of the Auditor General's Department of the State. It is probable that Mr. Osseroff saw only the books which are kept at the Home by the matron, the principal books being kept by the Secretary and Treasurer.

While Mr. Osseroff does not state that at the present time severe punishments are inflicted in this institution, he publishes as a part of his report a gruesome picture of a so-called dungeon, which is entitled "Dungeon used for punishment of little children in an Allegheny County Institution." From his own evidence before the Commission, it appears that this was not maintained at this Home at the time of his investigation. It is hard to see how a "dungeon" which was admittedly not in use at the time of his visit to the institution came within the scope of his investigation. It appears from the report of Assistant General Agent Theurer that the so-called dungeon has not been used for purposes of punishment for over two years and that when it was in use it was used only in cases of incorrigible boys who could not otherwise be restrained.

DAVIS TEMPORARY HOME AND DAY NURSERY FOR COLORED CHILDREN.

The criticisms of this institution are largely confined to the building and equipment, and the faults of the institution seem to result wholly from inadequate resources. The Commission is of the opinion that this is a useful institution and that in order to supply its deficiencies a larger appropriation should be made to it by the Commonwealth.

COLEMAN INDUSTRIAL HOME FOR COLORED BOYS.

Mr. Osseroff states that the records of this institution are insufficient and its financial records inadequate; that the food served by the institution is very poor and the dining room and kitchen very poorly equipped; that the house is not kept clean; that there are insufficient bathing facilities; and that the beds, bed clothing, and clothing worn by the boys are poor. He is contradicted as to each of these statements by Dr. James Edgehill, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Institution, and S. A. Coleman, Superintendent of the Home, in their sworn testimony given before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was admitted in evidence by the Commission. This testimony is supported by the report of William G. Theurer, Assistant General Agent of the Board of Public Charities, who states that he has been in the institution three times within the last year and on each occasion found it clean and without vermin. He states that the food is fairly good and well cooked; the dining room large enough; the kitchen well equipped and a model of cleanliness; the sleeping quarters, while in some places needing repairs, nevertheless clean; the beds good and substantial; the toilet facilities ample for the work, located in a finished basement with plenty of light and good ventilation.

"I consider Mr. and Mrs. Coleman in a class by themselves in the handling of colored boys."

CURTIS HOME.

The only criticisms of this institution are that admissions are handled in a haphazard way; that the records are insufficient, and that the basement dining room is dark and the sleeping quarters provided for the children are not good. The testimony of Elizabeth M. Strickler, matron of the Home, given under oath before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was admitted in evidence by the Commission, is to the effect that there is a Committee on Admissions which investigates all applications; that a complete card system of the records is kept, and that the dining room is not dark.

ROSELIA FOUNDLING ASYLUM AND MATERNITY HOSPITAL.

In his report on this institution, Mr. Osseroff says:

"At this time the older children were all massed in a squalid playroom on the first floor, with no means provided for play or exercise; hemmed in by the four walls of the room which this institution considers a proper recreational center for growing children, and with nothing to do they presented an appearance of a thoroughly dull, lacklustre, and monotonous group. This room is also used as a dining room for these children. Outside of an old table and several benches about it, there is nothing to even suggest dining room equipment. * * * * For its own benefit in silencing criticisms that may be unwarranted, the Roselia Foundling Asylum should welcome a thorough and intensive investigation of its work. The fact that this institution is doing public and not private work and that for its support it depends upon State funds and donations from the public makes such a requirement justifiable. * * * * Permission to see the most important parts of the institution was refused and the data offered was only of the most meager sort. Outside of the children's quarters and the hallways necessary to be traversed in getting to them, all else was tightly covered with a veil of secrecy."

From the testimony of Sister Victoria, Superintendent of this institution, given under oath before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was admitted in evidence by the Commission, it appears that the part to which Mr. Osseroff was refused admission was the maternity department, the object of which is to shelter unfortunates, to which visitors are never admitted unless they have official authority. It appears further from her testimony and the report of Mr. Theurer that there are two playrooms for children on the first floor, one for babies on the second floor, and another one on the third floor. In these playrooms are arranged swings, sliding boards, railway costers, in addition to many other individual playthings. Opposite the institution on Cliff Street is a large recreation plot, properly fenced in, containing half an acre, on which are erected sliding boards, railway coasters, sandboxes, play house, and several tents, which are in use all through the summer months when the weather will permit.

The Commission cannot find from the evidence that the strictures of Mr. Osseroff upon this institution are justified.

HOME OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD; HOUSE OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

The report of Mr. Osseroff states that the authorities of both of these institutions refused to submit any data relative thereto. It is believed that this is true of the Home of the Good Shepherd, but it appears from the testimony of Sister Anthony, Assistant Superior and Secretary of the House of the Good Shepherd, and from that of Sister Immaculate, of the same institution, as given under oath before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was admitted in evidence by the Commission, that no application was made to them by any person for any data in regard to their institution, nor did Mr. Osseroff apply for admission for the purpose of obtaining the same.

The Commission deems this immaterial, as owing to the class of inmates received at these institutions it is desirable that the public should not be admitted, and there is no reason why they should receive others than those authorized by law to act as visitors. We see no reason why their refusal of such data, even if it were refused, should militate against the institution.

POLISH ORPHANAGE ASYLUM OF THE HOLY FAMILY.

The report on this institution states that no investigation is made before the admission of a child; that the records in use are inadequate; that the personal relationship between the management and the children is distant, and the institutional aspect of the work apparent; that the dining room is poorly equipped, and that no facilities are provided for manual training.

It appears from the testimony of Father Caesar Tomaszewski, Superintendent of the Home, given under oath before Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities, which testimony was received in evidence by the Commission, that "When somebody wants to place a child in our Home we have a printed form of application blank which we require them to fill out. In that form are questions regarding the child; the age, date of birth, whether the father lives, and if not the date of his birth; if they have any real estate, father or mother; who is the guardian, and a great many other questions incident to the matter. It must be filled out and signed in the presence of witnesses. If they are half orphans with father living we request that he contribute to the maintenance of the child. If the child resides in the parish the minister must sign the papers. Many times we have refused admission when we found that the child's father had not given the correct information."

This witness further testified that he mingled among the boys and played games with them; that the dining room tables were covered with clean oilcloth, scoured and cleaned after each meal. Frank A. Piekarski, Counsel and Director of the Institution, testified to the same effect. He further testified that the age of the children at the asylum is such that manual training is practically out of the question; that the children are taught in five grades which he thinks would compare favorably with the grammar grades in the public school, and that besides the educational facilities afforded by the public schools, the children are taught two languages, Polish and English. Dr. E. H. Sloan, Home Physician of the Asylum, corroborates the last two named witnesses and testified that sick children there are given the same attention as he would give his private patients. He testifies, however, that the toilet facilities are not adequate for the number of children and that there should be more provisions for their bathing and toilet.

The above witnesses are corroborated in all respects by the report of Mr. Theurer who gives a very full description of the building and equipment.

JUVENILE COURT DETENTION HOME.

This institution receives no State aid and therefore does not come within the purvue of this investigation.

The members of the Commission repeatedly stated at the public meeting at Pittsburgh that they were anxious to hear anyone who had any information going to show any improper conditions in any of the institutions in Allegheny County. The fact that the Commission would sit at that time and place was widely advertised in the public prints. With the exception of the persons subpoenaed, however, no one appeared to give evidence in that regard. The only charges which the Commission could investigate therefore were those preferred by the investigator of the Allegheny County Committee in his reports as aforesaid.

The Commission reports as a result of its investigation that none of the criticisms directed against the above mentioned charitable institutions receiving appropriations from the State are sustained by the facts. The separate reports on the several institutions made by the investigator of the Allegheny County Committee, even if accepted as true in all respects, do not show any conditions which would warrant the discontinuance of appropriations to any of the institutions named. Such defects as exist seem to be principally the result of poor financial support, and would rather warrant an increase of State appropriations than a discontinuance thereof.

Had the report of the investigator of the Allegheny County Committee been confined to a statement of the results in each case of his investigations and to recommendations based thereon, no exception could have been taken thereto, except that his inquiries do not appear to have been sufficiently exhaustive as is evidenced by the sworn testimony of the officers of the respective institutions and by the report of the assistant general agent of the Board of Public Charities, but the Commission is of opinion that the general report of the investigator, which prefaces his reports on the separate institutions, contains conclusions which were unwarranted by the facts which he claims to have ascertained which led to a general and most unwarranted arraignment by the press of all charitable institutions receiving State aid.

Having exhausted every means within its power to fulfill the objects of its appointment, the Commission respectfully asks that it be discharged from further investigation under the power conferred by the concurrent resolution appointing it.

APPENDIX "A."

MEETING OF COMMISSION ESTABLISHED TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES AGAINST CERTAIN CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS RECEIVING STATE AID.

Chamber of Commerce,
Pittsburgh, Pa., April 9, 1915.

Meeting of Commission established to investigate charges against certain charitable institutions receiving State aid.

Present: Messrs. Kline, Buckman, Clark, Tompkins, Magee, Woodward, McCaig, Myers, Steedle, Cox and Flynn.

A. C. Stein, Esq., Counsel for Commission.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Kline at ten o'clock A. M.

The Chairman. Ladies and gentlemen:—This is a joint commission established by a joint resolution of the House and Senate, whose duty it is to investigate thoroughly the charges appearing in public prints recently against institutions of the city and those receiving State aid and report therein in writing as soon as practicable at this session of the General Assembly. So that you may fully understand the creation of this commission it is best to read the resolution.

"In the House of Representatives, March 1, 1915.

Whereas, Grave criticism has been directed in the public prints of recent date against the management of certain charitable institutions, and

Whereas, The allegations are directed inter alia against institutions to which the Commonwealth biennially appropriates large sums of money, and

Whereas, It would be highly improper were such charges to be ignored and the grave danger run of giving State funds to institutions that would make a wrong use of them; and

Whereas, It is incumbent on the Appropriation Committee of each branch of the General Assembly to eliminate the undeserving applicants for State aid; therefore

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur), That a joint commission is hereby established whose duty it shall be to investigate thoroughly all charges appearing in the public prints recently against institutions of the State, and those receiving State aid, and to report therein in writing as soon as practicable at this sesion of the General Assembly.

The Commission shall consist of the chairmen of the Appropriation Committee of the Senate and the House and of five members from each Appropriation Committee as may be selected by the respective chairman.

The commission is hereby given authority to issue subpoenas and to compel the attendance and testimony of persons and the production of books and papers. The subpoenas shall be served by the sergeant-at-arms of the House.

Any member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations in any matter under consideration by the committee.

THOMAS H. GARVIN,
Chief Clerk House of Representatives.

The foregoing resolution concurred in March 8, 1915.

HARMON M. KEPHART,
Chief Clerk of the Senate.

Approved the 19th day of March, 1915.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

Certified to by William Hertzler, Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth."

For the information of those present the declaration of the Commission is that the Commission has selected A. C. Stein, Esq., as its counsel. He will ask the questions and conduct the inquiry. The presence of other counsel is welcome as individuals having an interest in the matter in question but not as participants. The desire of this Committee is to ascertain the truth or falsity of certain assertions issued by or on behalf of the association styled the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, or the Allegheny County Committee thereof, the same being set forth in a pamphlet and in numerous newspaper articles, all emanating from the same source. It is the desire of the Committee, therefore, to establish, as above stated, the truth or falsity of these statements. The assertions referred to are more or less grave in their character and reflect on the management of the institutions in question. Therefore, in order to expedite matters and clear the records, if possible, of any such charges, the inquiry will be narrowed down to specific cases or points upon which the Commission have determined. The exclusion of counsel at this stage is thought advisable. In fact the presence of counsel would be unnecessary and unwise. Neither the State nor the institution in question have the time or funds to carry on a useless or unnecessary prosecution, as it might be termed at this juncture. If any grave charges are established the same will be dealt with subsequently and summarily elsewhere. Counsel, therefore, will be permitted at this hearing for the purpose only of preventing clients from incriminating themselves in testimony or involving themselves in liability to prosecution. While it is the desire to shorten the proceedings as much as possible the greatest latitude will be permitted for a proper refutation of the charges and for that matter for any additional charges that may have a bearing on the case and which may be properly substantiated. The various homes and institutions charged have, it is recognized, the greatest right in this matter, because of the possibility of their support from the State is directly involved and any and every means must be afforded them to contradict the charges. The Charities Association, so styled, is not charged, but has charged these institutions under inquiry, and therefore counsel we think in either case would be unwise as it is unnecessary. Should the course of the inquiry prove our decision unwise we reserve the right to change the same. I will further state for the benefit of the people present that this inquiry will be confined entirely to the institutions which have been charged with gross violations set forth in public print and we are here to-day to hear charges against these institutions, and that is the reason why we deem it unwise to have counsel make any remarks, because we are sitting here like a grand jury. We, however, will hear the evidence and draw our conclusions from the evidence produced at this hearing.

MR. SCARLETT. Mr. Chairman, I had hoped to be of assistance to the Committee in this investigation, as I understood it to be entirely within the power of the Committee to order it, as it has been done, I understand that private counsel, or counsel for the Public Charities Association, will not be heard at all in this matter, but that the counsel selected by the Committee will conduct the hearing and ask all the questions. I have no desire at all to press my position in the matter, but simply to explain why I am here. I recognize, of course, the power of the Committee to conduct the investigation as it pleases. With your permission I shall retire.

THE CHAIRMAN. The Commission is still of the opinion that the aid of counsel is unnecessary, unless they desire to sit here as others. We are here merely to hear the allegations and we are then to hear the other side against whom allegations are made and we are the grand jury in this particular case. That is the stand we take. They may stay as regard to protecting the witnesses as set forth in our statement, to prevent them from incriminating themselves, or involving themselves in personal liability to prosecution.

As the accusations or charges are made by the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, in order to understand what this organization is, we understand Mr. Dripps, of Philadelphia, is the head of this organization, we would like him to testify if he will come forth.

MR. DRIPPS. I desire to be of every possible help that I can in this particular matter. I want very respectfully, however, to decline to testify here unless I am subpoenaed unless I am permitted to be represented, in common with the others, by counsel. I do not think, sir, that it is a fair thing to expect one side of a question which is in issue to be in a sense represented by counsel and the other side not.

THE CHAIRMAN. Mr. Dripps, allow me to correct you there. Mr. Stine is merely the attorney for the Commission. He will not cross-examine any witnesses. He is merely here as attorney for the Commission, which every Commission has that is created by the General Assembly, not for the purpose of cross-examining or giving any greater rights than those who have made charges.

MR. DRIPPS. Mr. Chairman, you will recall the fact, however, that various interviews have appeared in the papers coming from individual members of the Commission and indicating a very definite point of view with regard to these charges and in view of that fact it is not exactly on all fours with an investigation of a court and it seems to me that under those circumstances it would not be an unfair thing, especially in view of the statement that has been made here that some evidence which will probably have to be produced may be of a character to incriminate. If that is the case, and also in view of the fact that apparently and clearly the idea of every one interested in this investigation is to get at the facts, I think it is a well known fact that an attorney is often able to make sure that a client does bring out the facts as they actually are better than that man or woman might be able to do by himself or herself and for that reason we have attorneys in connection with investigations of this sort. It seems to me, under those circumstances, it is not unreasonable and in a very respectful way, not at all in the way of criticism, for us to press a very earnest request for a consideration of that matter, so that this hearing may proceed with every appearance of fairness, so that everybody may have a right to be represented. I would say it is not my desire personally in making this request to you to present the matter in the sense of addresses to a jury or arguments, or things of that kind, but I feel that just as it is a great advantage to the Commission to have questions asked by its attorney, it is of equal advantage to those who appear before the Commission to have some one ask questions for them.

THE CHAIRMAN. Mr. Dripps, our purpose solely is to ascertain from you and for the benefit of the public at large in the State of Pennsylvania the facts about your institution known as the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, and that is all the Commission desires to obtain from you and if you are not willing to give the same without subpoena that is a question for you to decide for yourself.

MR. DRIPPS. I will be very glad to be of any assistance, or give any information in my power that will aid this Commission to arrive at the facts.

THE CHAIRMAN. Will you be sworn.

MR. DRIPPS. I feel that I ought not to do that unless I am permitted, in common with the others, to be represented by counsel.

MR. WOODWARD. It is only the purpose of the Commission to see just what the Association was organized for and whether or not it operates under a charter and whether or not the Allegheny Association operates under your charter.

MR. DRIPPS. Any information I have on that that the Commission would desire I would only be too glad to give, but, on the other hand, it seems to me it is a matter of principle as to whether or not there is going to be the ordinary and usual right of being represented by counsel in this matter.

MR. WOODWARD. This is not a prosecution, it is simply an inquiry: we simply want facts.

MR. DRIPPS. But you cannot give your facts properly without having some one to present the matter.

THE CHAIRMAN. Your facts are very well laid before you start to make accusations, at least they should be for the best interests of any community.

MR. DRIPPS. I assume they have been, but as you understand I have no knowledge of that personally.

MR. WOODWARD. Mr. Dripps, we have no objection to the presence of counsel while you are testifying.

THE CHAIRMAN. We did not exclude counsel.

MR. DRIPPS. I know, but you have indicated that he could only sit here as a private citizen.

THE CHAIRMAN. "Counsel, therefore, will be permitted at this hearing for the purpose only of preventing clients from incriminating themselves in testimony or involving themselves in liability to prosecution." I have this written so that I could not be misquoted in regard to the Commission.

MR. DRIPPS. I regret exceedingly to take this position. My present feeling is that neither I nor any of the other persons who have been asked to appear here today should testify in the absence of counsel. Unless I am subpoenaed I shall have to hold to that agreement.

MR. GRAY. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the Commission, we have very thoroughly prepared to give you the information which I believe you want. In order to do that Mr. Scarlett has come here and familiarized himself with the report and the facts of it and with the witnesses who can substantiate them. We are all ready to do that for you, but it will take the Commission, I think, a very much longer time to get this information from the witnesses if they are simply to, as I understand it, come up here and tell anything they please themselves, or by questions from those who are not familiar with the facts, and we feel justice cannot be done here unless we are allowed to proceed in the way we planned; that is, have Mr. Scarlett conduct the examination of our witnesses, of course, subject to cross-examination, if you may see fit. Now we cannot proceed here otherwise than that and we most respectfully say to your Commission that unless you permit us to do that we will withdraw entirely and you will have to prosecute the inquiry in your way as best you can, by subpoenaing any witnesses you see fit.

MR. BUCKMAN. Whom do you represent?

MR. GRAY. I am chairman of the Allegheny County Committee of this Association.

MR. BUCKMAN. What Association?

MR. GRAY. The Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

THE CHAIRMAN. Mr. Gray, we contend that we sit here like a grand jury to hear the evidence only.

MR. GRAY. May I say this, I am very sure that your Commission will be greatly saved and you will get the information you want much more quickly and intelligently if we are permitted to have it presented in this way, because there are a great mass of facts and naturally the witnesses cannot marshal them themselves and present them to you on the controverted points speedily, and it is simply to save your time and promote order here and that the matter may be thoroughly presented that we ask this privilege. I really think that you ought to grant it to us and I most respectfully would like to show you everything about this report, but we cannot do it in justice to ourselves or anybody else unless it is done in the orderly way we have planned.

THE CHAIRMAN. The Chair would state that we have already read the declaration in regard to counsel. This Commission was organized out of the General Assembly to come here and hear evidence on these particular allegations. The Commission now desires to state again that we are here to hear any allegations of irregularities against any of the institutions which have been named in public print, and if any person present has any allegation of any irregularity to make to this Commission the Commission is now ready to hear the same.

MR. WOODWARD. I wish to say that we regret very much this delay. The parties who left the hall here a few moments ago were not subpoenaed. They offered to come voluntarily. Mr. Dripps called on me some week or two ago and asked me if it was our intention to issue subpoenas for the membership of their organization and I told him that it was not and that we would issue no subpoenas where the witnesses would come voluntarily, and pursuant to that yesterday I notified in writing Mr. Osseroff and Mr. Gray, who represent the Allegheny county branch of this Association, to be here and they presented themselves this morning and have retired and it became necessary for us to issue subpoenas. We expect to see that they are here later on.

THE CHAIRMAN. Those who are interested in this hearing will kindly remain, as some of the witnesses who have made accusations on behalf of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania have refused to testify the Sergeant-at-Arms now have subpoenas in their hands to compel their appearance here to substantiate their allegations.

THE CHAIRMAN. Owing to the fact that the men for whom subpoenas have been issued cannot be found at their places of business or elsewhere at the present time, we are obliged to adjourn this meeting until half past two this afternoon so that they may be found and brought here to testify. The meeting will now stand adjourned until half past two this afternoon.

Adjourned until two-thirty o'clock p. m.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 9, 1915, 2:30 P. M.

The Commission met pursuant to adjournment.

THE CHAIRMAN. The Commission desires to call first Mr. Dripps.

ROBERT D. DRIPPS, Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. What is your name?

A. Robert D. Dripps.

Q. Where do you live?

A. 5906 Wayne Avenue, Germantown, Philadelphia.

Q. Mr. Dripps, what association are you connected with in Philadelphia?

A. The Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

Q. You have your own charter, do you not, Mr. Dripps?

A. We have, sir.

Q. How old is your charter, please?

A. My recollection is, sir, two and one-half years, about, I do not have the exact information.

Q. Mr. Dripps, what is your position in that association?

A. I am the Executive Secretary, sir.

Q. What connection has the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania with your association?

A. The charter of the Public Charities Association, as I recall the matter, provides for the possibility of having county committees forming where that seems wise and desirable, to co-operate with the main organization, and I would say to be an integral part of it and under that provision in the charter a committee was formed here in Pittsburgh before I became associated with the Public Charities Association and that is the Allegheny County Committee of which you speak.

Q. They therefore operate under your charter?

A. They operate under our charter, I should say so.

Q. I ask you whether or not the following names are the members of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania: Charles H. Frazier, M. D., President?

A. He is the President, yes, sir.

Q. Mrs. Edward W. Biddle, First Vice-President?

A. Correct.

Q. James H. Gray, Second Vice-President?

A. Correct, sir.

Q. Edward B. Smith, Treasurer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Dripps, I have here a pamphlet and ask you if these are the members of the association as set forth there, to the best of your knowledge and belief?

A. I believe these are, sir. If you will permit me I will hand you this as a correct list, I believe they are the same.

Q. Does the main body assume any responsibility for the statements made by any of its subsidiary organizations throughout the State, Mr. Dripps?

A. Mr. Chairman, I would answer that question in this way, if I may use this particular report as illustrating the question involved. The search which resulted in the report, which is the basis for this particular investigation, was made under the auspices of the Allegheny County Committee. I personally had nothing whatever to do with the making of that investigation, the central office in Philadelphia had nothing whatever to do with it. The report was shown to me before it was published, naturally I could not pass on the facts involved, as I was not a Pittsburgh person and did not know on the facts involved, as I was not a Pittsburgh person and did not visit any of these institutions, but so far as the policy of giving the general information in that report with a view to endeavoring to further the primary objects of the association throughout the State, namely, the constructive improvement and not the destructive criticism of such institutions as are engaged in public charitable work, we did think that that was a wise thing to do. However, that particular report was never passed upon by the board of directors of the State association, but if you will notice it is indicated on the front page as being the first publication of the Allegheny County Committee. I don't know that I have specifically answered that question or not but I have endeavored to.

Q. You have. Do you know, has this committee, or any branch of it, made any investigations, or any charges against any other institutions in the State of Pennsylvania?

A. You mean the Allegheny County Committee?

Q. No, I mean the Pennsylvania State organization of Public Charities Association?

A. Mr. Chairman, I would say that we do not regard even this report as preferring charges against any institutions. If the report is read through from beginning to end you will see that it is an attempt to take a certain group of institutions collectively doing a certain piece of work and then to try to ascertain the exact conditions under which they are doing that work, the way they are doing it, and give a fair picture of the whole thing. Now that sometimes means giving great praise and sometimes means, unfortunately, calling attention to things that are not desirable. With that limitation I would say that the Public Charities Association have had an investigation made, beginning with the first of June and extending until the first of December, of all the institutions in Pennsylvania that care for the insane, they had that made by an expert who was brought here at the recommendation of the national committee for mental hygiene, Dr. C. Floyd Haveland, of King's Park Asylum, New York, and that survey also resulted in a report covering those institutions, which is now in press and is about to be issued. In addition to that, the association, with a view of gaining such information as was available with regard to the persons who were feeble minded and as to whether a need existed for additional facilities for caring for that class of our dependents, caused an investigation to be made in certain sections in central and western Pennsylvania also by an expert, engaged for that purpose, and that has resulted in a report which is now in press. In addition to that, the Allegheny County Committee, I believe, have recently, with the approval obtained in advance of the board of judges, of this county, caused some study to be made of the county jail and the Allegheny county workhouse. It also was made by an expert with the view of simply getting at the facts and not at all hunting for undesirable things to the exclusion of desirable things, and that report is about to be published. I don"t know just how far that has progressed, it is in the hands of the Allegheny County Committee. I do not think at the present moment of any other special work along that line except in the little pamphlet which I want to give you with a correct statement of members there is one more statement of the work they are interested in and which I think will explain itself.

Q. Mr. Dripps, in making the investigations do you know whether or not it was ever taken up with the State Board of Charities whose duty it is to pass upon all these applications prior to being presented to the legislature?

A. Yes, sir, for example, when we undertook the investigation of the State hospitals for the insane that matter was taken up with the State Board of Charities and the investigator, Dr. Haveland, was greatly aided in his work by a very courteous letter of introduction given, I think, by Mr. Bromley Wharton, Secretary, and General Agent, but certainly given by one of the officials of the board and I think in other ways there was co-operation there; at all events there certainly was no difficulty or friction of any sort with regard to the work for the feeble minded. There was evidently a need for that because it was not done by those institutions. In regard to Allegheny county I can't answer that question. I don't know, sir.

Q. That is all, Mr. Dripps; you have the thanks of the Commission.

A. Mr. Chairman, I would like to make entirely clear one point. Although I have given the exact situation with regard to this particular report, I am very anxious it should not be the conception of the Commission that the general State organization in any way repudiates the work of the Allegheny County Committee. I assume you understand that.

JAMES H. GRAY, Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Gray?

A. 5516 Ailesboro Avenue, Pittsburgh.

BY THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Mr. Gray, you are chairman of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I show you a report here of the Allegheny County Association, says on here "Report of the Allegheny County Committee Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, 1915"; I ask you whether or not you are a member of the committee getting out this report?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was this report affirmed by the members of the Allegheny County Committee that you have set forth here as the members of this committee of this association in Western Pennsylvania?

A. The County Committee authorized the appointment of a publication committee to pass upon the reports which we expect to issue, that is one among others, also a committee on children's institutions. Both of these committees approved of this report and you will have to inquire of Mr. Osseroff whether there was a general meeting of the committee finally authorizing it or not, I don't recall.

Q. Mr. Gray, who constitutes this committee which you have just spoken of?

A. The sub-committees?

Q. Yes.

A. I appoint them.

Q. Who are they—the publication committee?

A. The publication committee—I will have to see, my recollection on it,—they are on here I see. The publication committee consisted of Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee, Rev. Charles E. Snyder and Grant Curry, Esq.

Q. Mr. Gray, did you ever meet with this committee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. This is the committee then that filed this report, is it not, or the sub-committee, that filed this report?

A. They finally put the approval on it by which it was published. The general committee met, I think, in answer to a call for the purpose of acting on this report and authorized the sub-committee and they did it.

Q. It was passed upon first by the sub-committee?

A. On children's institutions.

Q. And then referred to the main body and approved by them?

A. Referred to the publication committee.

Q. And approved by them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did any members of this committee make any investigations themselves personally?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were they, please.

A. Senator, I could not tell you from memory who they all were.

Q. Perhaps the secretary could tell us later?

A. Perhaps he can.

Q. Do you remember any of the committee, of the publication committee, or the sub-committee of the publication committee, Mr. Gray, do you remember any of them at all, who made investigations?

A. At these institutions?

Q. Yes, of the sub-committee, of the publication committee?

A. I think you had better ask Mr. Osseroff that.

Q. Now, Mr. Gray, have you any information that you would like to give to the committee in regard to the findings of this Public Charities Association of western Pennsylvania, we would like to hear it if you have.

A. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the Commission, I would like very much to give you the information which you ask for but under the rulings which you made this morning I feel it is absolutely unjust and unfair to expect us to do so. We had our case very thoroughly prepared to give it to you in an orderly and direct manner that would have saved us all a lot of time and would have presented the matter in a forcible, clear and concise way and it is impossible for us to do that piecemeal by one witness after another without any counsel, and I don't feel therefore like voluntarily undertaking to explain our position in this matter, but I am here under your subpoena to answer whatever questions you may see fit to ask me. I want to say this, however, that the preparation of this report was very carefully considered. The committee on children's institutions, of which Grant Curry, Esq., is chairman, and the publication committee, studied the matter very thoroughly. Mr. Osseroff took months to prepare the report and make the study. It was done for the purpose of being helpful to the institutions studied and to the people; it was done in a constructive spirit and we did not look upon it as making any charges against anybody, but as stating the truth about those institutions in a scientific manner which, if acted upon by all interested in an open minded way, will redownd greatly to the credit of those institutions. For that purpose we came here this morning, to present our case as we had it prepared. I think we could have done so in a very helpful way but it is absolutely impossible for us to do ourselves credit in the way prescribed. Therefore, as I stated this morning, I most respectfully say to you we are here and you will have to conduct the case in the way you please. In my view, Mr. Osseroff did for this community and the State of Pennsylvania a very fine work, one which ought to be most helpful to you and to these institutions and to this community. It was not done in a critical manner at all but in a helpful way and I sincerely hope it will be treated as such and will be used as such and that out of this investigation and this report will come greatly improved institutions of this kind in this place. Particularly I would like to see come out of it institutions for the colored children which will be of the style of the Thorn Hill School of Allegheny county, which is first class in every particular and I think a standard for such institutions. I will answer any questions you may put to me.

MR. WOODWARD. Are you an attorney, Mr. Gray?

A. Yes, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. Mr. Gray, notwithstanding the fact of our ruling you are deeply interested in this work, which any person can commend you for, we have no doubt that notwithstanding that fact, being a party to the publication of this report and chairman of the Allegheny County Committee of this association and being a member of the Allegheny county bar, that you should give us any information that you have in regard to your findings as set forth in this report.

A. I am sorry, Senator, that I cannot coincide with your view. I will say this in addition, I approve of this report most heartily. I am satisfied perfectly that it is exact, accurate and fair, and I say this further, that I am sure, had we been permitted to proceed the way we had planned we could prove to your satisfaction that it is a very thorough piece of work, but in the short time, since we have had our plan entirely frustrated, I don't think it is fair to ask us to present a case here.

Q. Mr. Gray, what do you know about the Boys' Industrial Home of Western Pennsylvania at Oakdale?

A. I visited the home at Oakdale and in general I repeat that Mr. Osseroff's report on that institution is a very fair report.

Q. You didn't make investigation of that institution?

A. I was there.

Q. Were you?

A. Oh, yes, and spent, I suppose, a half day there in company with Mr. Cleland and some of the members of their board and others, but, of course, I didn't examine their records and finances and things like that. I saw the institution, at least the main building, at Oakdale and the barn of the cottage.

Q. You visited that like any ordinary visitor would have visited?

A. I visited it, went through the institution as they showed us.

Q. Like an ordinary visitor would go through it?

A. Certainly.

Q. Have you any complaints to file against any institution why they should not receive State aid?

A. None whatever. I think it is a very good institution, I think Mr. Osseroff's recommendations all could well be followed and I guess Mr. Cleland agrees with most of them.

Q. Did you visit Thorn Hill School, Allegheny County Industrial and Training School for Boys?

A. I have been at Thorn Hill School a number of times.

Q. What have you to say about the management of that institution?

A. I think it is very fine indeed. I would like to say, Senator, again, I wish you would see that the colored boys here have as good a place as that.

Q. Did you visit personally, Mr. Gray, the Pittsburgh Sunshine Children's Home?

A. No, Senator, I have not visited any of the other homes.

Q. None of the others?

A. No, sir.

The CHAIRMAN. That is all, thank you very kindly, Mr. Gray.

ABRAHAM OSSEROFF, Sworn.

BY THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Mr. Osseroff, what is your title connected with the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. I am Executive Secretary of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association.

Q. Are you a member of the publication committee?

A. Ex-officio, yes.

Q. You assisted in making up the report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. I did. I am responsible for it, most of it.

Q. Did you visit the Boys' Industrial Home of Western Pennsylvania?

A. I did.

Q. How did you find conditions there in regard to the management and control of that institution?

A. Just exactly as detailed on pages 16, &c., of this report. The items there, I think, are brought out, the institution is a good one and deserves support.

Q. How far did you go into the depths of the management of this institution?

A. I spent two days there and one night. I slept there over night and spent two practically full days working until eleven o'clock at night on one of those days.

Q. Assisted by the superintendent?

A. Exactly.

Q. Did the superintendent show you how the books were kept and all that?

A. He did.

Q. And without referring to this report, which we haven't time to read now, I am asking you as a matter of testimony, your mind is fresh on all this, what kind of an institution would you say this is, as regard to receiving State aid, should or not it receive State aid?

A. In comparison with other institutions—

Q. I mean in its way of doing work?

A. Do you mean this as a proposition of State aid?

Q. Receiving State aid, this institution receives State aid.

A. If any children's institution is entitled to State aid this one is.

Q. Mr. Osseroff, who assisted you in making your investigations of these institutions?

A. The actual investigation work of all these institutions was done by myself with no assistance except to follow up investigations of members of the committee.

Q. Then you took them before the sub-committee of the publication committee?

A. The method pursued was this, I made a thorough investigation of the institution, I took about two institutions a week, investigated those and wrote my detailed reports from notes taken at those institutions during the course of that week, almost immediately after the visits to those institutions, those detailed reports averaging about thirty foolscap typewritten pages, were presented to members of our committee irrespective of what sub-committee they happened to be on.

Q. You mean the general committee in Allegheny county?

A. Not necessarily, the publication committee, that was a final committee. They went over this report and followed that by a visit to that particular institution to see whether in their minds that report was a fair one and an accurate one.

Q. Who were the members of this committee?

A. Of which committee.

Q. To whom you made this detailed report?

A. Those happened to be individual members of the large committee, irrespective as I have said before, of sub-committees.

Q. Give us the names of those.

A. I think I can do that, I don't have my data here, I had it here this morning, I am not sure I can give you accurate statistics on those things, I may have it down here somewhere. I can only give you a very general idea as to the members of the committee who did this visiting.

Q. That is what I want.

A. We can put on that Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee, Mr. J. Byron Deacon, Mr. Ward Bonsall, Mr. Grant Curry, Rev. Charles E. Snyder, Rev. W. F. Conner, Mr. James H. Gray. Now that is all that I have here, that is not a complete list.

Q. That is very good. Now, Mr. Osseroff, what was your real object in visiting these institutions?

A. The object was a constructive one. I believe that we cannot organize any constructive movement for improvement in any individual institution or group of institutions without actually knowing the facts as they exist inside of those institutions, so the very first step in a constructive program is to find the facts. That was the first purpose, the next purpose was to put this body of facts before those who are most particularly interested in these institutions, and those are the benefactors perhaps, the general public and those in charge of the institutions. I believed before I started the investigation and substantiated it during the course of the investigation, that superintendents and managers of institutions very often limit themselves quite a good bit to their own institutions and for their benefit, as well as the benefit of the community and the benefactors and the welfare of the children it was worth while to put this body of facts out.

Q. Mr. Osseroff, what specific knowledge of training have you had in regard to the running of institutions of this character?

A. I have never done any actual institutional work as such. I have been engaged in one form or other of charitable work since 1910, I have made a special study of it since then.

Q. Never been connected with an institution of this character?

A. No, I have been connected with settlement schools.

Q. Do you know of any member of that committee, for instance, Ward Bonsall, Rabbi I. Coffee, James H. Gray, Rev. Charles E. Snyder, who has ever had particular knowledge of the inside workings or running of an institution such as you have investigated and made your report upon?

A. I am sorry, Senator, I cannot speak for members of the committee, I don't know what training they have had.

Q. You have made your investigations and through these investigations this report was made. Did you ever make any report to the State Board of Charities in regard to the running of these institutions?

A. As such, no.

Q. Do you know whether there is such a board?

A. I have heard of it.

Q. Do you know what their duties are?

A. In a general way I do.

Q. You would naturally, being interested in this charitable work. Do you know whether or not this board is a legally constituted board who examines into all charities or institutions of the State of Pennsylvania who receive State aid?

A. I understand that.

Q. You never made report of your findings to them?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever make a suggestion to them?

A. No, I did not; I depended, however, for my criterion on the objects of the State board, depended on those.

Q. You are Executive Secretary of that association in Western Pennsylvania?

A. I am of the Allegheny County Committee.

Q. Did you ever make any suggestion or file any reports with the chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the Senate or House who pass upon those applications?

A. The members of the Appropriations Committee from Allegheny county, both Senate and House, were mailed a report before this report was actually issued in this form immediately after presentation, on February 16th.

Q. It was never taken up with the chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the Senate and the House, except that the report was sent to—

A. I want to qualify that, not insofar as I am concerned, I didn't do it.

Q. Do you know the Thorn Hill School, Allegheny County Industrial and Training School for Boys?

A. I do.

Q. What do you say about that institution?

A. I would say that is a very good institution.

Q. Well run?

A. It is.

Q. You visited the Pittsburgh Sunshine Children's Home?

A. I did.

Q. Do you think that is an institution deserving of State aid?

A. I do not.

Q. Will you kindly tell the commission why, Mr. Osseroff?

A. For the reasons enumerated in the report, on pages 30 and 31.

Q. You know those facts, can you give them to us in condensed form?

A. It would be very difficult to do that, I do not have the details here. Of course you understand that this investigation took six months, it covers twenty institutions and we have a detailed report on every one of those institutions, I don't carry the details around with me.

Q. Do you think you can answer these questions from it—and I presume the facts that are in your brain at the present time, gleaned from the investigating of the institution—do you think it is properly managed?

A. I do not in certain particulars; that is, it may have its good points.

Q. Could you qualify that, Mr. Osseroff?

A. I can with that one statement of punishment, for example, which reflects in the direction at least of mismanagement, the ducking, for example, of a girl in water here, I don't remember exactly where this place was, I didn't have time to look over this report again.

MR. BUCKMAN. You will find that on the bottom of page 9.

A. Page 30 or 31, I see it. I should say that at least was one indication that the management was not very good.

Q. From the mode of punishment of the children?

A. Just in that particular instance, I don't say that this stands for the foundation of criticism.

Q. That is one of them?

A. Yes.

Q. What is the mode of punishment inflicted there upon the children?

A. At this particular time of the incidents given here this was the mode as presented to me.

Q. By whom, Mr. Osseroff?

A. By Mrs. W. H. L. Newingham, president of the institution, Mrs. Newingham and the matron of the institution, Mrs. Bachelor, together took this girl and because she refused to do some little task in the home turned her upside down into a tub of water until she came around. That is the mode of punishment as used at the particular time at which it was given.

Q. I see in the report it says the president permitted shaking up of the children for little offences?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that objectionable?

A. It is if carried to extremes, as it must have been at that time from the description given by the president of the institution.

Q. Now the punishment is one thing; do you remember any other?

A. I would much rather, Senator, that you would just ask me questions on this so that I can give it to you. As I have said, I had detailed data here and was perfectly ready to give you the detailed data here of every one of these institutions.

Q. Any other details you can give us?

A. They are right here, this is a summarized form of details.

Q. You say that the mode of punishment was told by Mrs. Newingham, the matron, or whatever they had, of the institution?

A. President, as I understand it.

Q. It was not seen by the person who made the visit to the institution?

A. I didn't see it, I was the observer, I took Mrs. Newingham's authority for it.

Q. She was the person who told you this?

A. Yes.

Q. On the next page you say something about the food is not good.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Osseroff, do you realize that it takes quite a vast amount of money to run institutions of this character and institutions like hospitals?

A. Yes, sir. I would say, Senator, however, that it would be a very sad commentary on the community of Pittsburgh if Pittsburgh and Pittsburghers did not have enough money by State aid to feed the children right, I don't think that is a very good argument.

Q. Mr. Osseroff, evidently you have not been connected with any institutions. I can judge that for this reason, it is not what they would like to give the children; I am connected with State hospitals in the city where they are obliged to go on notes for from thirty-five to forty thousand dollars. It is not always what they would like to give to the children but they cannot get it and the general rule is that when all these letters that are sent out asking for assistance how very few will respond to that call of duty on behalf of charity and the ladies, as a general rule, of those institutions, are obliged to give chicken and waffle suppers, bazaars, etc., in order to run these institutions. If that is the case, Mr. Osseroff, and the institution which is deemed necessary and passed upon by the State Board of Charities as a grand institution and they strive to get food to put into their children's mouths and the people do not respond how are you going to better those conditions from your experience?

A. I was going to say I don't believe an institution should be conducted unless the children can be properly provided for inside of that institution, if there isn't enough financial backing behind that institution to care properly for those children the institution ought to close its doors. That is the only answer I can give to that question.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. This institution, Mr. Osseroff, is for the care of children?

A. I think it is.

Q. You say that they were not properly fed?

A. I make that statement with regard to the general food, yes.

Q. Did you inquire into the places or homes from which these children came?

A. I didn't as such, that is, I did not go into any detailed study of the family life of these children.

Q. Then you don't know what they were accustomed to getting before they were placed in this institution?

A. Except from general ideas of the class of children.

Q. Where did you get your ideas from?

A. During the course of five years study of charitable problems.

Q. A course of five years study enables you to tell what the conditions were of the homes or places where these children were before they were put into the institution?

A. They do.

Q. That is the only knowledge you have of these conditions existing prior to their being put into the institution?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. From your knowledge and experience as an expert of same years standing what would you say the conditions of those places from whence these children came were?

A. I can see just exactly what you are driving at, Senator. I don't believe that there is any scientific comparison between the kind of homes the children came from and the kind of an institution they are put in. When you take a poverty stricken man from some attic to the new asylums you don't approximate the hospital room to his dingy attic prior, do you? and for that same reason we should not try to approximate the lower standard inside of a community such as we have in Pittsburgh to the asylum conditions we have in our worst asylums. That is my attitude.

Q. If you cannot get money from the State to take care of these institutions you would close them up?

A. I would close up every institution that is not deserving of State aid or support due to mismanagement.

Q. If you cannot get State aid you would say pass it up to the citizenship of Pittsburgh?

A. To support institutions that are now here and have proper management.

Q. Do you not believe the position of the children in this home is better than the position they occupied before they were sent there?

A. I don't necessarily. Of course that is a general question, I don't think it is a fair question to ask. It is impossible for a man to tell the position of any one of these children, the homes they come from, I don't know that definitely, but as a general thing I would say that the conditions there are as good as the average home that those children come from.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. What would you suggest doing with these children if the homes are closed?

A. I think they can either be taken care of in the homes as now constituted or better ones, or, I believe, on the other hand, that some children may be there who would possibly not be there if the institution didn't have its doors open.

Q. Would there be room in other institutions?

A. There may be some, I don't know just how much room. I don't know that the closing up of this one institution, for example, would flood the community with children so that they could not be taken care of properly.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Mr. Osseroff, in your investigation of these homes and their necessity you say that an institution that cannot be properly taken care of in the way you say, better food should be prepared; did you make a study of the necessity for institutions of this character in Allegheny County?

A. I can answer that by the experience during the course of this investigation in just one institution. Of course you understand that investigation of this sort is rather lengthy and drawn out proceeding; it took six months to do this, so we cannot go into quite as great detail and possibly point out the facts that were asked a moment ago as we would wish to, but in one institution where a family study was made, we were altogether convinced that thirty per cent. of those children didn't need to be inside of that institution and could probably have been taken care of elsewhere. Does that answer that question?

Q. In a sense, yes, but do you realize, Mr. Osseroff, that the necessity for these institutions arises by virtue of a demand for such institution at first, may that be true?

A. Not always.

Q. Isn't that your conception?

A. I would say that is not always true, although it is true in many cases, but very often an institution is started through a misconception of the absolute need. I don't say that applies to any institution in Allegheny County, but as a general principle.

Q. As a general principle their particular necessity must be a necessity for an institution or the good people who are generally connected with these institutions would not take an interest in the same?

A. I would not say that is an argument—

Q. I am not saying it for the purpose of argument.

A. I do want to say this, that the mere fact that a group of charitably inclined persons seem to think that an institution is necessary, does not prove that the institution is a necessity, that is, that the origin of the institution is not the result of a definite study.

Q. Do you believe that in forming conclusions as to the necessity of the institutions as you have them, and that they are not properly managed &c, should go out of existence, that the study of the necessity of such institutions should also be made before conclusions are drawn?

A. Yes, study would not hurt any time, we would be more certain.

Q. Don't you think it would be right and in conjunction with your great work here which you have undertaken to study the necessity for these institutions, the demands and needs in the great manufacturing district in which we live here?

A. Yes, I think a study of that would be a mighty interesting thing, there is no doubt of that at all.

Q. If you proved then in time that institutions were not necessary, merely a supposed charitable proposition, and people believe as you say that there was room for charity when in fact and reality there was not, that in time it means the abolition of some of the institutions, in other words consolidation, if brought to the attention of the Appropriation Committees of the Senate and House they would be very glad to help in bringing that about. I know in regard to what you state more particularly in regard to hospitals we have had hospitals in different cities and towns and if we find two institutions and practically only necessity for one we have instructed in many instances the consolidation or they receive no assistance from the State whatever if they don't carry out our recommendations. So the same could be done in regard to the existence of these homes, but you would have to prove to the committee of both Senate and House that you have made a thorough study in regard to the demand and necessity of these institutions—

A. I have not come here to prove anything, I have come here to answer questions. I stand on everything in the report as far as that goes.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Will you turn to page 9 of your report. I notice certain methods of punishment spoken of, one known as the lock-up, the other as the banister punishment; I wish you would tell us at what institutions that method of punishment is pursued and how much personal knowledge you have on the subject.

A. Those two forms of punishment were both in one institution, the home for colored children on Termon Avenue, north side. The knowledge of that punishment came to me after spending almost a complete day in that institution.

Q. From what source did that knowledge come?

A. It came to me from the management, interior management of the institution.

Q. Will you be a little more specific and give us names?

A. If you insist on that I will do that, if you think that is assential.

Q. I do insist.

A. The matron of the institution.

Q. Name, please?

A. I don't recall her name just now.

Q. How long ago was this?

A. This was some seven or eight months ago.

Q. Is the same person the matron of the institution now?

A. I believe she is.

Q. Have you any knowledge on the subject?

A. As to whether she is or not? She was until a few months ago.

Q. Who applied this punishment?

A. The preceding matron, this matron had come on recently.

Q. You do not have it then from the person who applied the punishment?

A. No, I do not.

Q. How long prior to your visit was this sort of punishment resorted to?

A. The children in the home at that time were perfectly cognizant of the existence of such punishment.

Q. You do not answer my question, I asked you how long prior to your visit was it that this sort of punishment was resorted to?

A. A more specific answer I cannot give you to that, as it was but recently before this new matron had come in, it was not by the last.

Q. What do you mean by recently?

A. Within two months. Remember this isn't anything definite, I would say about that, I didn't give the definite time, I would say about that period.

Q. When was that visit?

A. I don't have my data here.

Q. The best you can, during 1914?

A. Possibly.

Q. Can you give us the month in 1914?

A. During the month of August.

Q. Your judgment would be this punishment was practiced within two months of August, 1914?

A. I would say judging very generally; my statement is that the punishment was administered at some short time prior to the time that this matron assumed office.

Q. Do you know anything about the change in the matron of that institution?

A. How recently.

Q. I mean by that this matron who inflicted this punishment?

A. You mean the preceding matron? I don't quite understand the question, do you mean as to why she left or was dismissed?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know that.

Q. On the next page, page 10, you refer to the superintendent of another institution, speaking of punishment, I would like to know what knowledge you have on that?

A. On page 10?

Q. Third paragraph, page 10. "There aint never a boy come into this Home that I couldn't lick and show 'im he aint yet a man."

A. Exactly.

Q. What institution does that refer to?

A. Coleman Industrial School for colored boys. That is specifically stated in the report.

Q. Is that the same institution?

A. No indeed, that is another one.

Q. Did you have any observation of that home of any inhuman treatment of the inmates?

A. The superintendent told me that.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. Just exactly that, I put it down as he said it.

Q. Does that indicate that he did inflict any punishment?

A. It certainly did under the circumstances.

Q. What were the circumstances, let us have the whole facts.

A. I was talking to him about the punishment of the children at that time and how he kept control of them, because as a rule boys are unruly.

Q. What did he tell you?

A. That is what he told me, I told you I do not have the detailed reports here, I didn't bring them along.

Q. But I see nothing in that quotation that says that he does inflict punishment, he says no boys come there that he can't overpower.

A. A man does not necessarily say that for the fun of it when investigators are investigating his institution.

Q. Then he didn't make a direct statement that he had inflicted punishment?

A. It was, it was a statement that he had inflicted punishment.

Q. What kind of punishment did he have inflicted?

A. He was a man and they were boys and he struck them with his fists.

Q. Why didn't you put that in the report?

A. Because I thought I had enough in the report.

Q. For what?

A. To impress and give points of information on this institution. There is one thing I want to add to that, if you will permit, it is this: Every one of these institutions, the reports on them, I should say, could have been more drastic than it is, but for the sake of being absolutely fair and to avoid any chance of misconstruction in any of those reports they were toned down a bit. That is the spirit in which they were prepared.

Q. Will you tell the Commission why you did not report these matters to the State Board of Charities in order that they might correct some of these conditions?

A. The work was done under the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, it was not being done by the State Board and the purpose was to prove these things to the public in the spirit in which I have told you of before and in view of the things that Mr. Gray said, it was a matter of making a complete survey and of making a study of one institution and going to the next one and being through.

Q. You knew that there was a legally constituted board known as the State Board of Charities?

A. I did.

Q. You have not told me why you did not report this matter to them?

A. I think you know, Senator, that the State Board has an investigating organization of its own and they should have reports on these things. When I was on the field it was not essential that I immediately hand over this information to them, although I was perfectly willing to as soon as we were ready to present composite data on this information so that a constructive policy could be drawn and measures taken.

Q. As a citizen of proper motives do you not now consider that it was your duty to have brought this matter to the attention of the State Board of Charities?

A. No, I think it would have stopped a complete study with the hope of a constructive plan of all these institutions.

Q. If there is any trouble there don't you think the trouble should have been corrected at once?

A. Yes, sir, within six months all these things could have been corrected.

Q. What effort did you make to have them corrected?

A. This report is the effort.

Q. How long after the investigation was this report gotten out or circulated among the public?

A. It started its circulation about the 18th of February, the investigation started on the 9th of July. I may be a bit wrong perhaps it may be the 8th or 9th, I think it was the 9th of July as I remember now that the investigation of this institution started.

Q. Did you file any protests with the trustees or board of managers of any of these institutions as to the conditions you have alluded to?

A. No, it was not possible to do that.

Q. Why?

A. It would have antagonized and stopped the work.

Q. Wasn't it possible to have notified the institutions of these conditions that you object to?

A. Of course.

Q. Why didn't you do it?

A. In many cases I didn't believe that the management was competent to correct those things.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. The managers of the institution, inside of it.

Q. You do not mean the board of trustees?

A. Not necessarily.

Q. Did you call it to the attention of the board of trustees?

A. I did not, here is the way, this report was published.

Q. Why didn't you call it to the attention of the trustees? You say you considered the management inside of the institution were not competent to correct these objections, I ask you now why you didn't call it to the attention of the trustees?

A. I can answer that in this way: Where we felt that there was a possibility of proper reaction the kind of a report, detailed report that we drew up, the institution got an advance copy of that report.

Q. When?

A. Almost immediately after it was written.

Q. Referring to these homes that I have spoken of.

A. Which ones do you refer to?

Q. Where there were abuses as to punishment and so on, will you tell me when those abuses were brought to the attention of the boards of trustees of those homes?

A. Remember I didn't say all of them got them.

Q. I am referring to these particlar homes. I now ask you when this report was brought to the attention of those managers of those institutions?

A. I didn't say that those particular institutions got those reports.

Q. Did they or not?

A. You are referring to the Sunshine Home and the Coleman Home.

Q. Yes, for the time being?

A. They didn't get reports.

Q. But they got reports as to those institutions with reference to those abuses you have spoken of?

A. Superintendent Cleland of the Boys Industrial Home at Oakdale, possibly the managers of the Curtis Home, Thorn Hill got a copy of the report, I can't think of any others at the present moment, I don't know whether others did or not.

Q. How is it that you sent reports to some of these institutions and not to others, will you please tell us that?

A. The answer to that I gave you a little while ago, saying that I felt in these particular institutions there was hope that immediate changes could be made, I wanted them to take advantage of the advance copies of the report.

Q. Were any changes necessary at Oakdale, for instance?

A. Certainly there were.

Q. Were any changes necessary at those homes spoken of that the punishment was inflicted?

A. Of course there were.

Q. Why didn't you bring it to some one's attention?

A. For the reason that I gave you, I didn't think it would be acted on properly.

BY MR. McCAIG:

Q. Do you mean to say the boards of trustees were not competent to judge?

A. I didn't say anything of the sort, I was talking about the board of managers, the active managers within the home.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Where is this institution that the dungeon is spoken of in this report?

A. Home for Colored Children on Termon Avenue, North side.

Q. How long prior to your visit was that punishment indulged in?

A. About the same time, those punishments really overlapped.

Q. Inflicted by the same matron?

A. Yes, sir. Really one form of punishment was being used at a time when another child was being punished this other was resorted to. That was the method as it was given to me.

Q. Were either of those forms of punishment being used at the time you visited that institution?

A. I told you they were not.

Q. And had not been, I understood you to say, for some months prior to that?

A. They had not been used until some recent time up to the inauguration into office, if I may say that, of the present matron, or the matron who was there at the time of this investigation, I don't know whether she is there at the present moment.

A. How did you come to get the picture of this dungeon if the punishment was no longer inflicted in that way?

A. Through the managers inside of the institution; it was done in an absolutely logical and fair way, done through permission.

MR. FLYNN. Was the change of matrons because of this punishment?

A. I told you I didn't know anything about it.

MR. WOODWARD. Was it an improvement?

MR. FLYNN. Did it terminate these punishments?

A. I can't give you definite statements on that. At the time of the investigation the new matron had only been there a short time.

MR. WOODWARD. Did she impress you as being competent?

A. Impressed me with seriousness, a party that would not have resorted to those things.

MR. WOODWARD. That she would correct those things?

A. It resulted that she thought it was not the correct thing.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. How many children did you find incarcerated in this dungeon?

A. I can't give you figures on that, I can only say the children as a group were perfectly cognizant there were such forms in use.

Q. Did you receive evidence that any children had been put in that dungeon?

A. Absolutely.

Q. How many?

A. I can't tell you.

Q. One or more than one?

A. More than one.

Q. More than five?

A. I can't tell you that.

Q. How can you say more than one?

A. I remember very distinctly a boy and girl who spoke of being in the dungeon.

Q. Two children?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long?

A. Twenty-four hours.

Q. But under the new administration, I understand you to say, this was not practiced?

A. So I was told.

Q. Why did you put this in the report as a condition existing at the time you wrote this report, six months after your investigation?

A. I didn't put that in as a condition existing at that institution. It should not be tolerated and was tolerated at the time by the board of managers.

BY MR. TOMPKINS:

Q. Did these children say what they were put in there for?

A. No, I don't remember that they did at this moment, I may be able to make another statement as to that from the detailed reports, at the present moment I don't remember that they did state definite reasons for incarceration.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Have you any complaint to file against the Newsboys' Home spoken of in this report?

A. I am not filing complaints against any institutions.

Q. I am asking you whether you have any criticisms to make as to the Newsboys' Home?

A. The criticism in the report.

Q. I am asking you to repeat it now under oath.

A. I will be glad to do that. I think that on the whole that institution was written up as a very fair one. There were certain things that were not just proper at that time.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. What were they?

A. There was lack of proper investigation for admission as in most institutions, these children were taken in in a more or less haphazard fashion, a complete study was not made to see that the child needed just the kind of care or whether some other provision could not have been made for them. I felt at the time the dormitories up there, the large dormitory, containing as I recall it now, about twenty-five beds, I think it was, and auxiliary beds, I think about twenty-seven beds there, that was pretty good, the ventilation was all right, but what they call the alcove bed rooms were small, tiny rooms, about five feet wide and about seven feet long I say here, I don't remember just how they are now, open at the top, with no windows in the sills, they are covered with iron grating through which the air at night came. I felt that that was not a very wholesome thing for children, although that is not drastic criticism, I merely mention that.

Q. What is the most drastic criticism you have to make of that institution?

A. I don't have drastic criticism.

MR. WOODWARD. Do you think it should receive State aid?

A. I think if there are any other institutions in the State ought to that one should.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Are you in favor of any institution receiving State aid?

A. I don't know that that enters into this.

Q. Pardon me, I have asked the question.

A. Repeat it, please.

Q. Do you think any institution in this State should receive State aid?

A. I don't care to be quoted on that or give that any thought at all, I don't think it is necessary.

Q. Do you decline to answer that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. On what ground?

A. You understand I am in a very unfair position, I don't know what this means.

Q. You are under oath, I am asking you a question which you are obliged to answer unless you claim your constitutional privilege.

A. I don't know anything about constitutional privilege in Pensylvania, never made a study of it.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. You said if any institution deserved State aid you thought this one did?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then the question was asked you "Do you think any institution deserves State aid?"

A. My idea on that is that a children's institution is not necessarily a State institution. I believe children's institutions could be better taken care of by the community in which they exist.

MR. BUCKMAN. You have not answered my question, I insist you answer the question as to whether you think any institution in Pittsburgh should receive State aid.

The CHAIRMAN. Give your opinion.

A. That is altogether different, I didn't understand you at all, I thought you covered the whole State. I could not tell you that.

MR. BUCKMAN. I said in Pittsburgh.

A. I probably missed it, I didn't hear it. I believe that the principle of granting State aid to private children's institutions is not a correct one.

MR. BUCKMAN. Why not?

A. I don't think I have to go into that, I am not making a lecture. Because I believe the community could take better care of them.

MR. FLYNN. Your report was made for the purpose of showing that these institutions were not worthy of State aid?

A. That is not right, there was no such purpose. I would think the purpose was specifically stated before I started answering questions, Mr. Gray, I think, cited pretty clearly the purpose of the study and stated it had no significance particularly with regard to these institutions. That is as regard to the big proposition it didn't enter.

BY MR. TOMPKINS:

Q. Your idea, Mr. Osseroff, was to get conditions better in these institutions?

A. Exactly, the idea was to formulate through co-operative effort a constructive policy through which all institutions could benefit.

Q. Better conditions one of them?

A. Yes, sir, and not only that, to better child caring systems in institutions necessarily was very closely allied to child caring agencies anywhere.

Q. This report was made in February?

A. It was out in February, yes.

Q. Along July and August of last year preparing it?

A. I didn't say that, I said the data was gathered during the course of six months' study, little over five months made in the actual course of investigation and pretty nearly a month after that was given to the summarizing of the detailed report and preparing it for publication.

Q. Don't you know the State Board of Charities have the power to stop these appropriations in case charges are made?

A. I don't know what their powers are on that point, I know those institutions cited there that have inefficient management have been getting State aid a good many years.

MR. BUCKMAN. On page 7 of this report, under No. 2, Records, you have lax methods of keeping records of admission of children; will you enlighten the Commission upon that subject and tell us what you mean by that and tell us what institutions those conditions have been existing?

A. That particular reference there relates to accounts, am I right?

THE CHAIRMAN. Yes, "It would seem hardly possible that an institution in Allegheny County, particularly one supported in part by money from the State Treasury, could be so lax in its work as not to record at least the names of the children under its care, the date of their admission and a notation of their ultimate disposition; yet there are several such cases." Will you tell us where those cases are and describe in detail what your criticism is of the methods at those institutions?

A. I think an institution certainly cannot approach efficiency unless it has———

MR. BUCKMAN. Will you tell us the institution first and describe the conditions at each one.

A. At least two institutions that that refers to is the Home for Colored Children on the North Side and the Coleman Home, Industrial Home for Colored Boys. Now, at the Home for Colored Children on the North Side the matron gave me all the papers that she had and the books and so on, the system of ledger she had were the regular Fisher system,—gave that to me as the books she had on all of the children. This statement refers to those books. That was followed up by a visit to Mrs. Monroe, who was President of this institution, and on Saturday afternoon, if I recall correctly, I talked the situation over with Mrs. Monroe, asked her about the records, she said she thought that was the limit of the records she had. I wanted to know whether she saw anything additional.

Q. Did you find proper records?

A. I did not.

MR. WOODWARD. Are you sure she did not misconstrue what you wanted and gave you accounts instead of records?

A. No, she did not.

Q. May there not be another officer of the board of managers who would have some?

A. Who can tell you that? The records that I found was stated here as such and presented to me on the word of both the matron who should know, and the President of the Home, both of whom should be well informed of what is going on inside with regard to all conditions, irrespective.

Q. You have mentioned several, you call two several?

A. They are the only ones I think of at the present moment.

Q. Are you prepared to say whether there are more?

A. There may be, I can't think of another one.

Q. In the same paragraph a little farther down you speak of the Superintendent being so little familiar with the work being done that she judged of there being forty children under her care and actual count showed fifty-one.

A. The Home for Colored Children on the North Side.

Q. How many children were then there?

A. I gave you the number, fifty-one, I think the actual count shows.

Q. Who told you there were only forty?

A. The matron.

Q. What is the matron's name?

A. I can't recall the name, I told you that a little while ago.

Q. When was it that you were there?

A. Some time in August, I think it was, I can't give you those dates very specifically.

Q. Why didn't you bring that information along, you knew you were expected to testify here?

A. I was served with a subpoena indicating that, but I believed that the course of procedure was not just exactly what I should willingly like to take part in and for that reason———

Q. Why shouldn't you willingly take part in an investigation on the report you have written?

A. If we had been given opportunity to present our case as we had it everything was absolutely open and ready for presentation here this morning.

MR. WOODWARD. We are asking for your assistance.

A. I understand that and we offered it this morning, we wanted to co-operate, that was made quite plain.

Q. It would not be necessary to offer that through an attorney, you could do it, you wrote those reports?

A. Certainly I did.

Q. You ought to be able to present that to us without even having to question you.

A. I presented it here.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. You said the matter is not being presented in the way in which you wanted it; you helped in the preparation, you were prepared to go on with it this morning?

A. Naturally, I saw a part of it.

Q. Who would have testified had the inquiry gone on in the way in which you wanted it to go on?

A. There would have been a large number of people.

Q. Let us have their names in the first place, do you know any of them?

A. Yes, sir, I know a good many of them.

Q. Let us have the names of them and the addresses, if possible.

A. I don't believe I do have the names.

Q. Do you not remember the names of any of the witnesses you intended to call?

A. Yes, I can recall some of them.

Q. Will you let us have them?

A. Yes, I will. Here I have it. This is not a list of the witnesses, just a list of names referring to a dozen different things.

Q. I have asked you to let us have the names of the witnesses.

A. I can't give you a list.

Q. Give us as many as you can.

A. I shall do that.

Q. I ask you if you are trying to aid us or hinder us?

A. I was perfectly willing to co-operate this morning.

Q. Are you willing to assist this afternoon?

A. As long as you ask questions.

Q. Unless we ask specific questions you will not aid us in conducting this inquiry, except by answering questions that you are obliged to by law?

A. Unless obliged to by law?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't have to be obliged to by law.

Q. You are obliged by law to answer any proper questions this Commission may put to you unless you claim the constitutional privilege that the answer may incriminate you.

A. There is nothing here I am afriad of that might incriminate me. It is not necessary to exercise legal methods to get me here to testify.

Q. We did have to get you here to testify.

A. There wasn't any difficulty in that.

Q. You, however, left the room when you knew you were about to be called as a witness?

A. Yes, sir, because I was very firmly convinced that we were not getting a square deal.

Q. What do you mean?

A. That we should have been able to present our case as we had it prepared this morning when we were all here.

Q. Let me have the names of the witnesses who were here this morning.

A. Rabbi Coffee was one of the witnesses, Rev. Charles E. Snyder was one of the witnesses, Mr. Ward Bonsall was one of the witnesses, Dr. Amelia Dranga was one of the witnesses, Prof. A. J. Todd of the University of Pittsburgh was one of the witnesses.

Q. Now then, Mr. Osseroff, are there any more?

A. There are several.

Q. Let us have them.

A. Grant Curry, Esq., was one of the witnesses, James Rae, Manager Arbuthnut Stevenson Company, James H. Gray is here. That is all that I have here, Senator Buckman.

Q. Mr. Osseroff, with refernce to what institution did you intend to call Dr. Coffee?

A. He is a member of our publication committee, of course.

Q. That is not answering my question.

A. I am getting to your question, I say that he is a member of the publication committee, sub-committee, I think he can tell you of the spirit in which the report was prepared, its purpose, and he can tell you something about the Pittsburgh Newsboys' Home.

Q. With reference to what condition at the Newsboys' Home did you intend to have Dr. Coffee testify?

A. He can tell you.

Q. Do you know or not?

A. I am not thoroughly familiar with exactly what he is to testify to, he is familiar with conditions, I presume.

Q. Was he here this morning in this room?

A. I am not sure he was.

Q. Mr. Snyder, with reference to what institution did you intend to call him?

A. He is familiar with a number of institutions. I may be mistaken, I am telling you from memory.

Q. We want your best recollection.

A. I may qualify that, I feel quite sure he is familiar with the Home for Colored Children on the North Side. He is one of those who followed the investigation up as a visitor. With the Coleman Industrial Home for Colored Boys.

Q. With reference to what conditions are those two institutions?

A. He can tell you that much better than I.

Q. Do you know or not?

A. I don't, I don't undertake to tell what he knows.

Q. I am asking you with reference to what conditions you intend to criticise at those institutions?

A. He can point out details that will approximate those mentioned in the report.

Q. Of his own personal knowledge?

A. Certainly, he visited the institution.

Q. Mr. Bonsall, with reference to what institutions did you intend to call him?

A. Mr. Ward Bonsall visited the Home for the Friendless, he visited three or four of them, at least three.

Q. Do you know of any others beside the home for the Friendless?

A. I believe he visited Oakdale.

Q. Do you know with reference to what conditions he intended to testify or you intended to have him called?

A. The best I can give you on that is with regard to the conditions pointed out in that report. I don't know what he can tell you as an individual, he knows the subject better than I do from his own point.

Q. How about Dr. Dranga, with reference to what institution did you intend to call her?

A. She is a member of the board of directors of the Curtis Home and she is very likely familiar with conditions there.

Q. I am asking you with reference to what institution you intended to call her?

A. That is one.

Q. And with reference to what particular conditions in that institution did you intend to call her?

A. I will give you the same answer to that as I did the others.

Q. I will ask you to repeat the answer, if you know, if you do not know you may say so.

A. She may very likely limit herself to details, although I doubt it, to details given in that report. She may talk about the medical side of the institution, she is a physician.

Q. In other words, what conditions are you referring to in that report that she has knowledge of?

A. The report is right here.

Q. I am asking you if you know. If you cannot answer my question just say so.

A. As far as I have gone that is the best answer I can give you.

Q. You do not know what conditions?

A. I intended to have her testify in regard to conditions pointed out in that report. That is the answer to that question.

Q. How about Mr. Todd, what institution did you intend to have him testify with reference to?

A. I do know what he might have testified to, to the scientific basis of that report, to the importance of work of that sort.

Q. What do you mean by the scientific basis of that report?

A. I mean he might have pointed out as a Professor in the University and said whether or not the things brought out in that report, particularly with regard to recommendations, are feasible and accurate.

Q. What recommendations do you refer to?

A. On pages 12 and 13, Summary and Recommendations, there are 13 recommendations.

Q. You intended to call him as an expert, not as a witness with any personal knowledge of any conditions in regard to that institution?

A. I was not quite through with that; he also, I think visited the Sunshine Home.

Q. And with reference to what condition at the Sunshine Home did you intend to have him testify?

A. I can't tell you.

Q. You don't know? How about Mr. Curry?

A. He is familiar with Oakdale, the Home for Colored Children on the North Side.

Q. And he was familiar with reference to what conditions at Oakdale?

A. The conditions given in that report.

Q. Which are what?

A. Just as they are given there, I cannot give you them from memory, I don't know this thing by heart.

Q. How about Mr. Rae?

A. James Rae was ready to testify on the conditions in the Sunshine Home.

Q. What conditions.

A. As given in this report, their details, on all things, I don't know, he would have to tell you that himself.

Q. Are there names of any other witnesses whom you now recall as having contemplated calling?

A. I don't recall that at this moment, no, but I am sure there were some others.

Q. Can you tell us how many witnesses?

A. I don't remember the number, I didn't count them.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Mr. Osseroff, I understand you to say that these people, the names of whom I have mentioned were willing to come here and testify provided the inquiry had been conducted along the lines of which you have spoken, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you tell us why you and the other witnesses are not willing as good citizens then to come here and give us this information in any manner in the interest and behalf of the people and the charitable institutions of this Commonwealth?

A. In the first place it would take so long to give it in just haphazard snatches that I don't know that any of the witnesses or perhaps the Commission would take time to do it. We had it arranged in logical order we could have presented it very quickly and accurately, it would have been easy on the witnesses and everybody concerned. We felt it was not a fair proposition to have it frustrated at that particular point.

BY MR. WOODWARD:

Q. How long did I understand you to say you were engaged in gathering this data?

A. Just about six months. The actual investigation did not quite last six months.

Q. Don't you think that not withholding this information in detail as you have it, that you prepared your report from, that you might help the Legislature, which is only in session about three months, to work out this proposition so that what you suggest in the report might occur, the elimination of such institutions as are not particularly deserving?

A. The report was submitted to the members, at least mailed to the Allegheny County members of the Appropriation Committees, I said soon after the 16th of February, I believe, and that put it before them, I think, in time enough to aid them.

Q. We had your conclusions from your work, we didn't have the detail.

A. I can't give you a definite answer on that, my recollection is a letter followed with that, saying we would be perfectly willing to co-operate.

Q. You said you would not appear before the Appropriations Committee, you would get in touch with them personally.

A. I never made a direct statement like that.

Q. You were quoted as saying that.

A. I understand what you are referring to, that was not a statement that you could take that sense out of it. What I meant was if it is not necessary we do not have to appear before the Appropriation Committee. The question was will you have to appear and enter charges as such on the floor of the Appropriation Committee, whoever it happens to be.

Q. That information in detail would have helped us a whole lot and that was the feeling, that we could not get it any other way, that was the purpose of having the resolution introduced that brings about this investigation.

A. I see.

Q. Now we want your help in this way if we can get it.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. Mr. Osseroff, I understand that you have not worked in co-operation with the State Board of Charities?

A. Referring directly to that report there was no co-operation that I can conceive of as such.

Q. You know what their duties are and what they do?

A. I do in a general way, I havn't made a study of conditions.

Q. You know that they investigate institutions, study and make recommendations, do you not, as to the amount of money to be appropriated to charitable institutions?

A. I understand that is the duty of the State Board.

Q. Your investigations have largely been made personal investigations?

A. Personal, followed up.

Q. Your report here is largely based upon your personal investigation?

A. Quite largely.

Q. You have been to some extent assisted by these persons whom you have named?

A. No, I would not say that as a sweeping statement, some of them I didn't receive aid from at all that I recall just now.

Q. The major part of that report is the result of your personal investigation?

A. Personal investigation and conferences with those who are familiar in many ways, that is, it wasn't just data snatched here and there and then thrown together and published, it was a matter of constant study during that period, not only on my part but of co-operating individuals in town here and elsewhere.

Q. This report is supposed to be based on facts?

A. It is.

Q. Those facts were in large measure ascertained by yourself?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. After ascertaining those facts you had conferences with the publication committee and others of this general committee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And whether they sanctioned it or not, this publication came forth?

A. I don't quite understand you.

Q. Whether the entire committee sanctioned the publication of it or not the publication was made after those conferences?

A. I would rather you would put that in a direct question, I don't see I can answer that.

Q. This publication was made after the conferences with some of that committee?

A. This publication was passed upon before it was ever published.

Q. Then let me ask you again, was there ever a full meeting of this Allegheny County Committee to which this report was submitted before its publication?

A. The report was submitted not in that way, but in detail form on various institutions. That is, the entire committee or those present at any meeting.

Q. Was this full report submitted to the full committee at any time before its publication?

A. Just as it stands?

Q. Yes.

A. Not to the full committee, no. I would like to add something though, that it was not necessary in any way. It was authorized by the full committee, the publication of this report and the committee delegated its authority to review the publication to this publication committee, that is, they were to vote on it.

Q. In this report certain conclusions are drawn, they are based on facts that you investigated and the scientific consideration of the subject generally?

A. Exactly.

Q. Will you turn to page 11, you make a sweeping criticism of the appropriations of the State of Pennsylvania. Let me read it to you,—you are speaking of the State of Pennsylvania, "Which helps to support these institutions by money from the State Treasury. Through its haphazard, chaotic system of appropriating public funds to institutions under private control, Pennsylvania is to-day helping to promote the existence of some institutions which are worse than useless." Will you be kind enough to tell us how many such institutions are thus supported.

A. I would say under existing conditions the Coleman Home.

Q. I didn't ask you what they were, I asked you how many.

A. I can't give you the definite number how many now, because I don't have detailed reports.

Q. The number then is with the data that you have left at your office?

A. Exactly.

Q. Can you supply us at any time with the number of institutions in the State of Pennsylvania that are worse than useless?

A. I would be glad to supply you with all the data we have if we were assured the kind of hearing that we think we ought to get and that would be included in that other.

Q. You have studied law?

A. I would not call it actual study, I have looked at some law books.

Q. Were you not admitted to the bar?

A. Never.

Q. You say that you cannot give this commission the number of institutions in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that are supported in part by Pennsylvania appropriations that are worse than useless?

A. I said I could give you the data that we have if we were assured the proper hearing.

Q. Can you give us the number of institutions that you had in mind when you put this on the printed page?

A. I have it.

Q. You can give it to us?

A. I say I have it, I would be glad to give you all the data we have under those conditions.

Q. Will you give us that number? Will it be necessary for us to subpoena you to produce those papers or will you produce them before this committee voluntarily?

A. Just exactly what do you want, just the number?

Q. I think from what you have been testifying to here that you can understand me, the question is a very simple one. Can and will you give us the number of institutions to which you refer when you say they are worse than useless?

A. I have that data, I can give it to you, yes, I will.

Q. When will you do that?

A. When do you want it?

Q. To-morrow morning.

A. I can give it to you to-morrow morning.

Q. "Instead of utilizing the available public funds to provide needed care, first, for those who are distinctly State wards, Pennsylvania, through its system of subsidies to private charities, has burdened itself with institutions which are a shame to the State and a detriment to the charitable system of which they have parasitically become a part." Will you also give us at that time, or now, the names of those institutions which have parasitically become a part?

A. I will be glad to do that to-morrow morning with the other.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Mr. Osseroff, how long have you been engaged in this work that you have spoken of here in Harrisburg or in the County of Allegheny?

A. In the County of Allegheny in this particular line of work?

Q. Yes.

A. Since I think the 9th of July. You mean with the Allegheny County committee?

Q. With the Allegheny County institution investigation on behalf of this organization which you say you now represent.

A. I think it was the 9th of July, to the best of my recollection.

Q. Engaged in this continuously since that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During that time how many institutions would you estimate you have inspected and investigated?

A. There are twenty in that pamphlet and two of those were not looked into at all. There were also one or two others outside of those which were inspected but I found did not come under the scope of this investigation.

Q. Which were the two?

A. The Protestant Home for Boys on the North Side, which does not I found, come under that category there, and another one was the Bethseda Home.

BY MR. WOODWARD:

Q. Does that institution receive State aid?

A. It did not at the last appropriation to my recollection.

Q. Then they are not one of those institutions that receive State aid that are worse than useless? (No answer.)

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. In these investigations, when you went to the places to make investigations whom did you tell the Superintendent that you were?

A. I at that time did not carry the same title I do now. I was Special Agent of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

Q. Did you ever make the statement that you had authority from the State of Pennsylvania to make these investigations?

A. Never did.

Q. Are you positive of that?

A. Yes.

Q. Among other institutions that you have investigated did you visit the Curtis Home?

A. I did.

Q. About how long ago?

A. I can't tell you just exactly the time of the first visit, I visited that institution through a series of months.

Q. How many times would you say you visited the Curtis Home?

A. No less than three, very likely more.

Q. What sort of institution is the Curtis Home?

A. What I like particularly about the Curtis Home is the spirit within the institution.

Q. I am not speaking of criticisms, I want you to tell us generally what kind of a home it is—girls or boys?

A. Children, girls—children.

Q. What age?

A. I can't tell you the exact ages, I can tell you that though from this report—the ages of four to fourteen I find stated here.

Q. How many times did you say you have visited that home?

A. No less than three, most likely more than that.

Q. How thorough an investigation did you make of the conditions of that home?

A. The investigation was very thorough, I spent a number of hours there on, I think it was a Saturday afternoon, I am not absolutely sure, this is memory, and followed that up with additional visits I made with the board at one time and went over things with them.

MR. WOODWARD:

Q. They do good work?

A. In what way do you mean?

Q. Is the institution properly conducted?

A. The children well taken care of, with this exception, the building there is very poor and they are very much antiquated.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. How many girls would you say they have there, without looking the matter up?

A. I can't give you figures on any of these institutions.

Q. Is it a large home or small home?

A. Small place, one of the small ones of the State, I was there.

Q. Did you investigate the sanitary conditions of the building occupied by that home?

A. Yes, sir, I looked over them.

Q. Did you look into the financial condition of the books?

A. I didn't; I thought that they were properly taken care of, at least the individual who takes care of that is competent enough to do that.

Q. Did you look at the records of admission and discharge?

A. I did.

Q. Did you look at the accounts of the institution?

A. I did.

Q. Did you make a physical examination of the inmates of the institution?

A. Did I personally?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did you have an examination made in your presence?

A. Physical examination?

Q. Yes.

A. I wish you would be a bit more explicit on that, I think it is a leading question, I would like to know what you mean.

Q. Did you take a physician there to examine those patients?

A. Three physicians.

Q. Did you remain in the room while that examination was being made?

A. What kind of an examination?

Q. Physical examination by the three physicians

A. What do you mean—physical examination?

Q. Do you know what a physical examination is?

A. There are many forms.

Q. I will say a personal examination.

A. I can tell you what I did there at that time and what I saw, if that will clear the thing up.

Q. I want you to answer my question.

A. I think that is an answer. We felt that it would be a good thing for the Curtis Home and the board concurred in this.

Q. I am asking you what you saw, not what you thought.

A. I am coming to that.

Q. If you will come right down to it without all these explanations.

A. I can't answer that question properly without answering it fully.

Q. You can't answer me whether you were present when there was a personal examination?

A. A mental examination.

Q. Was there a personal examination made by the physicians?

A. It depends upon what you mean by personal examination.

Q. Was any clothing removed from any of the children?

A. There was; perhaps no more so than the modes of dress worn by the women on the streets every day.

Q. How much clothing was removed from those children in your presence?

A. None removed in my presence they simply came in with their waists off, some unbuttoned.

MR. WOODWARD:

Q. You witnessed an examination by the physicians?

A. An examination by the physicians, mental examination; there was no detail physicial examination, a matter of looking at tonsils.

Q. Why was it necessary for you to be present when this mental examination, as you call it, was made?

A. Dr. McCready wanted me at that time to do the clerical work for him with the children. I had the data before me, I could tell him which to take and tell him who the child is; he is the one wanted me to do the clerical work.

Q. What authority did you have for making such an examination as this?

A. The board authorized it.

Q. Of what?

A. Of the Curtis Home.

Q. What authority have you to show for that?

A. Just attended a meeting and they allowed it.

Q. Who were the board, did you know any of them?

A. Mrs. Hammet was president she was president at that time, the wife of the secretary of the Commonwealth Trust Company, I will think of her name; Mrs. Huston was there, there were about a dozen members.

Q. Why did you want this medical examination, as you call it, made?

A. Because it was necessary for inspection to know the condition of their children.

Q. Why was it necessary for you to inform them, what was it of your business?

A. Just the same as the rest of this report. These institutions as I see them, are public institutions, a regularly constituted committee with the backing of persons in the community who are thoroughly interested in the improvement of the work is enough basis.

Q. You haven't any authority at all to do work of that kind delegated to you by any association?

A. No, we never claimed any such thing, I merely say it is proper.

Q. You assumed authority?

A. No, there was no such thing done.

Q. You did it.

A. We did it because we believed it was the proper thing to do, no authority assumed in any way.

DR. STEEDLE:

Q. Will you kindly inform the Commission to what extent and what scope you mean by the term mental examination?

A. That merely goes into the condition of the child to see whether it is normal as the average child goes, or abnormal.

Q. Normal or abnormal in what?

A. Of the mental condition of the child.

Q. As to its imbecility?

A. That is one thing to look for, I am not a medical man, I didn't do the examining.

Q. Why should it be necessary for you as being a layman and not a physician, to be present at such examination and how would you know the mental qualifications of the child?

A. I don't know anything about that, I didn't presume to know. Dr. McCready was there conducting this examination and I as a matter of fact was with him almost constantly—in another room from where these semi-physical examinations, as you call them—

Q. You admit you made some physical examinations?

A. Certainly.

Q. Of what nature were they?

A. Examination of tonsils.

Q. I don't see why you as a layman should be in the room with a child or girl of twelve or fourteen years of age, in its incipiency of adolescence, to my mind you had no right there; it was up to the doctor to make a report to your meeting and not for you to be there.

A. I think Dr. McCready can best explain that much better than I. There was no part of that examination that in any way could be offensive to any individual to be there at all. It is quite proper for us to be in rooms with young children.

Q. Didn't that physical examination extend so far that some of the girls refused to strip?

A. I don't know of any such, not at all, I understood that two of the girls were not to be numbered with these, they were just on the verge of leaving because they were the older girls and we were not interested in those.

Q. Do you know it was simply because you were present that they refused to expose themselves for physical examination?

A. This was after I was in an entirely different part of the house.

Q. Do you know as a fact that they did have to expose certain parts of the person?

A. While I was there?

Q. Yes.

A. That is absolutely false.

MR. WOODWARD. Nobody accused you, he is asking questions.

A. He inferred I was there, I wanted to answer that.

DR. STEEDLE. You admit you were there?

A. I do not, not in the case of these two that you are particularly talking about.

MR. TOMPKINS:

Q. Did you concur in or help to draw the usual annual report of the Public Charities Association?

A. I had nothing to do with it at all.

Q. It seems to be the idea of the Association from that report to arrange a different system in the State, is that the idea of the Pittsburgh Association?

A. I had absolutely nothing to do with that it is not the purpose of the Pittsburgh Association as such. Mr. Dripps could inform you much better on that than I can, he is the Executive Secretary of the Public Charities Association.

MR. BUCKMAN. That is all. You will remain in attendance with the Commission while we are in session.

WARD BONSALL, Sworn.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. What is your name in full?

A. Ward Bonsall.

Q. Where do you reside, Mr. Bonsall?

A. Pittsburgh.

Q. What is your connection with the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. I am simply one of the members of that committee.

Q. Are you a member of the publication committee of that committee?

A. No.

Q. Are you charged with making any investigations of the institutions of Pittsburgh or Allegheny county?

A. Only in this way, that in the case of two institutions after a careful investigation had been made by Mr. Osseroff I went in one case with one other member of the committee to visit those institutions, just merely a short visit, to check up so far as we could in that short visit, the truth of the statements made in the report.

Q. Then you are a member of the Visiting Committee, are you, of that Allegheny County Committee?

A. I don't know of any such committee.

Q. You do admit of having visited how many homes?

A. I visited with one man the Coleman Home and with another man the Home for the Friendless. I want to say in addition that before the report on the Oakdale Home was male and before the investigation by Mr. Osseroff I visited that home one time with three or four other gentlemen.

Q. Will you tell the Commission what you found at the homes or institutions which you visited to which you take exception, or which you consider the Commission should know about with reference to the State appropriations to these institutions?

A. I found that insofar as we were able to check up the facts in the reports which were before us that those facts were true as set forth in this report. Now I say insofar as we could check up the facts. I mean by that that we had no time and we did not attempt to go into the financial statements of the institution, you understand there would not be time for that.

Q. Did you see anything yourself which you desire to aid the Commission in by bringing it to our attention in the way of criticism of any of these institutions?

A. I didn't make any investigation for the purpose of criticism. I wish this Commission to understand thoroughly that this investigation was not made for the purpose of criticism but only for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the facts and so far as I am personally concerned I would be most glad to find that there were no facts in connection with those institutions that could be criticised or open to criticism.

Q. Did you find facts which would lay the institution open to criticism?

A. As I say, the facts I found were the facts set forth in this report and as to whether they are open for criticism or not is for your Commission to judge, I am not judging that.

Q. Then you have no criticism, notwithstanding the report issued with your name on it, you have no criticism to make to this Commission of any institutions you have visited, from your own personal knowledge?

A. I am here for the purpose of testifying to facts and not give my opinions.

Q. I am asking you for facts.

A. The facts are set forth in this report on those two institutions.

Q. Then I will ask you this: There are certain statements made in that report with reference to certain institutions, do you have personal knowledge of any of those facts which justify those statements in that report?

A. If you will specify the statements which you refer to I could more clearly answer the question.

Q. You saw what homes?

A. Coleman Home.

Q. For Colored Children?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. WOODWARD. You don't' know personally then that all of the other criticisms in this book are facts, you don't know personally?

A. I only know the facts as to the places I visited.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. What facts did you find at the Coleman Home which justified this report?

A. The facts set forth in this report.

Q. Which are what?

A. Shall I read from this report?

Q. No, you may refresh your memory from the report and tell us what facts you found which would justify this report in this book?

A. The quickest way to do this would be to read from this what facts I checked up in this report.

Q. Do you approve of Mr. Osseroff's position that he will not aid this Commission unless he is compelled to and do you take the same position he does in this matter?

A. My position is I am here to testify to facts and not to give opinions as to the attitude of the Public Charities Association. I think that—you have asked me this—I think that as an officer, or rather as a member of the committee of that association, that your investigation here, if you will pardon me in saying it is directed not at finding the facts of these institutions, but as directed at an investigation of the Public Charities Association, and that being the case—

MR. WOODWARD. You are altogether wrong.

A. My opinion was asked. That being the case, and this investigation being directed at the association, that association should be represented by counsel and should be permitted to put in testimony.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Upon what do you base your opinion? You have already given us the opinion. I would like you to tell me as a member of the Commission upon what you base the opinion.

A. Not so much testimony, but because you have asked me, I being here as a member of the association.

Q. You have volunteered the opinion, I now want you to tell us upon what you base the opinion?

A. I base that opinion upon the nature of the questions asked by this Commission of me and of Mr. Osseroff as far as I have heard the testimony.

Q. You have said you would answer questions and not volunteer an opinion.

A. I am not giving an opinion as to any of these homes, I am speaking here giving my opinion only as a member of this committee in regard to this investigation, that is what you have asked me.

Q. What questions do you refer to that you have based this opinion upon?

A. The whole course of examination.

Q. What is there in the course of the examination that is objectionable to you?

A. The whole nature of it, the stenographer can read it over to you.

Q. The existence of the Commission?

A. Oh, no, the existence of the Commission is perfectly proper as stated in the resolution read by Senator Kline this morning, a commission to examine into the facts in regard to these institutions, that is perfectly proper.

Q. Your organization was opposed to the approval of this resolution by the Governor, wasn't it?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Mr. Dripps informs me that he had asked the Governor not to sign this resolution, he assumed immediately upon its presentation that it was aimed at an investigation of the Public Charities Association.

A. You are giving me that information for the first time.

Q. We cannot help asking questions if you do not volunteer the information, that is all we want, we were expected to investigate the institutions and to get all the information we can from you.

MR. BUCKMAN. And we expect your organization to help us voluntarily if you will, and if not voluntarily then under process of law.

A. Our organization was ready here with counsel and with witnesses this morning to help this Commission in every way within their power and the counsel was ruled out and thereby were prevented from introducing evidence in support of the statements made in this report.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. You did not expect counsel to testify?

A. Certainly not.

Q. Your witnesses knew what they were going to testify to?

A. Certainly.

Q. Your witnesses are still around the city?

A. Probably they are.

Q. They have not lost the knowledge of what they were going to testify to, they still retain that knowledge, do they not?

A. I suppose they do.

Q. If a man wants to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, he can go on the witness stand and tell it without the assistance of an attorney?

A. He cannot be called unless you call him.

Q. Will you give the names?

A. Will you call the names? We have on record the agreement of this Commission—

MR. BUCKMAN. We agreed to nothing.

A. Then we haven't got it on record.

BY MR. CLARK. We will be very glad to hear your witnesses.

MR. WOODWARD. We will call them if they are here.

MR. FLYNN. In what way did that hamper you from testifying or giving this evidence that you speak of?

A. Within the last few minutes, so far as I know, is the first time that this Commission today has stated that they will be willing to hear all of our witnesses and not merely such as they themselves call.

THE CHAIRMAN. Because this association would not go ahead with their testimony in order to get that testimony we issued subpoenas to every member of that Allegheny County Committee for the purpose of getting any knowledge or information from them that they may have in regard to this investigation of these institutions concerning which they have made recommendations for changes?

A. If you will permit me to say, Senator—this is hardly testimony, however—if you will permit me to say, your investigation so far as I have been able to observe it in the very short time I have been able to be here this afternoon, has been directed not toward obtaining that evidence that you speak of, but toward an investigation of the Public Charities Association, putting them in the position of being prosecuted without having an attorney and representation to protect them.

MR. WOODWARD. This is an inquiry, it is not a prosecution.

A. I hope that it is.

THE CHAIRMAN. You know very well if you have a witness, from your own knowledge of the law, if you have a witness that is hostile and will not volunteer anything that you are obliged to take another tack, and that is what we are obliged to do this afternoon. I was obliged to start this hearing by taking another tack on account of the witnesses not volunteering any information.

A. No, Senator, on account of ruling out our counsel and putting us in a false position before this Commission, that is why you were obliged to take another tack.

MR. WOODWARD We do not expect to allow you folks to prosecute the inquiry we expect to do it, that is what we are here for, we do not need an attorney for that purpose.

MR. FLYNN. Isn't it true that this association has made charges in this report against certain institutions in Allegheny county and that now when you are asked to substantiate those charges by giving us the facts of your investigation that you sit back and practically refuse to do so and compel us to draw it out of you piecemeal?

A. By no means is that true.

Q. That is the attitude in which you have appeared here, you cannot place this Commission in the position you wish.

A. Here are the facts set forth in detail and I believe that they are all true, I know that some of them are true.

MR. WOODWARD. Would you be willing as a member of the committee of your association, to have Mr. Osseroff deliver to us the papers in connection with the investigation which you have made or copies of the papers that you have?

A. Which papers?

Q. Would you advise that Mr. Osseroff deliver those papers, or copies of them, to this Commission?

A. Most certainly. Our attitude is not to hamper this Commission, but to help it, but when we feel that the Commission puts us in the position of being investigated instead of investigating the institutions we ought not to be under investigation, the only thing before you ought to be the facts in regard to these institutions. Now isn't that true?

MR. WOODWARD. We are asking for information that we may investigate the institutions.

A. We want to help you thoroughly to investigate the institutions, but if we are being investigated we want to be represented and be permitted to introduce evidence in answer to your questions.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. I think the attitude of this Commission was simply to find the responsible people who published that pamphlet, and in doing so we called your secretary. It is published under your name as Executive Committee and as an Allegheny County Committee, now we wanted to know whether this was the work of the Allegheny County Committee or whether it was the work largely of the secretary of the committee and then what you want are the facts. There are some glittering generalities in here and we want the facts, the names and the facts and we do not care through whose mouths they come, but we do not want to be put in the position of dragging them out.

A. We want to help you in every way.

Q. How many witnesses have you got who can help us, are there five, a dozen, or ten—how many?

A. Of my own knowledge I don't know.

Q. Could you summarize this evidence and have four or five witnesses?

A. If you will permit me to say, I have not been active in the preparation of our evidence to present to you. Mr. Scarlett had done that and you have ruled him out and he has left the city.

Q. Mr. Osseroff named you as one of the members of the publication committee; you say you are not?

A. I don't know that, I never acted as such. If you will pardon me, I think you are mistaken about that.

MR. WOODWARD. We would like to make it plain we did not refuse to let you testify if you wish. Mr. Scarlett wasn't a witness, he was counsel, he could not testify, he does not live here and doesn't know anything about these facts.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. He did not take out of the city the knowledge that you people have that is still in the city.

A. He prepared the case.

Q. But it does not require minute preparation, what we want is the mouths of these people who know the facts and the truth.

A. Yes, and I have had from your Commission now for the first time since I have been on the stand, so far as I know, your statement that you will call and hear our witnesses and I am very glad to hear it and we are very glad to present those witnesses.

Q. We regret that you were not on the stand sooner so that you know our attitude, we have no hostility against the report, what we want are the facts?

A. I am most glad to hear it and I think it is entirely the proper attitude.

Q. Yes. You say you have not had very much connection with this report?

A. I told you my connection, there are a good many members and our plan, you understand that our secretary was paid to do this work and the members of the committee were unpaid and they simply checked up as they could the main facts of his investigation.

Q. You personally visited two institutions to check them up?

A. Yes, sir, having seen the report first and knowing what he found we checked up with it to see whether it was true.

Q. What institutions were they?

A. Home for the Friendless and Home for Colored Children.

Q. That is the extent of your familiarity with the facts in this report?

A. Except as to the fact of the Oakdale Home, which I visited with other members of the Allegheny County Committee two or three months before Mr. Osseroff was hired by the Allegheny County Committee at all. You understand that the members of the committee divide up this work of visiting the different homes. It fell to my lot to visit the two that I mentioned.

RUDOLPH I. COFFEE, Sworn.

BY MR. KLINE:

Q. You are a member of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Western Pennsylvania?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have heard the testimony of Mr. Bonsall?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were referred to in the testimony as one of those who belonged to the publication committee, is that true?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. We told Mr. Bonsall that our aim and object here was to obtain facts relative to institutions that are set forth in this publication of your association. The Commission would be under obligations to you if you have any facts relative to any of these institutions set forth in this report that will be of benefit to this committee, if you have you will kindly state them.

A. Senator, I am best able to speak about the Newsboys' Home.

Q. That will be very good.

A. The statement is there of Mr. Osseroff, I will put my O. K. to that. I am a member, Senator, of the board of visitation, which committee has about fifteen members appointed by the judges of Allegheny county to visit various child caring institutions and I was to the Newsboys Home some time ago and when Mr. Osseroff published his report I went with a little bit more care over just that particular part and I will stand by his report. In fact I like just what Mr. Osseroff said, to go in a constructive way and not to find and tear down. Our board, two members, most always go, and Mrs. Marshall, who had illness in the family, could not be returned and we did not quite finish our work as I understand we were to go back again to go over the fire arrangements we were not quite satisfied. In other words, I think Mr. Osseroff was a little more lenient toward the work than he should have been. I found the man in charge a worthy man, received in the right spirit in every way, I liked him and there was no reason why I should go behind his back and criticise—just the reverse, to help him and assist him.

Q. Do you think that the institution should receive State aid in the work for which it was created?

A. Under present condition of things under which the State conducts its work I would say it is entitled to State aid. Children who are intelligent children should come under judges and are placed in homes, the judges want to know, are these children in proper homes? They ask this board, I think there are fifteen to investigate and we report to the judges purely unofficially.

Q. That is the only institution which you visited?

A. Within the last two years, yes.

Q. And you have no criticism.

MR. WOODWARD. Further than that there are some defects that can easily be remedied in connection with the management.

THE CHAIRMAN. In what respect to the management?

A. For example, there is only one teacher there, I would say that one is not able to cope with the problem, there should be another teacher. I, for example, would object to the system the way the boys are entered. For example, I came to the home and found two fellows having a fight. I asked the names of the boys, I went to the superintendent, I think that is the official title, and asked him, "How did you get so and so?" I found out the system of inquiring about that boy was by no means as rigid as it should have been, for example, "Where does the father work?" "In a saloon." Mr. James H. Farley, Pittsburgh. It happens Mr. Farley is a personal friend of mine. Mr. Farley is no longer in Pittsburgh, he left about three or four months ago. When I asked the superintendent "What did you do to trace this boys' parentage?" he said "wrote him a postal card," not even a letter. "Didn't you follow it up?" "No," and that boy was placed in the home. I expect for three years I was around the largest Jewish institutions.

Q. You know the purpose for which this Newsboys' Home was organized?

A. The name is a misnomer.

Q. Did you ever look into the charter?

A. No.

Q. You would be surprised that the object of that association is to pick up waifs in the street?

A. I understand that is one of the motives.

Q. So far as the education is concerned isn't there a school right across the street to which they go?

A. As much as they go there. I am referring to boys where they go and come back at night. The number of beds is not as large as it should be. The superintendent I found to be a good fellow.

MR. CLARK. Then, Doctor, they need a bigger appropriation?

A. Yes sir, in a way, for that purpose, yes, sir. Consequently—may I qualify that question, when the State gives too much money to an institution it relieves me and a great many more private citizens from doing their duty to that institution.

MR. WOODWARD. It needs support from some source?

A. Yes, sir, if you Senators and Representatives are going to give it I shirk my responsibility.

THE CHAIRMAN. If the State does not give it in order to carry on an institution of that character you and others interested in like institutions are obliged to go out and raise sufficient funds to carry on institutions?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And we pay particular attention to that in making the appropriations, one of the questions asked in homes and hospitals is "What do you do to help yourselves?"

A. Yes, of course I don't want to go into the broad general problem, but I do believe artificial stimulus. State aid, should be as limited as possible.

MR. CLARK:

Q. The extent of your criticism is simply this, it ought to be helped, it has not got quite the equipment, it needs another teacher?

A. I won't say that that is one thing I referred to today.

Q. On the whole it is doing good work?

A. So far as I could make out, yes. You may wonder why I am willing to stand by the whole book. I think it is fair to say I have confidence in Mr. Osseroff. I didn't hear all the testimony, but I was aggrieved very much with the spirit in which the thing is carried on. If you will pardon me, I think both sides went at it a little bit bellicose and you do not get the best results, I was sorry really to see it.

MR. BUCKMAN. You heard Mr. Osseroff say he would simply answer questions?

A. I was aggrieved at that, I was sorry at the spirit from the other side of the platform at times too.

MR. CLARK:

Q. You agree we are down now on a working basis?

A. At this moment, I think we are here to help the State of Pennsylvania to be the greatest benefit to help its own wards. I want to add my own personal opinion, I don't think at the present moment the public opinion of America looks to Pennsylvania as leading in this work.

MR. WOODWARD. Did you hear my statement this morning?

A. I want to qualify that; Mr. Osseroff said I was here this morning. I was 'phones to, I just came back from New York, my wife is in the hospital. I said I will try to come down but I am called to a dying man and I could not reach here.

DR. AMELIA DRANGA, Sworn.

BY MR. CLARK:

Q. Are you a member of the medical profession?

A. I am a practicing physician in Pittsburgh, for seventeen years.

Q. You reside where?

A. I reside in Pittsburgh, 1568 Callowhill street.

Q. Have you been interested in institutional work, charitable institutional work?

A. I have been, ever since I have been in the city, I have been medical director of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association for three years, I helped to organize some homes.

Q Are you a member of the Allegheny County Committee of this Public Charities Association?

A. I am.

Q. How long have you been such a member?

A. I don't remember but I think from the beginning of its organization.

Q. When was it organized?

A. I don't remember, sometime in 1914.

Q. Then you have been a member about a year?

A. I presume so, in the neighborhood of a year.

Q. Are you a member of any one of the several committees of that institution?

A. Yes.

Q. What one?

A. Visiting Committee for the children's institution.

Q. How many children's institutions are there in the city?

A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Have you visited them all?

A. No, I haven't visited them all.

Q. Have you visited some?

A. Yes, I have visited some.

Q. How many?

A. Probably in the neighborhood of four or five. I would like to qualify that, I have personal knowledge of my work in the Milk and Ice Association of a great many of them.

Q. You say you were a member of the Visiting Committee. Are you familiar with this report that has been laid upon our table?

A. To a great extent.

Q. What institutions named in this report have you visited?

A. The Curtis Home, the detention rooms for the Juvenile Courts and the Pittsburgh Home for Babies. I think that it has been some time since I have visited the others, but recently I have seen them.

Q. Are these three institutions which you have named mentioned in this report?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you familiar with the facts with reference to the Curtis Home as mentioned in this report?

A. I am very familiar with them.

Q. When did you visit the Curtis Home?

A. I was up there the other day, I was up there last Thursday.

Q. When was this report published, do you know?

A. I don't remember, but I got a copy of it.

Q. Was it published this month or last month?

A. I think it was last month, I think it was.

Q. Since you have gotten this report you have gone to these institutions?

A. Not since, I have been to the Curtis Home since a number of times, but the other institutions, well, I have been to the Juvenile Court detention rooms.

Q. What specific charges against the Curtis Home are you familiar with?

A. I am making no charges against the Curtis Home.

Q. What criticisms have you to offer against its management?

A. I have no criticism, but I would like to make this statement.

Q. Please tell us this, what sort of criticisms does this report contain against the Curtis Home?

A. The criticisms herein stated are perfectly correct, they are the ones we are trying to correct.

Q. I didn't ask you that, I am asking what are they?

A. I can't state that.

Q. You said that you didn't know all but you would say they are correct.

A. I have read them over and I consider that I have gone over them thoroughly but without reading them off I would not attempt to state them.

Q. You are familiar with the facts in connection with this investigation before this pamphlet was published?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Secretary consulted with you about it?

A. Yes, I followed it very closely.

Q. You may read us what charges are there against this, what page are the criticisms on?

A. Page 53. "The investigation before the admission of a child is handled in a haphazard way."

Q. Now, Doctor, of your own familiarity with this institution will you tell us what there is about it that needs correction?

A. We decided at our last meeting that we needed a blank for admission so that we would have our investigation done in an orderly way and we would have it on record, not simply for the matron or some member of the board to know, but that we would have it in an orderly way, that probably it would be a good idea to have the Children's Aid Society or Children's Welfare Society help us in that investigation and then have a place for the medical examination, have a place for the dismissing and so on on record.

Q. Will you go back to the first part of your statement so that you may answer my question wherein you suggested anything for the betterment of the institution; you said to get a blank.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What kind of a blank?

A. Such a blank that would detail the child's father and mother, where they come from, what the conditions underlying the cause for putting them into the home, why we should admit them, what the physical condition, mental condition and all that.

Q. Do you think that this is an institution deserving of State aid?

A. I certainly do, and a greater State aid that it has had. Its defects are probably more because of insufficient funds than anything else.

Q. When you said that "we decided a blank was necessary" whom did you mean by we?

A. There was a meeting of the board on Thursday morning with all the members present.

Q. You mean a meeting of the board of the Curtis Home?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you one of the members?

A. I am one of the members.

Q. Then you are taking means to rectify your own defects?

A. We feel that this investigation has been an education to us and in meeting we heartily approved of it and we notified Mr. Osseroff of it, on the minutes.

Q. We are very glad to know about this. The next institution is Juvenile Detention.

THE CHAIRMAN. We have no jurisdiction about that.

Q. What was the third place you have said you visited?

A. Pittsburgh Home for Babies I have not recently visited it but I know it well.

Q. Is that mentioned in this report?

A. Yes.

Q. On what page?

A. 61.

Q. Are you a member of the board of that institution?

A. I used to be but I am not now.

Q. How long ago?

A. It is several weeks.

Q. Have you visited it recently?

A. Not very recently, I know of its work.

Q. How recently have you visited it?

A. Probably within the last two years or a year.

Q. You have not visited it within two years?

A. No, but I know it does good work.

Q. Does it receive aid from the citizens of Pittsburgh?

A. From the citizens and from the State.

Q. Has it an endowment?

A. I don't know, I think not though, I am quite sure it hasn't an endowment.

Q. Do they need more or less money than they have been allowed?

A. I can't say that, they have been doing very well and made good use of their appropriation.

Q. Is it a large or small institution?

A. Small institution.

Q. Do you think they are worthy of State aid?

A. I do. May I state this as a member of the committee?

Q. Which committee?

A. Committee of Allegheny County of Public Charities.

Q. You may be allowed to state most anything as a citizen.

A. I feel Mr. Osseroff made an inoffensive study of the Curtis Home. He did it by the unanimous consent of the board and I feel this, judging his work from the work he did there in a thorough manner, conscientious and thorough manner, I think I can feel I can stand by every one of his investigations, because it is educational, it is helpful as a physician, the medical examinations that were made during that investigation are very helpful indeed. It has stimulated, I think every one of us of the board to work harder than they ever did.

Q. Then you are patriotic to the institution?

A. I am patriotic to both, the institution and the Public Charities Association.

Q. You believe in the flag and in appropriations?

A. I believe in both of them.

MR. GRAY. Will you ask Dr. Dranga something about this medical examination about which there were inferences of improprieties?

A. I want to state this, that the physical examination, the women of the Curtis Home asked me to be the physician, because it was a girls institution and I was a woman physician. The only way that these children have been exposed is exposed by me in the presence of the matron, undressed every child and examined them from head to foot. The only other examination that was made by Dr. McCready, who is a mental specialist on feeble mindedness and the normal child. He makes a mental examination and also the physician with him, he examined the heart and lungs and the thyroid, throat and nose. There could be no undue exposure in that and there was no reason why Dr. McCready's valuable time should not be saved and limited by Mr. Osseroff doing the clerical work. Then again, Dr. McCready's work might have been supplemented and helped by some statements of Mr. Osseroff.

Q. I didn't open up these interrogatories. Were there examinations of the girls there with Mr. Osseroff present?

A. Not anything in an undue way.

Q. I didn't ask that, I asked if there were examinations.

A. There were mental examinations but not what you would call physical examinations.

Q. What do you call mental examinations?

A. Dr. McCready gives a list of questions to the children and so on, that is a mental examination.

Q. I believe you are in a position to answer questions and clear up some things. Was there an examination the same as at this institution of the girls there in the presence of Mr. Osseroff?

A. Not in the sense of a physical examination.

Q. There is a wide difference, isn't there, between mental and physical examinations?

A. Yes, there is.

Q. In a mental examination there is no necessity for disrobing is there?

A. No.

Q. None at all?

A. No.

Q. Then there was nothing of that sort done?

A. No.

Q. So far as you know?

A. I know about it, there wasn't any.

Q. You have not heard any statements of that sort being made?

A. No.

Q. Did Mr. Osseroff make some statements here that some clothing was removed?

A. Probably they examined the thyroid, that was all, probably not any more exposure than I am exposed, my neck is exposed.

Q. Were you present when Mr. Osseroff was there?

A. No, I was not, but we talked it over afterwards.

Q. Who talked it over?

A. Mr. Osseroff, he told me about it.

Q. When you say there was no disrobing you don't know of your own personal knowledge, that is only what some one told you?

A. Yes, sir, what some one told me, but I can assure you that there was nothing of that kind done, it is an imputation on Mr. Osseroff.

MR. TOMPKINS. Do you know anything about these institutions?

A. I said the Juvenile Court detention rooms, I go there to examine patients very often.

THE CHAIRMAN. That will do, Doctor, thank you very kindly.

REV. CHARLES E. SNYDER, Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. What is your name, Doctor?

A. Charles E. Snyder.

Q. Are you a physician or clergyman?

A. Minister.

Q. Of what denomination.

A. Unitarian.

Q. Where do you reside, Doctor?

A. Pittsburgh.

Q. Are you a member of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you on the publication committee or the examining committee?

A. On the publication commimttee, sir.

Q. Which institutions spoken of in this report of that Association did you visit personally?

A. The Home for Colored Children on Termon Avenue and the Coleman Home for Colored Children.

Q. Are they the only two institutions that you visited?

A. As a representative of this body, yes.

Q. Now, Doctor, taking up first the Home for Colored Children, will you call to the attention of this Commission such facts as you think would be of assistance to us in this inquiry?

A. In main as it is published in the report, sir.

Q. Can't you give us any more detail than that?

A. No, I was there possibly for an hour and a half and Mr. Osseroff spent a good deal of time there.

Q. You have some personal recollection of the matter, haven't you?

A. Exactly.

Q. Tell us aside from the facts published in the report what you remember from your personal inspection of that institution that you think should be brought to the attention of this Commission?

A. The report covers any evidence I would have to give.

Q. Aside from the report I say won't you please tell us from recollection?

A. There is nothing that I could give that is not in the report.

Q. Will you give from your recollection such things as you remember regardless of whether they are in the report or not.

A. If you have anything definite to ask me I shall answer the question.

Q. Are you averse to giving us information unless it is in answer to a question?

A. Under the conditions that have been made for the appearance of the members of this Association.

DR. ESTHER BLAIR. No response.

BY THE CHAIRMAN:

Mr. Gray, is there any person present who will give us testimony?

MR. GRAY. I don't know that there is.

THE CHAIRMAN. If you have any other witnesses to present who would like to give us information for the benefit of the Commission we will hear them.

MR. GRAY. Will you revoke your order about letting us present our evidence in our own way?

THE CHAIRMAN. There is no use in going into that time after time. A while ago Mr. Bonsall said he was very glad to see a new light upon that subject from his point of view, he said he would be very glad to produce any testimony and work in harmony for the improvement of this grand and noble cause in the uplift of these grand institutions. Therefore I don't see why you keep harping constantly upon that question which we decided this morning. We are meeting to hear investigations whereby we can better these institutions in the management and control and I cannot understand why a man will come here and sit on that chair and refuse to give his knowledge in regard to these institutions to this Commission simply based entirely on the reason of the ruling of the Commission in the production of testimony before that Commission. I am really surprised at that.

MR. GRAY. I have only this to say, that if you chose to allow us the privilege we asked in the beginning I would be glad to bring witnesses here.

THE CHAIRMAN. Is there any person present who desires to give testimony at all in regard to any institution that charges have been filed against in this report. This Commission would be very glad indeed to hear it.

(A voice from the audience.) Why do you keep on saying charges in this report? This report has no charges.

THE CHAIRMAN. Any person at all who has any criticism as published in this report as to the management and control of these institutions we would be glad to hear them.

MATTHEW DUNN, Sworn.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Mr. Dunn, you say that you have a desire to offer some information for the best interests with regard to the Newsboys' Home; will you just go ahead and kindly state what you have to say.

A. I was connected with the Newsboys' Home, I went when I was about seventeen years of age, I had sight and lost my sight while there. The Home at that time was on the corner of Sixth Avenue and Forbes Street, I think, to Webster Avenue and Grand. The man whom I was under first, man by the name of Mr. Warden, his successor was Mr. Webster, after him came a man by the name of Hayner when they moved to the new Newsboys' Home, after Mr. Hayner Mr. Briggs came there as Superintendent. I was under his supervision he is the man that I desire to speak about, and also the management.

Q. How long ago was this now?

A. I have been out of the Home about two years last November, but I can give you some information concerning the management since.

Q. You are not speaking about conditions at the present time, Mr. Dunn, I am sorry to say.

A. I want to say this, it is the same management, I don't think it is conducted on the proper basis, and I can give you a lot of valuable information concerning that.

Q. Was that prior to the loss of your sight?

A. No, I am blind about eight years and a half, I am under Mr. Briggs' supervision, in fact, I was Assistant Superintendent while I was blind.

Q. Do you know whether or not the same conditions exist to-day as existed two years ago?

A. I presume so. I met a boy just about—I think it was the 9th of last month, I was coming down from the bluff and he spoke to me. I asked him how was the home? He said, "About the same way." What is more, I met a young boy about nine years of age out at two o'clock in the morning who is connected with the Newsboys' Home. A man by the name of Mr. Conner, he lives between Stephenson and Magee street, he can give you a lot of valuable information. A woman by the name of Mrs. Rice lives on Broad street, some one brought me in to see her and she told me the conditions of the home.

Q. Has she ever visited the institution?

A. No, she worked in the laundry.

Q. She gave you this information?

A. Recently going on to the present time.

Q. Your testimony then, Mr. Dunn, is mere hearsay.

A. I could tell you some——

Q. Unfortunately, I am sorry to say, for your sake, that your testimony now within the last two years is based upon hearsay entirely, because of the lack of your sight.

A. I would like to expose that place a little bit more.

Q. You heard Father Coffee testify?

A. Yes, sir, and I back him up in some statements too what he said.

Q. I am very sorry but your testimony would be hearsay.

A. Of course I am on the committee that is protesting against the appropriation for the workship for the blind.

MRS. LUCY DORSEY IAMS. Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. What is your full name?

A. Lucy Dorsey Iams.

Q. Where do you live, Mrs. Iams?

A. I live on Tindle street, in the city of Pittsburgh.

Q. Are you a member of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. I am.

Q. And have been for how long?

A. Ever since its organization.

Q. Which was how long?

A. I don't know, sir.

Q. About two years and a half, I think?

A. Possibly.

Q. Were you a member of the publication committee which produced the report which I hold in my hand?

A. I forget, I saw the report before it was published, whether a member of that committee or member of the Visiting Committee I don't know, I saw it.

Q. Then you are not able to say whether you are a member of the publication committee or visiting committee?

A. I know that I am a member of the visiting committee and that I am not a member of the publication committee.

Q. As a member of the visiting committee of this organization will you tell the Commission what institutions in Allegheny County you visited?

A. None that come under this report.

Q. What other institutions have you visited?

A. I have been connected with the charitable work in a purely theoretical way generally for many, many years, as a member of the boards of many organizations, including Children's Aid Society of Allegheny County and others.

Q. I understand you to say you have no personal knowledge of any institutions spoken of in this report?

A. I have no personal knowledge from actual supervision unless I give some that came under personal observation, Thorn Hill and Marshalsea.

Q. You have no personal knowledge that you could give us in reference to these institutions; there is nothing further that we care to ask you.

A. I want to say I subscribe to it all.

(Grant Curry called and no response.)

(W. F. Conner called and no response.)

FRANCIS J. TORRENCE, Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Mr. Torrence what is your official position?

A. President of the State Board of Public Charities.

Q. Have been for how long?

A. Since I have been Commissioner, since 1891 or 1892, and I have been President of the Board since 1902.

Q. What are the duties of that Board and how is it constituted?

A. Constituted of ten commissioners, five of whom are the Committee on Lunacy, ten joint commissioners have in their purview all the institutions in the Commonwealth of a charitable, correctional or penal nature.

Q. How is that Board appointed?

A. Appointed by the Governor, each commissioner is appointed for a term of five years.

Q. Under authority of Act of Assembly?

A. Under authority of Act of Assembly passed the 5th of April, 1869.

Q. What institutions in the State come under your supervision or control?

A. If you would eliminate the public schools, the Grand Army homes and the teaching colleges, without hospitals, there are some 516, 518 I believe,—all of the penal institutions such as the eastern and western penitentiary, reformatory at Glen Mills, reformatory at Huntingdon, reformatory at Morganza, all of the jails, all of the orphanages, all of the institutions for the care of the mentally defective of any character whatever, the blind, the deaf and dumb, the crippled, the almshouses of the State, and all of the insane asylums and hospitals for the insane.

Q. How often does your board inspect these institutions you have spoken of as coming under your jurisdiction?

A. Three commissioners, General Agent, the Assistant General Agents, are constantly investigating them and calling upon them.

Q. Was there an investigation made in the year 1914 of the following institutions, which I will read to you: Boys' Industrial Home, Western Pennsylvania?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Thorn Hill School?

A. Thorn Hill School does not come within the purview of the Board of Charities County institution.

Q. Pittsburg Sunshine Children's Home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Pittsburg Newsboys' Home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Home for Colored Children?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Davis Temporary Home and Day Nursery?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Coleman Industrial Home for Colored Boys?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Pittsburg and Allegheny Home for the Friendless?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Curtis Home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. First Allegheny Day Nursery and Temporary Home for Children?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Children's Temporary Home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Pittsburg Home for Babies?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. St. Joseph's Protectory for Homeless Boys?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Roselia Foundling Asylum and Maternity Hospital?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Home of the Good Shepherd?

A. Two of them, one located on Lowrie street, one on east end Lincoln Avenue.

Q. Polish Orphan Asylum of the Holy Family?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Juvenile Court Detention Home?

A. No, sir, I do not visit that home, but we are occasionally called there by cases and my assistant, Mr. Theurer, goes there in answer to inquiry.

Q. Industrial Home for Crippled Children?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sewickley Fresh Air Home for Convalescent and Crippled Children?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you investigate all charges brought to the attention of your Board affecting your homes or other charitable institutions of the State?

A. Yes, sir, promptly.

Q. What method did you pursue in these investigations?

A. If I can't go myself or one of the commissioners I send Mr. Theurer. Mr. Theurer is the Assistant General Agent under an act passed six years ago.

Q. Do you keep a record of these investigations and reports and inspections?

A. Yes, sir, in duplicate, one in Pittsburgh and one in Philadelphia.

Q. Were any complaints received by your Board against any of the institutions I enumerated a few minutes ago during the year 1914?

A. There might have been in 1914, I had some complaints, I sent Mr. Gehr on one case and Mr. Theurer on the other.

Q. Did you read the report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were any charges in the report brought to the attention of your board prior to the publication of this report?

A. In no instances that I can recall.

BY MR. WOODWARD:

Q. Have you since investigated those institutions?

A. You mean in response to this?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes, sir, we have been constantly, but not particularly in response to that. I have sent Mr. Theurer out.

MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Were there any charges brought against these institutions by any other citizens of the State?

A. No, not that I can recall. Occasionally people make complaints of hospitals and other institutions and we promptly investigate them to see what there is to it.

Q. There have been no charges of any kind against any of the institutions named here during the last eight or nine months?

A. None at all.

MR. FLYNN. Did you say that you investigated some of the charges referred to in this report on these institutions?

A. Yes.

BY MR. WOODWARD:

Q. Do you have copies of your findings on those investigations?

A. Yes, my assistant, Mr. Theurer, is here. Mr. Theurer can testify specifically.

Q. As President of the State Board of Charities what is your opinion of these institutions that are charged here?

A. Pardon me for wandering a little bit,—in giving an opinion on an institution it must be remembered there are a number of elements that must be considered, just the same as you gentlemen in viewing the necessity for appropriations. We take up the locality, we take particularly the class of people that are cared for, you must always consider the inmates, and I want to say in general that the reports of the institutions coming under this report here are a good general average of the institutions as I know them throughout the State.

Q. Do you think that these institutions for the care of Children are absolutely necessary?

A. I may take an Irishman's way of answering that question, I would just like to ask where they would be taken care of. I have been twenty years in this work, there may be some unnecessary institutions, there may be some duplication of work, the Board of Public Charities has been for a number of years trying to consolidate homes, trying to put two homes together under one management to see if we can save money in that respect. There is a great variety of opinion on these homes, but, gentlemen, you can't measure charity with a yardstick or peck measure; that is a question that the heart must control as well as the brain.

Q. Your Board recommended appropriations to these various institutions, you evidently thought it was necessary that these institutions were worthy of it and deserving.

A. I believe that in every instance they were or I could not conscientiously recommend them, and I passed individually on all of them.

BY MR. TOMPKINS:

When you or any of your agents are visiting these institutions do they have any notice in advance?

A. None at all. I walked up the hill at Dixon once, for instance, a good mile walk over a steep hill and came in there unexpectedly and to a number of other institutions without the least notice, except when there is to be a formal inquiry, then we notify everybody—on certain charges.

Q. None has had that?

A. No, sir, I am glad to say that is not correct.

Q. You and your board serve without pay?

A. We do, sir.

THE CHAIRMAN. That will do, thank you.

A. If you will permit me I would like to say we knew nothing of this matter until the report was published and we had to send to Philadelphia to get it.

W. I. THEURER, Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Theurer?

A. I live in Washington, Pa.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. What is your employment or occupation?

A. Assistant General Agent Board of Public Charities in the western half of Pennsylvania.

Q. How long have you been so employed?

A. About four years and a half.

Q. In such employment what are your duties?

A. To visit and inspect each and every charitable, penal or correctional institution in that district.

Q. In line with such duties have you visited and inspected the institutions, a list of which you heard me read off to Mr. Torrence a few minutes ago?

A. I have on some occasions two and three or four times.

Q. Have you ever read the report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. I have.

Q. You are familiar with the charges therein contained against various institutions?

A. I am.

Q. Have you since the publication of this report made investigation of any or all of those institutions?

A. I have.

Q. How many?

A. All of them, all of those against which any direct charges were made, I believe there are about ten direct charges.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. None of them knew you were coming?

A. Not on any occasion, I never notified any institution of my coming.

Q. Did you make any investigation of the Sunshine Home?

A. I did.

Q. What did you find with reference to the charges contained in this report as relating to that home?

A. Well, the charge of cruelty, or, in other words, the charge of ducking a young lady in a tub of water. I, of course, asked the matron, the President of the Home, and others connected with the institution in regard to that that had any knowledge. The President of the Home denied it, said they didn't duck the young lady, the threat was for the purpose, so they told me, that the young lady had come from the orphanage and was a Jewish girl, a very hard girl to manage, she had done some things that were not very nice and on this occasion she was asked to wash her clothes for something that was not nice and she refused to do it. The water was placed in a tub for her to wash the clothes and the President and Matron at that time said that they would duck her if she did not and they took hold of her, according to their statement and attempted to duck her and the girl gave up and washed the clothes. She has not repeated the same conditions since, so she told me. Of course I questioned the young lady herself in regard to it and she told me that she was not ducked but they attempted to duck her.

MR. WOODWARD. Did you take those statements under oath?

A. We have all those statements under oath, yes, sir.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. With reference to the charge against one of the institutions as to placing children in a dark dungeon in the basement; what did you find out about that?

A. That was the Home for Colored Children on Termont Avenue. In that institution they had several colored boys who were very bad ones. If you will allow me to state with reference to this case I will do it in just as concise a manner as possible. The one young man set fire to the building. The matron at that time, Miss Dalzell, could not handle this young man and she used a room in the basement where she confined him. She was afraid of this boy, he had set fire to the place and they took the boy down there and locked him up in this room. She said at that time that was the only way she had of controlling these boys at the time. I did not approve of it and so told her. The banister treatment I knew of. About a year ago the boys—a little more than a year ago—Miss Kennedy, the Secretary of the Home, called me up and said "Mr. Theurer"—on the telephone—"Thomas Robinson has broken loose again," that is another boy, "we have had an application in at Polk for some six or eight months, I wish you would have him admitted immediately." I said "What is the trouble, Miss Kennedy?" She said "Thomas Robinson has broken windows in the school room and otherwise demolished the furniture, we can't do anything with him, we must get him in immediately." I said "Miss Kennedy, I will be down immediately." She said "That will not help us out, if you don't get Thomas Robinson into Polk we will have to send him to the police station." I said "I will be down on the next car." When I got to the institution I found the janitor holding to Thomas on the outside. I asked him to let go of the young man. He said "Well, he will run away." I said "Let him run, I can catch him." He said "You will have to go after him." I said "All right, I can run as fast as he can." So he let go of Thomas. I happened to think that colored people like chickens and they had a very nice chicken yard there. I said to Thomas "Let us go down to see the chicken yard"——

Q. Not more detail than necessary.

A. I gained the confidence of Thomas, but I found out Thomas was not a proper subject for Polk. I immediately sent Thomas away from that institution, sent him to the Coleman Home. He has been at the Coleman Home since that and has not caused trouble since that and doing fine. But the proposition was this: I then had an interview with Miss Kennedy, I told Miss Kennedy that I thought the management by Miss Dalzell at that time was not efficient and she was not a proper woman. Miss Kennedy told me then and there that the Board knew that and that a change was going to take place. I told her at the time that I thought that was necessary. Since then a change has taken place and I must say it is for the better. That is about a year ago.

Q. What about the banister treatment, without going into all the detail?

A. The banister treatment from what she told me at the time, the matron and the help, was that they tied the boys to the banister when they had done little odds and ends.

Q. What age boys?

A. Ranging from four years up possibly to fourteen, sixteen.

Q. What about the Newsboys' Home, what conditions did you find there?

A. Very good.

MR. TOMPKINS. How old was this boy who was locked up?

A. Fourteen years, he was a bad boy, had an awful temper, hard to manage.

Q. Was that the only one locked up?

A. No, they had done that previous to that, boys who would do some things, but it is stopped now, has been for over a year.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. Do you look into the manner of admission and discharge of the inmates of this institution?

A. I do to a certain extent, yes. If we confined ourselves to that work we would not have much else to do.

Q. And to the method of bookkeeping?

A. Yes, so far as the management of the institution, so far as the finances are concerned that is for the State Auditor, and he is here to testify on that behalf.

BY MR. WOODWARD:

Q. Mr. Theurer did you investigate the charges against the Curtis Home, or have you any knowledge about that?

A. Well there isn't any direct charges against the Curtis Home. The charges are a vague sort of generalities. It is practically small things that can be bettered very easily.

Q. Did you have any complaints?

A. Never received any complaint.

Q. About the management of that institution, as to the conduct of the official sent to investigate there?

A. In what way, Mr. Woodward, I don't quite understand that question.

Q. As to Mr. Osseroff?

A. I may say that the matron called me on the 'phone and asked me one day about Mr. Osseroff, whether he came from the Board of Public Charities. I told her he did not. She wanted to know who he was. At that time I didn't know who Mr. Osseroff was but later found out. I told her he had no connection with the Public Charities. She said he had gone through there and represented himself to her as a member of the Public Charities, she said "I asked him where Mr. Theurer was" and he should have said that he was not coming around this trip, that he was making the investigation.

Q. What did the investigation consist of, did you learn?

A. Nothing more than his report and the statements that are made in the sworn statements in the investigations that were made of these institutions investigated. We have the sworn statements.

MR. BUCKMAN. Is the matron of that home here?

A. The matron of that home is here, as well as the matrons of all the other homes.

Q. What is the matron's name of that home?

A. Mrs. Strickler.

MR. TOMPKINS. Have you had any complaints against the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Home for the Friendless?

A. No, sir, the only complaint I have ever had against the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Home for Friendless was one of quarantine at one time.

Q. Will you sumbit to the Commission a copy of your reports.

A. Yes, sir, right here for you.

MRS. ELIZABETH STRICKLER, Sworn.

BY MR. BUCKMAN:

Q. You are matron of what institution?

A. Curtis Home.

Q. Where is Curtis Home located?

A. 2541 Breckenridge Avenue, Pittsburgh.

Q. Have you been in the room all day to-day and heard the testimony given here?

A. I have.

Q. You have heard, have you, the examination of children in your home spoken of?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you present at those examinations, that you saw and know of your own personal knowledge?

A. Yes, sir, Dr. Amelia Dranga made physical examinations, Dr. McCready, Dr. Hammet and Dr. Wagner. I think there was another physician—no, there were just four physicians, Wagner, Dr. McCready and Dr. Hammet made medical examinations and Dr. Dranga was not present when the mental examinations were made.

Q. Who was present?

A. Myself, Mr. Osseroff and the three physicians.

Q. Were there any physical examinations?

A. There was to a certain extent, yes, the throat.

Q. Who was present at the physical examination?

A. I was, the three doctors part of the time and Mr. Osseroff, until Dr. Dranga asked if we had another room, then part of them had been made; asked if we had another room to divide the examination, three physicians made partly physical and Dr. McCready made the mental.

Q. What did the physical examinations you have spoken of consist of?

A. The throat, lungs and heart.

Q. How much of the person of the child was uncovered?

A. Just far enough to test the heart. Of course they had to drop their clothing below their breast and shoulders.

Q. How old were the children?

A. They ranged from four up until nineteen. Of course the two older girls objected and I had Dr. Wagner examine them with me in the room.

Q. How old was the oldest child who was examined in that way in the presence of Mr. Osseroff?

A. I judge about eight or nine.

Q. Did any of the girls object to the examination in his presence?

A. Yes, sir, they did.

Q. In his hearing?

A. I don't know whether he heard it or not but they cried, two of the older girls objected and I had it done by the physician privately. They have since gone to the hospital to train.

BY MR. STEEDLE.

Q. Was this physical examination made over the clothing or on the skin?

A. You mean mental?

Q. Physical?

A. You know they had another physical examination—no, it was not over the clothing, certainly not, no, it was not made over the clothing, we dropped their clothing. We, of course, had to take their clothing down off their shoulders.

Q. Exposed them to the skin?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You heard Mr. Osseroff deny that allegation?

A. I did.

Q. For the benefit of this Commission I think you ought to explain to them at least as to about how far they were exposed—down to the waist line?

A. Under the arm pits.

Q. Do you mean up here or down below?

A. Down below, of course, to get to the heart.

Q. Did you examine the apex of the heart?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Exposed that far?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. WOODWARD. Did you request that examination?

A. I had nothing to do with that examination.

THE CHAIRMAN. Did any member of your board request that examination?

A. Through our physician, yes, sir.

MR. WOODWARD. Why was Mr. Osseroff present?

A. I think he instituted that examination, it was for the Public Charities Association.

MR. FLYNN. And he insisted upon being present?

A. I expect he thought he ought to be present.

Q. He was present?

A. Yes, sir.

MR. GRAY. And you were present and three doctors were present?

A. Certainly.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Have you had any complaints as to the way these children were clothed or in regard to their general conduct or appearance or going to school?

A. From Mr. Osseroff?

Q. Or from anybody?

A. I never have; rather it has been the other way, if I may say so.

Q. Were there any recommendations made to you by this Commission?

A. Why no, I was under the impression that they were part of the State Board of Charities and that they were going to better our condition, that was the impression.

Q. How did you get that impression?

A. Through Mr. Osseroff, he told me he was doing it for our good.

MR. WOODWARD. Did he tell you that he represented the State Board of Charities?

A. When his card was brought to me I went out in the hall, of course, where he was seated, and I didn't know of this other association, and I said, "Where is Mr. Theurer, he always visits our home?" and he said, "Oh, he is still going around." He didn't take the trouble to inform me that he was from another organization, I didn't know it.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. I ask you if you believe this to be true, Mrs. Strickler, here is a report from the principal of the Minersville School which many of your children attend. He says here, "In reply to your communication in regard to the children from the 'Curtis Home for Girls' who are now attending the Minersville School, I wish to say that I believe these children compare favorably with the average child in respect to physical condition, mental condition, clothing, class grading and general conduct. There is nothing about these pupils that would indicate that they were from an institution. They are received into our school as individuals; classified according to attainment and promoted on individual merit. Of course some are keener mentally than others of the same age and make more rapid progress, but that is true of children from private homes. The conduct of the majority of the girls coming from this home is excellent. Mrs. Strickler, the matron, has always co-operated with us most cordially and she has been very conscientious in abiding by our quarantine requirements. The children are clean and comfortably clad. The only drawback they have ever been to the school was in case of quarantine; for when one little girl had an infectious or contagious disease the entire home had to be quarantined, thus lowering our per cent. of attendance greatly and filling up our retarded classes." You have had quarantine?

A. Measles for about fourteen days, while we could quarantine one side of the house—

Q. Without personal reference to yourself do you believe that to be a fair statement?

A. It is, if I may say so.

Q. Without personal reference to you?

A. Yes, sir.

MRS. IAMS. May I make a little explanation, with your permission?

THE CHAIRMAN. Not just now.

MRS. IAMS. Will you permit that before you adjourn? I desire to make an explanation of an answer I made.

JOHN P. GETTMAN, Sworn.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. I believe you are the Vice-President of the Curtis Home?

A. Yes, sir, one of them.

Q. You have heard the testimony of Mrs. Strickler, the matron of the institution, here a moment ago?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have heard this letter which I have read from the principal of the Minersville School?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As to the general appearance of the children, physically, condition of the clothing, do you agree with the principal of that school in that letter read before this Commission?

A. I certainly do, yes, sir.

Q. Have any complaints ever been lodged against the institution or come to your knowledge in regard to the way in which you run the institution, or the condition of the girls?

A. Never, sir, in twenty-one years.

Q. How long have you been connected with the institution?

A. Twenty-one years next month.

Q. How often do you get to the institution?

A. Very often.

MR. TOMPKINS. How often?

A. I could hardly tell you just how often, I drop in any time.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. Once or twice a week?

A. Often once a week, sometimes twice a week, sometimes not quite so often.

Q. Do you know of any physicial examination as directed to the girls of this institution?

A. Yes, I know about it, but I was not present.

Q. How did you learn of that examination?

A. The matron called me and I objected to it.

Q. What did she say to you?

A. She said there was to be several physicians sent there to examine the children, to keep them home from school and I said I thought the children ought to go to school, they were examined in the schools and Dr. Dranga, our physician, examined them and I did not think they needed it, to send them to school.

Q. You have a regular physician for the school?

A. Dr. Dranga and Dr. Jack.

MR. TOMPKINS. Do they know when you are coming to visit the institution?

A. No, sir, they don't know, I just drop in any time.

LUCY DORSEY IAMS.

THE CHAIRMAN. We would be very glad to hear Mrs. Iams in regard to correcting her former testimony.

A. Correcting my former testimony is not the right word, I wish to explain an answer I made.

THE CHAIRMAN. It is not to correct former testimony because you did not give any.

A. No.

Q. If it is relevant to these institutions, being from your own personal knowledge and investigation.

A. No, I think you have permitted other people to give some opinions, may I not give an opinion?

MR. BUCKMAN. Did I understand you to say you wanted to correct an answer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the answer?

A. When I said as I left the stand that I wanted to confirm or stand back of all that Mr. Osseroff said, I want that understood as saying that I want to take my share of the responsibility, because I feel that Mr. Osseroff, knowing the reasons, knowing the reason he was appointed, knowing the reason for the creation of our organization, I feel that Mr. Osseroff was making what he considered and what I believe to be a very truthful report, not because he intended to attack our organization—

Q. Do you wish to make an argument?

MR. FLYNN. He is your employe?

A. He is our employe. But all the same I am a member of many organizations, I am a member of too many charitable organizations not to be permitted to give my opinion. I hope you will excuse me—

MR. BUCKMAN. An argument is not relevant, you have said you wanted to correct an answer.

A. If in giving that answer I gave the impression as I seem to have done—

Q. Pardon me, the Commission does not wish to hear argument.

A. I appeal to you, Mr. Woodward and Mr. Kline, to allow me to make this statement.

MR. WOODWARD. You have said to this Commission you had no personal knowledge of any of these investigations of these institutions we are inquiring about now.

A. I understand it is not only institutions you are inquiring about now, but you are inquiring about the institution that I represent here, one of the institutions, and when I made that answer I made it leaving the impression upon the minds of many of my friends who are members of these boards who are, as you say, being inquired into, that I was antagonizing them and criticising them, and my friends I feel are doing on those boards of those institutions as well as I could do or better. I want to say too—I think you will have to indulge me.

MR. WOODWARD. You object to this Commission?

A. I want to add, gentlemen, I do not object to this investigation. I think you misunderstood the purport of that report, sir, and I want to say that the whole animus of this thing, the whole reason of all this investigation, is set forth in this report.

THE CHAIRMAN. We are here only to hear testimony and that is all there is to it. If you give us testimony in reference to these homes it will be all very well but otherwise we cannot hear you. We gave you an opportunity a moment ago to tell us anything and you said you had nothing to tell and left the chair.

A. All that I want to say is set forth in this report.

MARY E. LYNN, Sworn.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. I believe you are connected with the City Welfare Bureau? You are on the City Welfare Bureau?

A. Department of Public Health.

Q. What are your duties, Mrs. Lynn?

A. Well, I am school nurse and an investigator for the city and for the State too. My work covers part of the Minersville schools where these homes are that we have been speaking of, the Coleman and Curtis homes.

Q. Did you ever visit the Curtis Home?

A. Really we examine all the homes in the school districts every month and we give a report as to the condition to the Bureau of Health.

Q. Every month you make this report?

A. Every month.

Q. Do you remember, what was your report on the Curtis Home this month?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was it, kindly tell the Commission?

A. Yes, sir. We examined the home for sanitary conditions and for general deportment, care of children mentally and physically.

Q. How do you determine—I do not want you to answer me by saying by a doctor, but how do you determine the physical condition of these children?

A. In every public school every child that is admitted into the school is examined by the school physician, we take up their chart with all their mental conditions marked on it, whether they are perfect or imperfect.

Q. Is that sent to the home?

A. Every child, that included the Curtis Home children.

Q. Is that sent by the teacher or your department to the home?

A. No, I retain that card, but a notice is sent to each parent in regard to the physical condition of the children of their family.

Q. If the Curtis Home sent twelve, fifteen children to the Minersville school—

A. Twenty-one.

Q. They are all examined by the doctor of the school?

A. We have a card for every one of them.

Q. If there is anything wrong with the child that card is sent to the Curtis Home?

A. That card is not sent to the Curtis Home, but a duplication of the card is sent there, asking if we may promptly correct that physical condition, and I want to say here that the children from the Curtis Home compare very favorably, both mentally and physically, with the average child found in the Minersville school and I think they have very good care, their clothing is clean and they are morally a little above some of the other children.

Q. Do the children of the Coleman Home come down to that school?

A. Yes, to Moorehead No. 1, get admitted into the school there, and we have a likewise card of their condition.

Q. What do you say as to their condition?

A. We must take the children of all institutions from the locality from which they come and from their parentage. Some children that we have in our schools we must consider we do not expect as much as from other localities. The Coleman Home children are above the average colored child that is admitted into the Moorehead school.

Q. How many of them do you have, do you remember?

A. Thirty-eight. Now we have in our school two open air rooms; we have but one child out of the thirty-eight in the open air school. They must get proper nourishment and proper care or else the probabilities are we would have more physical defects.

MR. TOMPKINS. In other words, the children are pretty well taken care of?

Q. Better than the average colored child that goes into the school.

MR. WOODWARD. Have you read this report?

A. No, I never did.

Q. You have heard some of the testimony?

A. Yes.

MR. FLYNN. You have heard the testimony in connection with these institutions?

A. I investigated the Coleman Home the last week of March, I found it in a fair condition and gave my report as such to the Bureau of Health.

MR. WOODWARD. In your opinion do you think they should have State aid?

A. I certainly think they should.

THE CHAIRMAN:

Q. From your examination do you think any other examination is necessary?

A. For the benefit of the Board of Managers of the Homes I suppose it would be necessary.

Q. Other examinations necessary?

A. We give them pretty correct physical examination, I think it would be proper to have them examined by their own physician in the home if the board thought proper. I want to say a kindly word for the Coleman Home. I am welfare worker in the slums of Pittsburgh and I think I am fitted to give my opinion, twenty years of work, and I believe that the Coleman Home is a deserving institution. It may be burden ridden.

BY MR TOMPKINS:

Q. Do you base that opinion on visits made there?

A. Yes, I have care of the physical defects of the Coleman Home boys.

Q. Do they know when you are coming?

A. Never know.

Q. Do you know anything of the Termon Avenue Home?

A. No, I know the Roselia and Pittsburgh Home for Babies. These are the ones receiving State aid and I know a great many others that do not receive State aid but they are not under your jurisdiction.

Q. Do you know of any instances where children are cruelly treated by the management of these institutions?

A. I don't know that, I could not speak authoritatively of that, I only get in contact with the children on the visits, but I do wish to say something to the effect of bettering the condition of the Coleman Home, or giving them a little more money. I would say this about the admission cards: In all the homes it would be wise to have a card as we have, giving the parents' names and address and their nationality and whether dead or living and whether they are able to support the child or not, and keep it on file. We have a card for every child and a file for it. It is very beneficial.

MR. FLYNN. Your work covers all these institutions?

A. Everything in Pittsburgh.

MR. FLYNN. Then there is a record of all this?

A. There is a record of all the schools so far as I know; occasionally we may skip a child, but as a rule there is a record kept of every child.

On motion, duly seconded, the Commission adjourned to meet at the call of the Chair.

APPENDIX "B."

In re-investigation into legitimacy of certain charges preferred against various children's institutions in Allegheny county, as set forth in a pamphlet entitled "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania. Pamphlet Number One, dated 1915," aforesaid pamphlet charging negligence, on the part of the various managements, and existing conditions detrimental to the welfare of the children cared for Investigation conducted by Commissioner F. J. Torrance, Commissioner S. E. Gill and Assistant General Agent W. G. Theurer for the State Board of Public Charities.

Sessions.—February 26th, 1915; February 27th, 1915; March 2nd, 1915; March 6th, 1915.

The testimony taken during this investigation is herewith respectfully submitted.

E. S. WHITEHEAD, Clerk.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Frank A. Piekarski who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Give us your full name, please.

A. Frank A. Piekarski.

Q. You have read the statement accredited to one Abraham Osseroff, in pamphlet form entitled "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet No. 1, dated 1915?"

A. I have.

Q. Have you read this report on the Orphan Asylum of the Holy Family, found on page 69 and pages following?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. What is your official connection with the home at the present time?

A. Counsel.

Q. How frequently have you visited the institution?

A. Oh, possibly two or three times per month.

Q. What other connection have you had?

A. I was formerly the treasurer.

Q. How long ago?

A. About three or four years ago.

Q. Has it a Board of Trustees?

A. It has.

Q. How often do they visit the home?

A. As a Board, monthly. They have monthly meetings. Of course, the individual members visit often between meetings.

Q. Are the meetings pretty well attended?

A. Yes, pretty well.

Q. Is there an inspection on such occasions?

A. Yes, there is usually a thorough inspection. A complete report is given at every monthly meeting.

Q. Did you know of a visit of Mr. Osseroff?

A. I did not. Nobody knew anything about it. He came unannounced.

Q. Have you any knowledge of his report, except that given in the newspapers?

A. I have not.

Q. You have read the statement with reference to the dining room: "The food provided for the children is fair, but it is served in a very poorly equipped institutional dining room. The furnishing of this room is limited to twelve long, rough board tables, flanked by long, wooden benches on either side. No table coverings are provided, the children eating from the rough table top. Children are not permitted to speak at meal time." What is the character of the dining room?

A. It is a large dining room, about 60 feet in length, about 25 feet in width and contains several long tables made of planed wood. The tables are scoured and cleaned after every meal and we consider them as sanitary as possible, in an institution for children of this kind.

Q. How long have the buildings been built?

A. About twelve or thirteen years.

Q. Have you been in any other institutions of a similar character?

A. Yes, in orphanages in Philadelphia.

Q. Have you made any comparison as to the furnishings of the dining room and as to the food.

A. I would say that it would compare with the best institutions.

Q. Favorably?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever had any complaint of any kind up to the present day?

A. Never.

Q. You note the comment regarding the lack of manual training. Tell us briefly what educational facilities there are at the home.

A. Our children are, I would say, on the average, about nine years of age. We teach them five grades similar to the parochial school. I think they would compare favorably with the grammar grades in the public schools.

Q. You would say that, comparing the age of the children, the educational facilities afforded are equal to the public schools, for children of the same age?

A. Yes, besides we teach them two languages.

Q. What two?

A. Polish and English.

Q. It speaks of no manual training?

A. Our children are of such an age that manual training is pretty near out of the question. They have all they can do to study reading, writing and arithmetic.

Q. What means are used for finding homes for children when they become old enough?

A. After the boy reaches the age of fourteen years we endeavor to find a home with some good family for him. We also take steps to secure him employment.

Q. Do you know what percentage are placed out in private homes?

A. I could not give that to you now, exact. I would like to say, though, that of all the children we have placed out in private homes we do not know of one child who has become a pauper or has got into any trouble.

Q. As counsel for the institution would you naturally know of that?

A. Yes; we keep a record after he is released.

Q. How long do you keep a record?

A. We demand that he visit the institution just as often as possible and we expect them to visit at least once a month.

Q. After a child has been in your institution and is afterwards placed outside; what is your general opinion as to the benefits derived by the child?

A. On the whole, he makes a very good citizen.

Q. Have you any knowledge of any children who, after being cared for in this home, have turned out otherwise?

A. I have no knowledge of such a child.

Q. You receive from the State fourteen thousand ($14,000.00) dollars?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What other source of revenue have you?

A. Each Polish parish has a collection two times per year, one in July and one at Christmas time. Those collections range from ten ($10.00) dollars per parish to one hundred fifty ($150.00) dollars per parish. That is one source. Another is picnics and entertainments. The other source is Father Tomaszewski himself, who gives lectures at the different missions. This money he turns over to the home. According to our last annual report he gave $1,314.00.

MR. GILL, RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Q. How many parishes are there?

A. I would say that there are about twenty or twenty-five. The total income last year, from the parishes, was $6,028.00 Most of these parishes are located right in the immediate vicinity but we get some help from even as far as Ohio, through the efforts of Father Tomaszewski.

Q. Many of them are from your own diocese?

A. Yes, the majority of them.

Q. Have you found any abuse or physical punishment?

A. No, never. This has never been questioned. Father Tomaszewski is as kind and considerate as he possibly could be and, I think, the sisters are better mothers to the children than those who have left them. I think the children are far more fortunate in being down there than in the slums of Pittsburgh and down in the mining camps. I have two of the children in my own home and consider them model children.

Q. Would you kindly state something regarding the number of contagious diseases they have had at the home?

A. We have not had a contagious disease in our existence, and we have only had four deaths. I think Dr. Sloan will bear me out. I think that is a very good record as they often come there covered with creepers; the doctor has often seen that.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. TORRANCE.

Q. I note here a comment on the bathing and toilet facilities as follows: "The toilet and bathing facilities are provided on both the first and second floors. They are modern but inadequate, for the number of children housed in this institution." What have you to say regarding this?

A. It is not true. The children are bathed two and three times a week and we have always considered that ample. There has never been a complaint about this before.

Q. How long have you been connected with the institution in any capacity?

A. About ten years. Ever since I have been in Pittsburgh.

Witness dismissed.

Sunshine Children's Home, Mrs. Katherin Newingham.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Mrs. Katherin Newingham, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Let the clerk have your full name, please.

A. Mrs. Katherin E. Newingham.

Q. You are connected with the Sunshine Children's Home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it incorporated?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the County of Allegheny?

A. Yes, sir. It is a county charter.

Q. Have you read a report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, 1915?

A. I have.

Q. What is your position with the Sunshine Children's Home?

A. President and Treasurer.

Q. How long have you been connected with it?

A. As a director, since 1910. Prior to that time I helped in other capacities.

Q. What method do you follow in investigation of children before their admission?

A. When application is made we have them write letters stating the circumstances that necessitates the aid of a children's home and whether or not they would be eligible to our organization. Our charter states that we must care for a certain class of children.

Q. Then you stick to children coming under that class?

A. Yes, because we are usually filled up.

Q. What records do you keep in the institution of the admission of children while there? How do you record the admission of children?

A. We have a book of records in our office in which we place the date of admission, date of birth, religion, catholic or protestant, date they are dismissed from the home, etc. We keep a complete record.

Q. You say you keep a complete record in a book especially prepared for the purpose?

A. Yes, sir. When the child is dismissed we record whether or not it went into a proper home.

Q. How long do you keep a record after the child is dismissed?

A. Not very long.

Q. Then you consider that you do keep a complete record?

A. Yes, sir. Our investigative work is not full of red tape.

MR. GILL, RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Q. Do you have a regular register of all the admissions?

A. We register them in this record book.

Q. Are the admissions numbered?

A. No, sir.

Q. How much space do you allow for each case?

A. Two pages.

Q. Indexed by their names?

A. Yes, sir. We have also a record in our minutes because each admission is reported in the Board meeting.

Q. Then would that matter also appear in the individual record?

A. Yes, we have a ruled book for such records.

Q. Do you not think it would be advisable to include in this record the fact that the child was ill, in such cases, and was sent to the hospital or wherever they are sent?

A. Not unless we had a clerical force. I doubt if any institution with the limited number of employes, have a better system of records.

Q. If we wanted to find out some facts about Mary Smith, who had been down there, could we get them.

A. Yes, at the office in the Keenan Building. I keep the records there.

Q. Then you think the records, as kept at present, are all right?

A. Yes, I do. I think these children will be good citizens some time and do not think they should have such records held against them.

Q. Who is the matron?

A. Mrs. Mary White.

Q. How long has she been there?

A. About two years.

Q. Who lives in the house?

A. Mrs. White, Miss Katherin Smith, Miss Mary Sent and I sleep there.

Q. How many adult persons live in the house to supervise the institution?

A. Four.

Q. Then the matron lives in the house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The following statement is made: "The matron does not live in the house and works only several days a week, for which she received $1.25 per day." What have you to say to that?

A. Mrs. Bacheler had been our matron for two and a half years. She and her daughter had been at the institution all the time. She found that she could not be with us all the time and we found them so efficient at caring for the children that we asked her to help us out a couple of days a week.

Q. Does the matron live in the house, then?

A. Yes, and has ever since Mrs. Bacheler left.

Q. Would you state definitely whether or not the above statement is correct?

A. No, it is not correct. It is absolutely false. Now at the time this man visited the home we did not have as many people staying at night but at the time there were three grown people.

Q. This paragraph goes on to state, "The number of children in this institution requires the provision of a larger number of employes. Unless some help is brought in, the children can not be taken care of properly. With the absence of sufficient and competent supervision, the close association of boys and girls of twelve to fourteen years of age, of whom there are a number in this institution becomes a matter of considerable concern."

A. There is absolutely no possible chance for anything immoral to take place in our institution.

Q. Has there ever been?

A. There never has been and I want to tell you that the boys who are now able to leave the institution are as clean morally as the girls. His intimation is absolutely false.

Q. You mean to say that the supervision is sufficient?

A. Yes, it certainly is. The segregation of the sexes is such as to preclude any possible chance of immorality. There has never been, to our knowledge, anything that would lead us to think that there was any immoral conduct.

Q. I would like to call your attention to the next paragraph in which the following statement appears: "The constant changing of those in charge, and their lack of adaptability to the children and their needs, has brought on at times considerable punishment of the children. One of the older girls, because she refused to wash dishes allotted to her, was put head first into a tub of water until she acceded to orders. The president also admitted to 'shaking-up' the children for little offenses. 'I can shake them up some, too, I assure you,' she said." What have you to say to this statement?

A. Employes who come to this home are not permitted to punish children. Those are the orders issued and those who do not live up to them are discharged peremptorily for any violation. The right to punish any child in the institution is vested in the house-keeper, general manager or president of the organization.

Q. What punishment is inflicted for disobedience?

A. They are sent off by themselves or they are spanked, mildly spanked, the same as a good parent might inflict.

Q. How about this matter of the child who was alleged to have been dipped, head first, into the water. Is it a fact that this was done?

A. No, sir. We threatened to do that but did not carry it out. I might add that this was for a serious offense.

Q. You say, then, that it was only a threat, that no such punishment was administered or inflicted?

A. No, sir, nothing such was done. This threat was only resorted to after all milder means had been exhausted, for this case was one of an incorrigible girl who had been dismissed from another institution. It was only a threat, never carried into effect, and the girl is still in the institution and very happy.

Q. How about this "shaking-up." Was such a remark made?

A. I made the remark that I shook them up occasionally.

Q. Regarding the charge that everything is in the hands of one individual, what have you to say?

A. This is due to the fact that they are not able to employ more than one paid worker.

Q. How about the sale of the magazine? You might make a statement regarding this matter for our records.

A. The sale of this magazine has been questioned and criticised but the criticism could not be justly supported, if it were an adverse criticism, in that we have no investment whatever. The magazine is published, delivered to us at a price, the solicitors get their pay, all expenses even the rent of the office which is necessary for the conduct of this part of the work, is deducted, and therefore the 3½ cents, which is the net result, gives the home an added income of about $1,000.00 or more annually, of a pure gain. There is no question of the legitimacy of such methods of raising money any more than there could be of tag days or flower days. It is the public's money given in this manner instead of some other. A full value is given and the net resource is used in the up-keep of a worthy charity.

Q. How long have you served without salary?

A. From June, 1909, to November, 1914.

Q. How long have you been president?

A. Since 1912.

Q. Have you been affiliated with the home in any other capacity?

A. As Treasurer.

Q. How long?

A. Since about one month after being elected on the Board. I am the person referred to as the "one individual." I am the president, treasurer, solicitor of funds, distributor of the Sunshine Magazine, etc. I have served the organization for five years without any compensation of any kind, and in addition thereto, have contributed materially to the support of the institution from my own means. I have not even drawn any money for expenses in all that time.

Q. How about the charge that the food served the children is not good?

A. That is absolutely false.

Q. This statement goes on to say: "At supper on the day of this investigation the children were eating a meal consisting of bread and butter and lemonade, which they drank out of granite cups, the latter being the only tableware in sight." Is that correct?

A. I was there at the time, and met by apopintment, Mr. Osseroff, who has made this statement. The meal referred to was the light meal of the day, a good cooked dinner being served always at noon. That particular meal referred to consisted of bread and butter, as much as desired by each child, and lemonade. Also fruit and small cakes and crackers, lemonade during the hot months being served the children three evenings a week and milk the other four. Our food varies according to the season. Our winter suppers are always hot, either toast, mush and milk, cereals of all kinds, biscuits, friend mush, etc. Our breakfasts consist of fruit, bread and butter mush and milk and cereals of all kinds.

Q. Are the dining rooms fitted up in order to eat in?

A. Our dining room is a large, well lighted, sanitary, painted room, properly equipped with furniture, hard wood tables, tops of which are scrubbed after each meal. Table linen is purposely avoided on account of the many small children. The larger children are provided with heavy chairs and the smaller ones are provided with benches, with backs. The older children attend the public school, which is half a square distant, and the younger children attend kindergarten.

Q. How about the sleeping quarters? Are they adequate?

A. As to the sleeping quarters they are ample, the beds and mattresses being entirely new, within the last two years, the beds being the best institutional beds obtainable.

Q. How about the hospital floor? Is it covered with oil cloth?

A. The hospital floor is covered with very good linoleum.

Q. There is a statement here regarding your toilet and bathing facilities. Do you consider them adequate?

A. Our bathing facilities are ample, consisting of two fully equipped bath rooms both modern and sanitary. Besides, we have five lavatories of modern white procelain, three wash stands, an extra toilet for boys only, on the second floor, and I think this is quite adequate for our needs. The plumbing of this house has been thoroughly overhauled inside of the last three years and the children are bathed daily during summer. Bath rooms and bathing facilities are conveniently arranged. Mr. Osseroff's investigation consisted in passing through the house once, which consumed possibly a half hour or so and his opportunity of viewing the children was at supper time, at the table, where they entertained him with songs and their evening worship at which time he expressed his pleasure at our home life, the happy faces of the children and their general good condition. He remained in the house about three hours, the balance of which time was spent in the reception hall discussing the needs of institutions and I gave him all the information as to the management and operation of our home. Every courtesy was shown him, nothing withheld. At a later date, in my office in the Keenan Building, I showed him our voucher records and our full system of bookkeeping, only withholding the names and actual circumstances in which these children have come under our care which, out of Christian charity, we deem sacred to our Board of Management. As the gentleman in question visited our home in the hot month of July, our fenders, for the sake of convenience, were stored on the fourth floor. Had he mentioned fenders, we might have shown them to him. The inconvenience of bathing renders it hardly surprising to find the number of children whose limbs are covered with dirt of much more than twenty-four hours standing. They are never put to bed dirty as they are bathed daily. The statements made are as vicious as they are untruthful.

Witness dismissed.

Home for Colored Children.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your full name please?

A. Mary E. Munroe.

Q. What is your official connection with the Home for Colored Children?

A. I am the president.

Q. How long have you been president?

A. I do not remember. A good while; possibly eight years.

Q. Are you familiar with the conduct of the work at the home?

A. I certainly am.

Q. Do you visit it frequently?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How often during say, a month?

A. About once a week. We go there any time during the day, sometimes in the morning, sometimes afternoon and often in the evening.

Q. Have you ever served on a committee for admission of children?

A. No, I never did.

Q. How are children admitted, other than those committed.

A. We have a committee known as the Searchlight committee. The corresponding secretary is the chairman. They investigate all cases and place them before the Board and the Board passes upon it and they are admitted. The child's home is personally visited always.

Q. Are you familiar with the records, how they are kept?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know they are kept?

A. I do.

Q. Are they complete?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Regarding the records of the children after they are dismissed from the home how is that shown or kept?

A. I hardly know how to answer that. These records seem perfectly adequate.

Q. Do you have a card system?

A. Yes.

Q. How long do you keep children in the home? Is there any limit?

A. There is no limit but we usually keep them until they are about eighteen years of age.

Q. It states here that the records consist of two small books.

A. There are only two books at the home.

Q. The following statement is made: "Meager data, with regard to the age, religion and parentage of the children, marks the outside limit to the knowledge which the management of this institution has concerning its wards." Is that all you know about the children?

A. We keep a record of the child's age, parentage, religion and everything necessary that can be used. You can not always get all the information you would like.

Q. Then you would say that the records are as complete as is possible, under existing circumstances, to have them, and that you frequently inspect them?

A. Yes, I would say so. I go over them quite frequently.

Q. Then you would say that the statement made in the third paragraph is hardly justifiable and that, as a matter of fact, you have a complete record of every child?

A. Yes, sir; that statement is incorrect. Only today I had occasion to inspect these books. The records are complete. As to the statement, "The financial records are inadequate. A general ledger, a handful of loose pages of scrap paper covered with jottings and a little note book in which the superintendent records the payments made by the relatives of inmates, without specifying the time for which such payments are made, completes the system of bookkeeping," I wish to say that our books are audited quarterly. If he had looked at that book he would have seen the stamp of the traveling auditor of the Auditor General's Department of the State.

Q. There is a statement here which reads as follows: "The general care of the children is fair. But, at least until the coming of the present superintendent the children were at times subjected to severe punishments, totally unjustified under any circumstances in the care of children." What have you to say to that?

A. I wish to say that they were only punished when punishment was deserved, but they were never unjustifiably punished. We would be glad to be confronted with the proof of any such assertion to the contrary.

Q. How about the school work? How is that conducted?

A. We have a teacher there who has been with us over six years and she a very conscientious, good worker. Some of our children go to the public school, about 16 of them. When I was there last we only had about 51 children as we had a scarlet fever epidemic and some of the children were in the hospital.

Q. Is any study made to ascertain whether a child is normal or subnormal? Are there defective children taught in the same room with those who are normal?

A. No, sir. I would say that such a statement was incorrect.

Q. Do you know of any children in the institution who are not normal?

A. Yes, sir; there are two whom we think are not normal.

Q. How did you ascertain that fact?

A. There was an inspector came down (I think from the City Department of Health) to the home to see a girl who was returned to us and I think he made the statement that she was not in her right mind. The inspector, at the time, went into the school room and examined all the children, and he said he thought there were two who were not normal.

Q. Who was this inspector and who did he represent?

A. I think, the Department of Charities or the Department of Health of the city. I do not remember his name.

Q. Was he a physician?

A. I could not say whether he was or not. There were in the home, at times, children who are subnormal and for whom application has been made for admission to Polk and they are awaiting transfer at the present time.

Q. What have you to say to the statement regarding the play room?

A. As to the play room, it is completely equipped. There is plenty of light and air, well ventilated rooms, only used on rainy days. There is a completely equipped pavilion outside and we encourage the children to keep out of the building as much as possible. We have a man who comes down one evening a week and teaches the children gymnasium work, athletics and calesthenics of all kinds.

Q. Are bottles of medicine to be found indiscriminately throughout the institution?

A. No, sir; we have been very particular about that.

Q. You are positive of this?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The statement is made that the institution has not been well managed. Do you consider the institution well managed and do you know whether or not the managers give any attention to the conducting of same?

A. I must say that it is very well conducted.

Q. Have you ever heard any criticisms?

A. We have never heard any question of that kind being raised until this pamphlet was published.

Witness dismissed.

Home for Colored Children, Miss Jeanette Kennedy.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Jeanette Kennedy, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

Q. Will you please give the clerk your full name?

A. Miss Jeanette Kennedy.

Q. Miss Kennedy, what is your office in the institution?

A. I am chairman of the admission committee whcih investigates all cases before they are admitted. I am also the corresponding secretary.

Q. Are you familiar with the work?

A. I think so.

Q. How long have you been connected with the home?

A. As I recall, it has been since about 1896. About 19 years.

Q. Are you familiar with the records, etc.?

A. As regards admission of children.

Q. Are they complete?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are they kept in books purposely provided for the work?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have read the statement that they are kept in a slip-shod manner, a handful of loose paper covered with jottings, etc.

A. Yes, sir. That is entirely incorrect, or I might say it is a misstatement of facts.

Q. Have you ever, in your 19 years experience in the work, heard any criticism, up until the present time?

A. No, sir, I have not.

MR. GILL, RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Q. Do you know whether or not the Board of Managers give constant attention to this institution?

A. I do.

Q. Well, what is the fact? Do they give it attention?

A. Yes, they give strict attention to the duties of the home.

Witness dismissed.

Holy Family Orphans' Home, Dr. E. H. Sloan.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Dr. E. H. Sloan, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

Q. What is your full name, please?

A. E. H. Sloan.

Q. In what capacity are you connected with the Holy Family Orphans' Home?

A. I am the home physician.

Q. You are familiar with the work conducted by the home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you visit frequently?

A. Yes, about once a week.

Q. What is the general condition of the children?

A. Good.

Q. Have you been in the dining room?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you seen the children at meals?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Have you been in any other institutions of the same character?

A. No, sir, I never have.

Q. What would your opinion be as to the condition of food and the serving of it at that institution?

A. The condition of the food seems very good to me. The children seem to get sufficient. They have plain board tables and benches and I do not remember whether they have knives or not.

Q. Is it good or fair?

A. Would say that the serving of the food is fair and that the grub is good and wholesome.

Q. Have you had occasion to render any medical assistance there?

A. Yes; I go over every week and if anyone is sick I give them the same attention as I would my private patients.

Q. What is your general opinion of the institution.

A. Very good.

Q. What do you think of the toilet facilities of the institution?

A. I do not think their toilet facilities are adequate for the number of children. I think there should be more provisions for their bathing and toilet.

Q. Have you ever been there at night?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. How are the dormitories?

A. I don't know how many beds in the dormitories but they have excellent ventilation, and lots of sunshine during the day.

Q. What is your opinion of the care given the children in the institution, from going there as a physician?

A. The care given is very good. I think the institution is a "God send" to children who are received there. Their treatment at the institution is not to be compared with the treatment they would receive at their own home. These children are mostly from the slums.

Q. Have they had any epidemics?

A. Whooping cough and measles.

Q. Have any of the diseases of the children been due to a lack of attention on the part of the management.

A. No, sir, the management is of the best possible.

Witness dismissed.

Holy Family Orphans' Home, Father Cesear Tomaszewski.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Cesear Tomaszewski who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your name, please?

A. Father Cesear Tomaszewski.

Q. In what capacity are you employed at the home?

A. I am the Superintendent.

Q. How long have you been connected with the home?

A. I foundered it in 1900. It was incorporated in 1903.

COMMISSIONER S. E. GILL; RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Q. There is a statement made in a report of the Public Charities Association, Allegheny County Committee, on page No. 70, that this institution makes no investigation before the admission of a child. Is that correct?

A. That is a lie.

Q. Will you state what investigation is made usually?

A. When somebody wants to place a child in our home we have a printed form, or application blank, which we require them to fill out. On that form are questions regarding the child; the age, date of birth, whether the father lives and if not, the date of his death, if they have any real estate, father or mother, who is the guardian and a great many other questions incident to the matter. It must be filled out and signed in the presence of witnesses. If they are half orphans with father living, we request that he contribute to his maintenance. If the child resides in the parish the minister must sign the papers. Many times we have refused admission when we found that the child's father had not given correct information.

Q. You mean, you do not burden the institution with children unless they are dependent?

A. That is it exactly.

Q. It is stated here that the personal relationship between the management and the children is very distant and the institutional aspect of the work is very apparent.

A. The relationship is so distant that the sisters and myself sometimes spend about an hour kissing the children good-night. I mingle amongst the boys and play games with them, pool, etc.

Q. Is this statement true?

A. No, it is absolutely false.

Q. Is it true that the food for the children is served in a very poorly equipped institutional dining room?

A. No sir; we have board tables covered with oil cloth. Some places the cloth is torn and the bare tables show through, but they are very clean.

Q. Ordinarly, they are covered with oil cloth?

A. Yes sir.

Q. When the tables are not covered are they made from rough or smooth boards?

A. From light, smooth boards.

Q. Are they kept clean?

A. Yes sir, scrubbed every day. After each meal they are cleaned, and once a day scrubbed.

St. Joseph's Protectory, Father F. J. Huber.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally F. J. Huber, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Will you please give your full name to the clerk?

A. F. J. Huber.

Q. I have here a report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, 1915. Have you seen this report?

A. I have.

Q. On page No. 64 of that pamphlet it is stated, with regard to the admission of children, that there is no systematic provision for thorough investigation. Is that correct?

A. It certainly is not correct.

Q. Will you state what investigation is made?

A. When a case comes from a certain parish, the parish pastor must vouch for the case. We have boys from the Orphan Asylum and we assume the records of the Asylum.

Q. What is your system? Card or book?

A. Book.

Q. What does it record?

A. It shows the admission, date, age, date of birth, address of father, if living, name of mother, her maiden name, her address if living, if dead notation to the fact is made, name of guardian, where going to school, or working, or history of why boy is placed in the institution.

Q. Do your records show whether those responsible have means?

A. We investigate that. If they are able to help support the child we expect them to pay what they can. We have just spent $7,000.00 for improvements to the interior of the institution.

Q. Did you see Mr. Osseroff?

A. Yes, I took him through the institution.

Q. You gave him such information as he asked for?

A. Not all. I gave him what I thought he should have.

Q. Why did you not give him everything?

A. He asked for everything, for instance, he wanted a menu or a list of food supplies; such as we serve for meals, covering the entire week. I deemed it superfluous.

Q. You have seen the statement on page No. 64 relative to the age of boys admitted into the institution. What have you to say concerning it?

A. I wish to say the statement is false.

Q. In what particular?

A. Boys over 12 years of age are not accepted and up until the time of this investigation,—(interrupted).

Q. You mean to say there are none there over twelve years of age?

A. No, sir, I don't mean that. The boys are not admitted if they are over 12 years of age and they are allowed to remain five years. The majority of them are about seventeen years or under when they are dismissed. They are admitted between the ages of 10 and 12 usually but there are a few cases which we must make exceptions to the rule. Mr. Osseroff further states that the buildings are lighted by electricity. There is only one building which has electric lights and that is the Industrial building. The main building will be lighted by electricity after the improvements are made.

Q. The investigator goes on to state that there is no thorough medical examination before the admission of a child, but when medical aid is needed a staff of specialists is available. Is this statement correct?

A. Yes sir; that is correct. There is no medical examination.

Q. In the same paragraph he states that no study is made to ascertain whether children are normal or subnormal, this being left entirely to personal observation on the part of the management. Is that a fact?

A. No sir, no thorough study. However, there is some study and observation but we do not employ experts. We have Doctors from time to time but not regularly. This is to see if children are amenable to ordinary courses of instruction and care.

Q. Is there anything else in this statement which you wish to protest against?

A. Nothing in particular only the general tone. We are improving conditions all around and the investigator seemed very much pleased with the prospects.

Q. Is there no other statement which you wish to make?

A. No sir, I don't think so.

Witness dismissed.

Roselia Foundling Asylum, Sister Victoria.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Sister Victoria, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your name?

A. Sister Victoria.

Q. What institution do you represent?

A. Roselia Foundling Asylum and Maternity Hospital.

Q. In what capacity are you connected with this institution?

A. As Superintendent.

Q. Have you seen a statement published in a report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number one, dated 1915?

A. Just saw it to-day.

Q. In this pamphlet, on page No. 67, the following statement is made; "At the time of the visit of the investigator the children were all massed in a squalid play room on the rst floor, with no means provided for play or exercise," Is this a correct statement?

A. I do not recall this visit being made, if it was in the summer time. They have a play room besides the dining room. We consider this as good as they would have in their own homes. This is used only in the winter. In the summer these things are taken out to the park.

Q. The further statement is made; "This room is also used as a dinig room for these children. Outside of an old table and several benches about it, there is nothing to even suggest dining room equipment." What have you to say to this statement?

A. In the dining room, that is all they have. I don't know what equipment they expect; the benches and tables and the little chairs for those who sit in the high chairs.

Q. The tables are long tables, are they?

A. Yes sir.

Q. How many can you seat at one time?

A. All of them. Those who are not at the table are in their high chairs. There are only about 35 in that department.

Q. Were there 162 children at that time?

A. Yes, including babies.

Q. What ages are they received?

A. From birth to five years of age.

Q. How long have you been connected with the institution?

A. In all, about 12 years. I was there 9 years, went away 6 and then returned. Have been back for three years.

Q. Do you know of the visit of this man to investigate your institution?

A. I do not recall it. Some of these people came in and we supposed they were from the State. We never take visitors to the Maternity Department.

Q. It is stated here that permission to see the most important parts of the building was refused. What was your refusal?

A. The part refused was the Maternity Department and the object is to shelter unfortunates. We would not consider any visitor to this Department unless he had official relations.

Q. You do not know whether or not it is a fact that such permission was refused in this case?

A. I do not know, but I think that if he asked, permission would be refused.

Q. A statement is made, at the conclusion of this report, that this hospital, for its own benefit in silencing criticisms that may be unwarranted, should welcome a thorough and intensive investigation of its work. I would ask whether or not you do welcome such an investigation from properly constituted bodies?

A. Yes, we certainly do.

Q. Have you not had such frequent investigations made by such bodies?

A. Yes, sir; by the State Board of Public Charities.

Q. Have you, at any time, refused properly authorized persons permission to investigate any part of your hospital?

A. No sir; never.

Q. There is a statement concerning the medical staff in which it appears that four doctors and an assistant in the Maternity Department and a like number in the Children's Department constitutes the entire force. What is the facts concerning that?

A. In addition to those named, we have a specialist on nose and throat, one on skin diseases and one on the eyes.

Q. Is there any other statement in this report, so far as you have seen it, which you might care to speak of or make answer to?

A. I do not think there is anything else.

Witness dismissed.

First Allegheny Day Nursery, Jennie D. Marshall.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Jennie D. Marshall, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

COMMISSIONER TORRANCE.

Q. Will you please give the clerk your full name?

A. Jennie D. Marshall.

Q. What is your position?

A. I am the Superintendent of the Bethesda Home.

Q. You have seen a copy of a pamphlet entitled, "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, dated 1915."

A. I have, but nothing concerning our home.

Q. You were formerly connected with the First Allegheny Day Nursery and Temporary Home?

A. Yes sir; for 16 years.

Q. When did you leave there?

A. Two years ago last October.

Q. Are you acquainted with conditions in the dining room at the temporary home?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What is the condition?

A. Very nice. Always kept that way.

Q. Is the kitchen large enough for the building?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Where is the bakery?

A. Down in the cellar, but it a very clean, nice cellar. They had an oven built down there. The cellar or basement is perfectly dry and clean, and the dining room is better than where lots of people are living.

Q. Nothing objectionable about it?

A. Nothing at all. The dining room is a nice room and the institution is a very comfortable home all the way through. Everybody speaks well about it.

Q. What is your opinion of the Allegheny Day Nursery in general?

A. I do not think there is a better home in the city. The children are treated fine and it is very homelike Mrs. Strickler can tell you the same thing.

Q. What is your opinion of the work among the inmates?

A. I am sure that a majority of the inmates would report that the work is of the best. A great many have secured work and are now supporting others.

Q. You think, then, that they are substantial in their results?

A. I do.

BETHESDA HOME.

Q. Were you visited by a gentleman named Osseroff any time during the last two months?

A. Just once.

Q. What did he say was the purpose of his visit?

A. He said he was attending to appropriations and was looking up all those who were worthy and whether they deserved more or less money.

Q. Whom did he say he represented?

A. I forget just the name but we were under the impression that he was from the State Board of Public Charities. At least, he gave that impression.

Q. Was he subsequently asked if he did represent the State Board?

A. Yes, Mrs. Callahan asked him.

Q. What did he say to you in regard to getting appropriations?

A. He said he was on a committee that was going around attending to appropriations and that those who were deserving would get it. He said those institutions deserving would get as much as possible.

Q. You understood him to say that he was going to get those that deserved as much as possible?

A. Yes sir; he said that. He got a list of the names of all the girls. He wanted to know whether they were dependent or delinquent. He called again in a day or two and wanted financial reports and Mrs. Callahan said he could not get it. He seemed very angry and did not bother us afterwards.

Q. What sort of questions did he ask these girls?

A. He wanted their private history and asked questions regarding that. He did not get to see any books. The information with reference to these girls was meager but was given by us under the impression that he was representing the Board of Public Charities of the State. We do not give this kind of information to anyone else as we consider it sacred to the Board of Managers. It is also one of the rules of the institution.

Witness dismissed.

Children's Temporary Home, John H. Flaherty.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally John H. Flaherty, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your name, please?

A. John H. Flaherty.

Q. I have before me a pamphlet entitled, "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, dated 1915." Have you seen this report?

A. Yes, I have just glanced over it hurriedly.

Q. You will note on page No. 59 the following statement, "The personal relationship between the management and the children is not congenial as it might be. The institutional spirit prevades the work and there is but little done toward approximating home life and homelike surroundings for the children." What have you to say to this statement?

A. I was talking to the Chairman of the Children's Home committee this morning and he stated just the opposite to that. The Superintendent lives with the children and does her utmost to make them a homelike surrounding. There is not any possible way that the party who made this report could have known anything in a five minute visit. This is the first time I have seen this report but on the face of it, it does not look plausable.

Q. Did you know anything about the visit until now?

A. Yes, I just called the Superintendent of the home and asked her what she haid said or what this party had said and what impression she got of him when this individual called. She seemed to be under the impression that he was representing the State Board of Charities. I asked her if she was still under that impression and she said she was. I asked if she had let him go through and she said yes, that she had shown him through and given him some general information. A day or two later this man came down to me and said that he had been referred to the General Manager. I was not under the impression that he represented your Board. I asked him just what information he was after and he pulled a form from his pocket and when I had read the form and the questions he wanted us to answer, I concluded he was asking too much and I therefore referred him to the President of our Board of Trustees and said that he would advise him what amount of the information would be given. On the face of the matter I do not see where he had any foundation for such a report. That is the boast of the home, that it is made homelike and that it is one big family.

Q. What is your position with the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor?

A. General Manager.

Q. How frequently do you go out to the home?

A. Frequently but not regularly.

Q. How long have you been in this or similar work?

A. Twenty-four years.

Q. Are you more or less familiar with such work?

A. Yes sir.

Witness dismissed.

Davis Temporary Home and Day Nursery. Mrs. Addie B. Cole.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Addie B. Cole, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Your full name, please?

A. Addie B. Cole.

Q. What institution do you represent?

A. The Davis Temporary Orphans' Home and Day Nursery for Colored Children.

Q. How long have you been connected with that institution?

A. Ever since it started.

Q. Well, how long is that?

A. The home was incorporated in 1909 and was running two years before it was incorporated. In all, about eight years.

Q. Was the home visited by Mr. Osseroff?

A. Yes sir; and my own home also. I was under the impression that he was from the State Board of Charities but before he left he said he was in the Peoples' Bank Building, then I knew he was not from the State Board of Charities. While he was at the home we gave him full information. A few days later he called up and said there was a mistake in our report. I said, "Well, I am very busy just now and as soon as I get time I will fix it up." However, we never heard from him again.

Q. Whom did he consult besides you?

A. The Matron.

Q. Have you read the report on your institution set forth in this pamphlet?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You are familiar with the conducting of the institution, generally?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Are you familiar with the admission of children?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What investigation is made before admission?

A. We have regularly printed application blanks which must be filled out by the parents or guardian of the child. They must tell everything they know regarding the child's past and we find out what diseases, if any, the child has had. Then the child is examined by our house physician, Dr. A. G. Gantt. We have never been quarantined for a contagious disease. The investigator states that our children are not properly fed and clothed. I would like to know just what the gentleman expects. We get 35 loaves of good fresh bread from Bauer Bros. every morning. All of the food is as good as could possibly be expected. The children get new underclothing every Spring and Fall. Also new night gowns. Then he says that our beds are inadequate. That is absolutely false for we have everything that could be had. We have an exceptionally good sized kitchen, with linoleum on the floors and oil cloth on the walls.

Q. It says here, "The equipment consists of six tables of different kinds and shapes and in various stages of dilapidation." How about that statement?

A. That is not true. The tables are in a good state of repair and they are covered with oil cloth.

Q. The investigator goes on to say, "Children are accepted from the ages of two to ten, but these limits are not adhered to rigidly. The ages of the 47 children in the Home at the time of this investigation varied from three to fourteen years. The longest residence in the institution by any child was seven years." What have you to say to this statement?

A. This is strictly adhered to and the statement is absolutely false.

Q. "The books kept by the institution are limited to a small five cent paper covered note book, in which the matron keeps the names of the children and their ages, and a day book and ledger kept by the financial secretary." What is the truth in this statement?

A. It is a ten cent book. That is kept for a record of stuff coming in and it is ten transferred.

Q. Are you familiar with bookkeeping?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Would you say that this statement is correct?

A. It is false.

Q. Has the State Auditor made any complaints as regards the books or has he suggested any corrections?

A. No sir; in fact, he has complimented me on my books.

Q. You consider, Mrs. Cole, that you have sufficient help in the institution?

A. Yes sir; we have a house maid, laundress, cook, matron and nurse. We have four women all the time and four girls, two of which are 13 years of age and two 12 years of age. They should know how to work as well as go to school.

Q. Are you connected with any other institution of this character?

A. None other for children? I am connected with the Home for Aged Colored Ladies on Lemington Avenue.

Witness dismissed.

Davis Temporary Home and Day Nursery, Rosa Robinson.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Rosa Robinson, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Will you please give the clerk your name?

A. Rosa Robinson.

Q. What is your connection with the Davis Temporary Home and Day Nursery?

A. I am the Matron.

Q. How long have you been there?

A. Ever since the home was started; about eight years. Was there before the home received its charter.

Q. Did you see this man, Mr. Abraham Osseroff?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Under what condition did he come to see the home?

A. He said he come to see the home, as he represented a commission that could get our appropriation.

Q. Did he say who he represented.

A. He said the State Board of Public Charities.

Q. Have you read the report since being made?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What is the fact relative to the feeding of children. The statement is made that "Supper on the day of this investigation consisted only of hash, left over from the day before, with bread and water."

A. That is not so. You see, we had a roast the day before and there was some left over. We do not usually give the children meat at night but that was served with bread and butter and cocoa, not water.

Q. Did you tell him that the fact that the children received bread and butter was a treat, provided only on alternate days, and that the institution could not provide each child with even a single slice of buttered bread each day?

A. No sir; I did not say that because they always have very good nourishing food.

Q. It says here, "One slice of bread and butter for each child."

A. Well yes, for the babies.

Q. He says they only get bread and butter on alternate days?

A. No sir; that is not true. Our dinner consists of roast beef, roast pork, lamb, and once a month chicken.

Q. What is the health record for children?

A. I consider it very good. There has only been, I think, one death in the home since it was started. I consider that a very good record. We have never been under quarantine.

Q. What is the form of punishment administered at the home?

A. Stand them up for a while and then send them to bed.

Q. Do you spank them?

A. No sir.

Q. Would you consider the treatment accorded these children would be on a par with the treatment of a colored child of the same age in their own home?

A. Far better than most of them would receive. (Mrs. Cole, under oath, made same reply to this question.)

Witness dismissed.

Curtis Home for Children, Elizabeth M. Strickler.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Elizabeth M. Strickler, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your name?

A. Elizabeth M. Strickler.

Q. What is your position at the Curtis Home?

A. I am the Matron or Superintendent.

Q. How long have you been connected with it?

A. About four years.

Q. Are you acquainted with the methods of receiving children?

A. I surely am.

Q. Is it thorough?

A. Very much so.

Q. Are blanks and books used?

A. Yes sir. There is a committee which also investigates.

Q. Have you a committee?

A. Yes, sir. We always refer this work to the committee.

Q. What is the age limit in the home?

A. We have not any age limit. We take children over four years and we have some 14 years of age, but they are not admitted at that age.

Q. "Girls only are accepted and these between the ages of four and fourteen." Is that correct?

A. No sir, it is a mistake.

Q. You believe the system efficient and sufficient?

A. Absolutely first class.

Q. What system is used?

A. A card system.

Q. Approved of generally?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Complete?

A. Yes, sir. We are very much satisfied with it.

Q. You were visited by the author of this report?

A. Yes, one Saturday.

Q. In what connection did he come before you and under what authority did you present him with this account?

A. Well, he sent in his card and he said he was representing public charities. I was accustomed to seeing Mr. Theurer and I asked where he was and if he was not coming around, whether or not he was still in this district. He said, "Oh yes, he is still coming around but I am covering this territory now."

Q. Was you lead to believe that he was a representative of this Board?

A. By the above statement, yes sir.

Q. What did he require of you?

A. He said he wanted data and I misunderstood him to be from the State Board and showed him records of all cases. Of course he took in every little detail. He also made the statement that the Matron interviewed people in the hallway but that is untrue.

Q. Did he say anything about State aid?

A. Yes, he said he could benefit us. He intimated that we had better let him in and he tried to intimidate us.

Q. What did he say with reference to it?

A. He said he had been authorized to make these inspections and that he had the right. Of course, I thought he was from this office, and made a mistake in reading his card. It is very much like those used by Mr. Theurer. He makes the statement that the dining room is dark but that is untrue. It certainly is not dark. He also partook of some of the children's dinner while there and thanked us, saying that it was a very good dinner.

Witness dismissed.

Curtis Home for Children, Mrs. Louise Goettman.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Mrs. Louise Goettman, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Your name, please?

A. Mrs. Louise Goettman.

Q. What is your position at the Curtis Home?

A. I am President of the Board of Managers.

Q. You have heard the testimony of Mrs. Strickler and if there is anything you wish to add you may do so.

A. Well, I just wish to say that we ladies knew a little more about this gentleman and what was going on. I came down to see Mr. Theurer and told him what Mr. Osseroff had demanded, in the way of records, etc., from the institution and he told me to tell him to go to grass. He told me to tell Mr. Osseroff to come around here for his information regarding our financial standing, which I did. Mr. Osseroff replied that he was dealing with the Curtis Home and not Mr. Theurer. He wanted a financial report and I referred him to Mr. Goettman, who is the Treasurer. He went to Mr. Goettman and asked for it but was informed that he (Mr. Goettman) did not have time to give such information to anyone coming along and was further informed to consult Mr. Theurer. The gentleman said it would stand us in good stead if we gave it to him. I would say he tried to intimidate us.

Witness dismissed.

P. and A. Home for Friendless, Mrs. Mary K. Greenwood.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, appeared personally Mrs. Mary K. Greenwood, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states that the following statement is true and correct, to the best of her knowledge and memory.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Please give the clerk your full name.

A. Mary K. Greenwood.

Q. What is your position at the Home for the Friendless?

A. I am the Superintendent.

Q. How long have you been connected with the home?

A. Five years in March.

Q. Were you visited by Mr. Osseroff?

A. We were, yes sir.

Q. Did he consult you?

A. Yes sir; but Mrs. Chalfant was the principal one to see this gentleman. For some reason, she could not be present this afternoon.

Q. The question of admission of children, is that correct?

A. No sir; children are admitted from one to twelve years of age.

Q. Is there a systematic method of receiving children into your institution?

A. Yes sir.

Q. The report states, "The educational facilities, as now provided are inadequate." Is that a fact?

A. No sir, they all attend public school. We do not now have a kindergarden.

Q. With reference to the dining room, it speaks of the children sitting on low stools without the advantage of a comfortable back rest. Is that correct?

A. We do have low stools and we would be glad to have chairs if we had the money with which to purchase them. We are open for suggestions from the investigator as to how to get them.

Q. There is a statement here which I notice. "The personal relationship between the management and the children is quite distant. The old fashioned institutional spirit is apparent everywhere, and even an approximation to home life and its natural environment is denied these children." Have you anything to say to this?

A. I don't know anything about that. We make it just as homelike as possible.

Q. Is the statement correct or incorrect?

A. No sir; I don't think that is entirely correct. Nobody can supply the mother's love to 160 children that she can give one. I think the statement, on the face of it, is untrue. I think we have the finest attendants we have had in my carear.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER S. E. GILL.

Q. The statement is made here that "even an approximation to home life and its natural environments is denied these children." Is that true?

A. No sir; it is not.

Q. Is it true that there is not even an approximation to home life?

A. I think we permit it as much as we can, possibly.

Q. It is stated that the educational facilities are inadequate and that there is one large school room containing about ninety desks. How many do you teach in the institution?

A. None, unless we are quarantined with some contageous disease.

Q. All of the children of school age go when they are well?

A. Yes sir; including kindergarden age.

Q. But you do sometimes teach in this large school room, a number of children?

A. Yes sir.

Q. On what occasions?

A. When the home is quarantined.

Q. Only then?

A. Yes, only then.

Q. Is there any industrial instructions given?

A. Nothing except sewing to the girls. Boys get manual training at school, and also cooking.

Q. How near is the public school to your institution?

A. About half a block.

Q. Are they taught any other domestic science or any other work during the year?

A. They all work, who are able, from 7:30 to 8:30 in the morning. Those who are able work a half hour at noon. They come home from school and play to 4:30 when the girls who must serve the supper are put to work in the dining room. One month it is hard for them and the next month it is easy, as those who work in the dining room, etc., one month do not go in the next.

Q. What system have you, if any, of punishment.

A. If a child is unruley and in need of a whipping, we deduct two cents from his payroll.

Q. Payroll? Do you have a payroll?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Please explain that.

A. We pay each child 40 cents per month for the work that they do and credit it to their account, in a regular book used for that purpose. Some of them have as high as $5.00 in the book. We, of course, charge them for any expenditures which they make. They have other ways of earning money, for instance, one boy has a paper route in the home and we put a different boy on each week.

Q. If they are disobedient you fine them?

A. That is it, exactly.

Q. What other punishments are inflicted?

A. We send them to bed, make them stand or sit in the corner. No one whips them but myself. I have only whipped two boys since October 1st, last.

Q. You say they spend their money, sometimes. What do they buy?

A. Oh, most anything. The boys buy ball gloves, books, etc. They must get my approval before they can spend it.

Q. What do the girls buy?

A. The girls buy their winter and summer hats, hair ribbons, etc. They have been doing this for the last four years.

Q. It is stated in this report that clothing is provided by the institution? Is that the fact?

A. It is.

Q. Is it uniform?

A. No sir; it is not.

Q. Then they are not like institutional children in manner of cloths?

A. No sir.

Q. Why do you use that method of clothing the children?

A. Because I think each child wants individuality. It does away with the institutional look. It gives them independence. Of course, this is only a matter of opinion, someone may disagree with me on this point.

MR. GILL. "I think that will do."

Witness dismissed.

P. and A. Home for Friendless, J. W. Cree, Jr.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared J. W. Cree, Jr., who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your full name?

A. J. W. Cree, Jr.

Q. What have you to say concerning the personal relationship between the management and children. Is it distant?

A. No, I do not think it is distant. That is a very grave wrong to Mrs. Greenwood, the Superintendent, and, in fact, to all of the attendents in the home. I have never been at the home that I have not seen some evidence, by numbers of the children, of their affection to Mrs. Greenwood and to the caretakers under her. It unquestionably is an institution and we do not claim that the children receive the same attention that one or two children would receive in a very good private home, but for the majority of these children the Home for the Friendless is a veritable "Haven of Rest."

Q. How often do you visit the institution?

A. Quite frequently.

Q. There is a statement in this report, to which reference has been made, that even an approximation to home life and its natural environments is denied these children. From your observations, would you say that was true?

A. Well, each one of them does not have a separate mother. They seem—

MR. TORRANCE. Just a moment. You are not confining yourself to the question. Mr. Whitehead will read the above question.

(Question read).

A. That is not a fact. There is this I would like to say about this home life. The report states that this home takes half orphans and neglected children. That is not a fact. The home will take any child, orphan, half orphan, one of full parentage; any child at all who needs a place or is in need.

Q. What investigation is made before children are admitted?

A. We act entirely upon the statements of our trained investigator, who looks after all applications. The result of her investigation is referred to a committee and the committee takes the child in, if the case is worthy, or vice versa. She not only investigates before the children are brought in but if they are placed out she follows them up until they become of age.

Q. The statement is made, on page No. 51, that the medical work is done by a competent staff of physicians. It also goes on to make the following statement. "The medical supervision at the admission of a new child and during their stay in the institution is entirely too lax. As a result the institution is burdened almost constantly with contagious diseases under quarantine." What have you to say regarding the last statement, concerning the laxity of supervision and the constant quarantine?

A. That is a fact, as to the last two years. We have had the hardest luck that anybody could possibly have but that is not due to any laxity on the part of the physician in admitting the child. In a number of cases the disease may have been in a formative period and there is no child admitted under any circumstances who is not placed in the detention quarters before it is allowed to mingle with the other children.

Q. Then you would say that the medical supervision at the admission of the child is not lax but very careful?

A. It is certainly careful. This medical examination is made by a children's specialist, admittedly a leader in the profession.

Q. There is a case mentioned of a scarlet fever epidemic being brought on by the admission of a new boy who had the disease. What are the circumstances?

A. The child was regularly examined by the admitting physician. He was placed in the detention ward for two weeks, then re-examined before being allowed to mingle with the other children and very shortly thereafter began to scar. The doctor, commenting on the case, stated that it was an unusually long period of incubation.

Q. You state that this boy, who afterwards developed scarlet fever, was in the detention ward for two weeks. Is that time considered sufficient for detention and to ascertain whether or not they have developed a contagious disease?

A. The two weeks period is the time set by the physicians themselves, and I would therefore think that it was ample time as they could very readily be kept there longer, if necessary.

Q. It is stated, on page No. 51, that no study is made of the mental conditions of the children. Is that a fact?

A. If a child shows the slightest sign that it is not mentally developed, the child is examined by physicians expert in that direction. The four referred to in this report were supposed to be mentally defective. They were examined by a specialist who recommended that the children be allowed to remain in the home for a year, for the purpose of observation, before deciding whether they should be sent to an institution for mental defectives.

Q. Then this statement is not correct?

A. No sir; it is not.

Q. It is stated on page No. 52, that the toilet and bathing facilities are inadequate. What have you to say about that?

A. Each child receives a tub bath twice a week. Each child has its individual tooth brush, comb and brush, towel and wash bowl. All clothing is changed twice a week. Each tub is washed out subsequent to each bath and if the toilet and bathing facilities were fifty times as great the children would probably not be bathed oftener and certainly with no greater care to their cleanliness, both of the children and of the utensils or facilities. While the bath tubs are in the cellar, it is really a basement with good ventilation and good natural light. The children are not dependent upon the four outside toilets for boys, and four for girls, as there are adequate toilets near the dormitories, not strictly in accordance with modern ideas of toilets, but well kept, in perfect working condition as to the plumbing, and are entirely sufficient for present needs.

Q. It is stated that the toilets are all old and, in some cases, out of order. Is that correct?

A. It might have been that one of the toilets was out of order when he was over there but in such cases a plumber is summoned and repairs made as quick as possible. I think it is a shame to give as much criticism to the city home and to say as little as they do about the two summer homes, which I think are perfectly alright. The home at Alpsville may not be as nice looking as it might be but the one at Ebensburg will challenge comparison with any similar home in the country.

Witness dismissed.

On motion of Commissioner S. E. Gill, committee adjourned to convene the following morning, Saturday, February 27th, at 10:00 A. M.

Coleman Industrial Home, James Edghill, M. D.

Saturday, February 27th, 1914.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared James Edghill, M. D., who being duly affirmed, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

MR. TORRANCE. I am very busy upstairs, with a very important meeting so I will deputize my assistant, Mr. Theurer, to carry on this investigation.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT W. G. THEURER.

Q. Please give the clerk your full name.

A. James Edghill, M. D.

Q. Doctor, are you connected with the Coleman Industrial Home for Colored Boys?

A. I am.

Q. In what capacity?

A. As Secretary and General Representative.

Q. How long have you been connected with the home?

A. Actively, only within the last two weeks but I have been in touch with the work ever since it started.

Q. Where is the present location of the home?

A. At No. 1721 Bedford Avenue.

Q. You know of an investigation, made by a gentleman named Osseroff, of the Coleman Industriay Home?

A. Yes sir, I do know of it.

Q. You have read his printed report of his investigation of that home?

A. I have studied it carefully.

Q. In that report he states that there is little or no investigation made before the admission of an inmate. What have you to say to that?

A. I will say that that is absolutely false.

Q. What investigation is made?

A. The larger number of the boys usually in the home are Juvenile Court charges, sent there direct from the Juvenile Courts of Allegheny, Westmoreland, Washington and Beaver Counties. Then some of the boys are turned in by the police. We have no possible way of making any further than a physical investigation, which is made by Dr. John W. Brown.

Q. Do you take any records of the name, etc.

A. Yes sir. We find out where the boy comes from, his age, etc. Then we record the date that he is received in the home. We investigate to find out whether or not the parents are living or dead and how it comes that it is necessary for his admission into the home. Also we try to discover whether the parents or friends are able to contribute to his support.

Q. Do you believe that this investigation is complete and all that is necessary?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Then the statement they make here, Doctor, that "They are received on the statement of the individual boy or the recommendation of the person by whom he is sent is the extent of the study made of any case." Is that correct?

A. Entirely incorrect.

Q. The further statement is made that, "in order to obtain the names of the boys and their ages it was necessary to call them together and get the information through questions through direct questions. Is that a fact?

A. No sir.

Q. In what form do you keep these records in the institution, Doctor?

A. At the present time it is kept by book and card but we are going to establish a regular register system.

Q. They also state that the financial records are inadequate and mistakes are plentiful. How about that?

A. To that I would answer that our books are regularly audited by Mr. Churchill, traveling auditor of the Auditor General's Department of the State, and that they are certified to by him, bearing his stamp of approval.

Q. What do you know about the food served by this institution?

A. The food served by this institution is of the highest order and is adequately sufficient for the welfare of any child, white or black. His statement to the contrary is a pure lie.

Q. What have you to say as to the dining room and kitchen being poorly equipped and inadequate for the work?

A. They are amply sufficient at present. Both are kept scrupulously clean.

Q. Now then, as to the industrial work, this paragraph appears in the report. "The work of the boys is limited very largely to housework, but there is apparently very little of this done, for the house is not kept clean. The boys do odd jobs after school hours and in the summer time. For boys who are old enough, the Superintendent tries to find permanent positions." How about this?

A. The industrial work, during the winter months, is necessarily confined, largely, to work about the house. The house from the attic to the basement is as clean as any private home could be. The boys are kept constantly at work cleaning up and the atmosphere of the home is clean and sweet.

Q. The bathing facilities of the home are reported as inadequate. What have you to say to that?

A. We have three bath tubs, four toilets and four wash basins.

Q. What is the condition of the basement in which the two bath tubs, two toilets and two wash basins are situated? Is it light and well ventilated?

A. The basement is remarkably light and well ventilated, also a fine, perfectly dry, cemented floor.

Q. What is your knowledge of the clothing of the boys?

A. The clothing of the boys is good, for an institution of that kind.

Q. The statement is made that the boys are dismissed from the institution in a haphazard way, with no effort made to follow them up after their dismissal.

A. All boys brought into the home by the Juvenile Courts are dismissed on the order of the Courts, our responsibility ceasing at this point. Boys who are placed in the home by any living relative are handed over to their parents, relatives, or close friends, when they seem to be able to care for them. Even under such circumstances, effort is made to find what disposition is made of the boys. In some cases, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman have succeeded in finding profitable employment for some of the boys. After they have done so, those boys frequently continue to live at the home and pay out of their personal earnings such board as they can possibly afford. The same facts are true of orphan boys who live at the home.

Q. The further statement is made, as regards the building and equipment, that it is vermin-ridden and in many places dilapidated and filthy, totally inadequate for the boys now quartered there. What can you say to this?

A. This statement is untrue. The home is absolutely clean from the attic to the basement. It is not vermin-ridden and it is entirely adequate for those boys who are there at the present time.

Q. Now, Doctor, what do you know about the statement that is made with reference to the institution suffering, not so much from mismanagement, as from a total lack of proper management?

A. I have had a large experience with many institutions of this character in this and other countries and I will say that the present Superintendent and mother could not be duplicated, in this particular class of work, in this or any other city or country, and I certainly consider both of them thoroughly efficient.

Witness dismissed.

Coleman Industrial Home, S. A. Coleman.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance. Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared S. A. Coleman, who being duly affirmed, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT W. G. THEURER, DEPUTIZED BY PRESIDENT F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your full name.

A. Samuel Alexander Coleman.

Q. In what capacity are you connected with the Coleman Industrial Home?

A. As Superintendent.

Q. How long have you been connected with this institution?

A. I am the founder of the home and have been with it ever since it was started.

Q. How long has the home been in existence?

A. About eight years.

Q. What experience had you had in this work previous to that time?

A. Well, I have been in it since a child, myself. I was a slave, born in 1850, and was put out when a small boy as a slave and I served in various families until I was emancipated by Abraham Lincoln.

Q. But what experience have you had with reference to children's homes?

A. I have been actively engaged in caring for children, in one way or another, for the last thirty years.

Q. You say you are the present Superintendent?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You were present at the home when Mr. Abraham Osseroff called to make an investigation?

A. Yes sir.

Q. What did Mr. Osseroff say to you when he called?

A. He walked in and said he came to investigate the home. I was busy and could not be with him much. I asked him what his authority was, and if he came from the State Board of Charities and he said he was. I let him go through but he did not make much of an investigation.

Q. How long was he in going through?

A. About ten or fifteen minutes. He went away and said he would be back to take some pictures. He came back next day and took the pictures.

Q Those are the pictures contained in this report?

A. Yes, I suppose so. Is there a picture there?

(Picture exhibited.)

Q. Is that the picture?

A. Yes, that is the shop.

Q. When these pictures were taken, Mr. Coleman, what did Mr. Osseroff say as to taking a picture of the front part of the building and rear part?

A. He said he wanted to get as near the whole premises as he could.

Q. In taking the picture of the front of the building, what did he include in the picture?

A. The building, all the boys, including myself.

Q. Mr. Coleman, the statement is made that the food served by your home is very poor. Just state what you feed the boys on the average, for breakfast, dinner and lunch.

A. We serve in the morning, sometimes, oatmeal and milk, bread and tea, etc.

Q. Do you include butter with the bread?

A. Yes sir.

Q. And tea?

A. Yes sir.

Q. Do you give them all tea?

A. Yes; we give them milk or tea. Also milk on their oatmeal.

Q. Any fruit?

A. Yes sir; prunes, apples, friend apples, stewed fruits of all kinds, also molasses, etc.

Q. Now for dinner?

A. We have the best meats from the shop of Mr. Albert Braum. We have stewed lamb, beef or pork, and I wish to say that it is absolutely the best. Then we serve potatoes and either rice or some other vegetables. Sometimes cabbage and then we have chicken.

Q. What do they get to drink?

A. Only water, for dinner.

Q. You always have a cooked meal for dinner?

A. Yes, sir, every day.

Q. Now, for lunch?

A. We always have milk, stewed fruits, milk and mush, cereals and always something light to go to bed on, but plenty of it. Also bread and butter. We have our cooked dinner at noon and our lunch, or light meal, at supper time.

Q. Would you state, just as concisely as possible, what industrial work you teach the boys?

A. The shop is too cold for me to work the boys in in winter. It is not plastered inside. In the shop we have tools with which to do most any little handwork. We have braces and bits of all sizes, vices, saws, planes and different instruments, a compass, etc. I also teach them decorative or artistic sign painting. I can do that in the house.

Q. The statement is made that outside of the tools ordinarily found in every home, you have nothing with which to teach industrial training. What have you to say to that?

A. Well, we have everything that we can possibly afford, with our limited finances, to furnish or purchase, and at the present time our equipment is adequate for all present needs.

Q. You are the leader of the band in the home?

A. Yes, that is, they consider me the leader because I go everywhere with them. I do not play any instrument. They have a regular teacher. I used to play but not any more.

Q. The statement is made that no facilities are provided for play or recreation. How about that?

A. We have a small back yard but the boys are permitted to go to Washington Park playground. Also I spend every summer with the boys on an outing, usually on a camp ground somewhere or other. In that way the boys spend a very pleasant summer and have a delightful time. We have the basement to play in in cold weather.

Q. What have you to say as to the condition of your beds and bed linen and not providing your boys with night clothes?

A. Every bed has a change of bed linen, and sometimes twice a week, on account of boys wetting the bed. I have two suits of night clothes for every boy in the house.

Q. The statement is made that there is no systematic medical examination of the boys, on admission to the home. Is that correct?

A. Dr. John Brown examines the boys on their admission to the home. This has been done for two years.

Q. He further states that no effort is made to find out whether a child is normal or subnormal. Is that right?

A. Isn't that up to the Doctor? When he makes an examination and recommends that he be taken in, I take him in.

Q. He is the physician attending your home?

A. Yes sir.

Q. As to the statement, Mr. Coleman, that the home suffers not so much from mismanagement as from an almost total lack of proper management, and that there is no active worker in the home who is capable of managing it, what have you to say?

A. If the home is not managed properly the Juvenile Courts of the various counties would not send the boys there. I now have about 23 Juvenile Court boys from different counties and I consider that they would not suffer a boy to go there if they did not think the place was fit and proper for boys of that class. My home is also visited by the city authorities looking after the health of the school boys and the condition of their surroundings, and is also supervised by the State Board of Public Charities.

Q. The statement is made that your home is vermin-ridden, dilapidated and filthy. Can you explain that statement?

A. That is an untruth.

Q. Do you consider that you are doing everything that possibly can be done for the proper treatment, welfare and condition of the boys in your institution that can be done with the limited means, financially, at your command?

A. I know that I am doing all I can to make the boys' lives better, make him cleaner, and in all, make him a better citizen. I know that the work is good and that it has been highly recommended. This is the only time we have been severely criticized.

Witness dismissed.

Coleman Industrial Home, Mrs. Luella Coleman.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared Mrs. Luella Coleman, who being duly affirmed, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT W. G. THEURER, DEPUTIZED BY PRESIDENT F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your full name?

A. Mrs. Luella Coleman.

Q. And you are the matron of the Coleman Industrial Home?

A. Yes sir.

Q. You have read over this attack made on your home by a man by the name of Abraham Osseroff, Secretary of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania?

A. I have.

Q. In which it is stated that it is not a proper place for the care of boys, etc.

A. Yes sir.

Q. Now, in the first place, it is stated that the food served by your institution is very poor, the dining room and kitchen poorly equipped and inadequate. What would you say to that?

A. I would say that is untrue. I have been a cook for a great many years in hotels and places and have taken special pains to keep my kitchen accordingly. Our dining rooms are not so elegant but I am certainly proud of my kitchen. The dining room, however, is adequate.

Q. Now, as to the food?

A. We have no institutional food. It is more like a home no regular menu. We always allow one loaf of bread for each child. My pride in caring for children begins in allowing them enough to eat. I love to eat myself, and if I thought a child was hungry I would go without myself. We never punish them by depriving them of their meals.

Q. Now then, there is a statement that the sleeping quarters consist of six bed rooms, in addition to a back porch on the second floor containing three beds. The boys are not given night shirts since the management does not consider them a necessity. What have you to say to these statements?

A. Our bed rooms have always been very good. We change our bed linen every Saturday morning, but we often have to change them two and three times a week, especially the pillow cases and sheets. We have a regular laundress who does nothing but keep the linens clean.

Q. Now, as to the bathing and toilet facilities of the home?

A. The bathing is pretty much like the changing of beds. My rules are to bathe them whenever they are dirty. If a child is dirty and has had a bath that morning, I make them bathe again at night.

Q. Are the facilities adequate for present needs?

A. Yes sir.

Q. The statement is made that the toilets, etc., in the cellar are in a bad place, with no light. How about that?

A. I deny that. The basement is well ventilated and has plenty of light. Our plumbing cost me $700.00 and I would hate to think that I had them put in a dark corner.

Q. The cellar is not damp?

A. Perfectly dry.

Q. The statement is made that the clothing you furnish the boys is very poor. Is that correct?

A. I have no doubt it is poor. It is the best we can give them. We are very poor ourselves.

Q. Then you consider it sufficient; clean and warm?

A. Yes, sir; clean and warm. It is as much as we are able to buy in our present financial condition.

Q. The statement is made that your building is vermin-ridden, etc. What have you to say to that?

A. That is not true. There is no vermin in the building as the building is kept perfectly clean. I do consider the building somewhat dilapidated but it is certainly clean. The walls have been painted, beds painted and the floors are kept scrubbed. I consider it adequate for the present care, not only for the class of boys kept in the home, but for any boys.

Q. Mrs. Coleman, a statement is made that the Coleman Industrial Home suffers not so much from mismanagement as from a total lack of proper management. What have you to say regarding that?

A. That is the objection which I wish to explain.

Q. They claim you are totally inefficient. What have you to say to that charge?

A. It seems very strange that I should be inefficient. I was the first to start a Home for Colored Boys in the City of Pittsburgh. When I opened the home, the ladies from the Juvenile Court were very glad it had been established, so they would not have to send all the boys to Morganza.

Q. How many boys have you in the home to-day?

A. I think, 47 to-day.

Q. How many from the Juvenile Courts?

A. 23.

Q. Of various counties?

A. Yes sir; in all.

Q. How many from Allegheny County?

A. 14. Others are orphan boys.

Q. Sent in by whom?

A. Brought by mothers, others brought by fathers, when other parent has deserted them. Others brought in by police.

Q. You accepted any boy that came?

A. I had to. I opened the home for the Friendless colored boy.

Q. How many employes besides yourself and Mr. Coleman?

A. We have a laundress and we always have to keep a second woman to help with the sewing. We have a cook and also my daughter. She is not there just now, she is taking a rest.

Q. Then you have five employes?

A. Oh, no sir; we never had five hired employes. We have never had over three.

Q. Do you think you have sufficient help to care for the boys in a proper manner?

A. No, I do not, but I have all I can afford. I know we should have more help. We are getting old and can not do so much.

Q. How many deaths have you had in the home since it started?

A. Only four deaths.

Q. How many times were you quarantined for contagious disease?

A. Five times.

Witness dismissed.

First Allegheny Day Nursery, Margaret D. Anderson.

Before, me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared Margaret D. Anderson, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT W. G. THEURER, DEPUTIZED BY PRESIDENT F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your full name?

A. Margaret D. Anderson.

Q. In what capacity are you connected with the First Allegheny Day Nursery?

A. I am the President.

Q. You have read the "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, dated 1915," by one Abraham Osseroff?

A. I have.

Q. With reference to the conditions existing in your home?

A. I certainly have.

Q. The purpose of the home, as set forth in this report, is correct?

A. Yes sir. We care for children of parents who have to make the living, either fathers or mothers.

Q. What are the age limits?

A. Four to twelve. We have to make exceptions, of course. If they have no place else to go we have to keep them.

Q. What attempt do you make to find homes for your children?

A. We do not send them out unless we think they will better their condition. We have girls who are training to be nurses for babies. I have had two of the girls in my own home and have one still with me. In that way, we sort of keep track of our girls.

Q. You say you keep track of them?

A. Yes, as much as we can.

Q. But in what manner?

A. They visit the home, etc., and report.

Q. What investigation is made of a child before it is admitted into the home?

A. Our receiving committee consults with the party which they are referred to. They do their very best to verify or investigate the conditions reported. Suppose, for instance, a man is reported with two or three children and can not find someone to keep house for him; that is a case for us to care for.

Q. What examination do you make?

A. Do you mean a medical examination?

Q. No, I will reach the medical. Examination as to parents, etc.?

A. All we can do is to consult the references.

Q. What medical examination is made?

A. We have a very fine physician on our staff. Dr. Thomas Boyd is the physician.

Q. Do you have a detention quarter?

A. No sir. If Dr. Boyd gives them a certificate we think they should be admitted to the home.

Q. Now then, the statement is made here that the system of records is not adequate and that the books contain very little data of importance. Kindly explain that in a concise form.

A. The receiving committee has the books which he did not see. Our system of records, in that manner, are adequate and the gentleman who made the investigation only saw the matron's account and did not see the system of records which the receiving committee cares for. It is perfectly adequate.

Q. Then the statement made that there are only two small books, one of which contains payments made for care of children, is not correct?

A. It is certainly false.

Q. But a complete and carefully handled system of accounts is kept?

A. Yes sir; by our receiving committee.

Q. He states that the food served to the children is fair but that the dining room is neither large enough, nor is it adequately equipped. The same applies to the kitchen. Will you please tell us about that? Also about the baking facilities.

A. I do not understand his statement regarding the bakery. We think the bread is alright. It is mixed in the cellar and baked upstairs and I feel sure that the cellar, where it is mixed, is much cleaner than many kitchens I have been in. We have had a new range put in and everything is as nice as could be. We bake every day.

Q. Then part of that statement is not true?

A. No sir, it is not.

Q. Then as to the food served the children. Do you consider it well cooked, nourishing and of sufficient quantity?

A. I certainly do. We have a good cook and a matron that oversees that end if she is out. During the summer the children receive fine, fresh vegetables. The countryman, or huckster, stops every morning and they receive the best that can be had. I know that statement is false. We consider the food very good.

Q. The further statement is made that aboslute silence is requested at meal time from all the children in the home. Please state the fact?

A. Our matron is here and she can tell you better than I.

Q. Is that a rule of the Board?

A. No sir. We want our institution to be homelike.

Q. Do your children use the cellar for playing in, in bad weather?

A. I think they do, sometimes.

Q. Is it a proper place?

A. Yes sir. I would be willing to let my own children play down there and would find no fault with it.

Q. Is it dry, well lighted and ventilated?

A. Yes sir; just as good as could be.

Q. Another statement is made that the sleeping quarters are inadequate and that they sleep two in a bed. Will you tell us about that?

A. Our older boys do and some of our girls do but our babies do not. I consider that alright. I do not object to sleeping with anyone myself and I do not consider it bad.

Q. Now then, they state that the bathing and toilet facilities are inadequate. Kindly state how many bath tubs, toilets, etc., you have for the accommodation of the children?

A. We have one on the second floor. He says "In the basement there is a wash room equipped with three small wash basins and two toilets—one for boys and one for girls." That is false. We have two bowls, two toilets and a small bath tub in the cellar. Then on the second floor we have two toilets, instead of one. We have the wash room on the first floor, instead of in the basement.

Q. The following statement is made, "The heating of this house is not adequate. An old furnace in the cellar is supplemented by open gas stoves in most rooms, including some of the dormitories. The open stoves should be discarded and an efficient heating plant provided." How about this statement?

A. We have one of the best furnaces which could possibly be installed. This was put in just two years ago. In the play room we have a "Reznor" stove, placed back, with a wide guard in front. All of the stoves are properly guarded.

Q. Do you consider that the building is sufficient for the accommodation of the present number of children cared for?

A. I think so. They all seem very comfortable and the place seems plenty large enough.

Q. Mrs. Anderson, would you kindly tell us, in a general way, whether or not you consider your institution capable and efficient to care for all the children?

A. I think that we can care for all the children in the home very comfortably and I think that our home is just as well taken care of, or managed, as any home can be.

Witness dismissed.

First Allegheny Day Nursery, Mrs. Georgiana Clark.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared Mrs. Georgiana Clark, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT W. G. THEURER, DEPUTIZED BY PRESIDENT F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Please give the clerk your name.

A. Mrs. Georgiana Clark.

Q. What are your duties at the First Allegheny Day Nursery and Temporary Home for Children?

A. I am the matron.

Q. How long have you been there in that capacity?

A. Not quite three years.

Q. Previous to that time, what experience did you have in children's work?

A. I was matron at the Sheffield Street Home of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Q. Mrs. Clark, were you at home when Mr. Abraham Osseroff called to make an inspection of your home?

A. I was not.

Q. Where were you?

A. On my vacation.

Q. You have read the report of Mr. Osseroff, with reference to existing conditions at your home?

A. I have.

Q. What is the age limit at which you receive children?

A. Four to twelve.

Q. All classes and creeds received?

A. Yes, sir; it is non-sectarian.

Q. What system of records do you keep at the home?

A. I have a large book that I keep which contains their age, birth day, who admits them, and the residence of the parents, so that at any time, if anything should happen, I would know where to send them word. Also the date of dismissal and who they are taken out by. Then I have a small petty cash book in which I keep record of small expenditures. Then I have another book in which I keep a record of the charity cases, those who are paid for, and part pay. Then I keep a record of those taken to the hospital, when they are taken and brought home, name of hospital and what they were taken there for.

Q. Then the statement made in this report that there are only two small books containing the records of the home and the children kept there, is not true?

A. No, sir, it is not true. I keep three books and Miss Hazel kept the day book. That makes four.

Q. Then the other members of the Board have books?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Do you consider the records, as at present kept by the home, covering different classes of the work, adequate?

A. Well, I don't know about Mrs. Boyd, but I keep a very close record and I would consider them adequate.

Q. You have a complete record of the date of admission and date of discharge of each child?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And these records contain all the information which you can get?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Part of the children in your institution are sent by the Juvenile Courts, are they not?

A. Some of them.

Q. These children sent by the Juvenile Courts; you expect the Juvenile Court workers to furnish you with the history of the child and all the information that you can possibly get with reference to the case, or do you hunt your own information?

A. I get all I can and I suppose Mrs. Boyd does the same, gets all she can.

Q. Don't they furnish you with a record of why the child was sent, what has become of the parents, condition of the child, etc.?

A. Not to me. They may to Mrs. Boyd. We have our own medical examiner.

Q. Under what conditions do you accept children into the home?

A. Well, I do not accept them except when I receive them, a report of them, from Mrs. Boyd, that is, she sends me a card record of the case. She has them examined by the doctor and I do not take them until she sends me the card record. She is the receiving committee of the Board.

Q. The statement is made that the food is not of the best and that the dining room and kitchen is inadequate. Will you state a day's supply of food for each meal?

A. Well now, this summer we had four countrymen stop every week. We gave them all fresh vegetables.

Q. What do you mean by countrymen?

A. Hucksters.

Q. Well, give us, on the average, just what they received. Just a concise outline.

A. Well, in the morning, for breakfast, we have some cereal in a sufficient quantity, a boiled egg, bread and butter and milk and very often spread of some kind, that is preserves. Then at noon we have our dinner which is always a cooked meal. We often have meat and potatoes, often a stew of meat and potatoes and onions. Other days we have corn, tomatoes and onions. We never give them spread at dinner time. Then we give them a lighter supper; corn starch, tapioca, rice, fried potatoes and other stuff to the smaller ones. They always have something light, baked potatoes often. The children are given all they can eat.

Q. At all times plenty of bread and butter?

A. Plenty, yes, sir.

Q. No, as to the dining room and kitchen being adequate. What have you to say?

A. I can not see anything inadequate in our kitchen. We have a large sink for washing dishes, we have a new range for baking bread, with eight holes in the stove. They have a large kitchen table and their equipment is very nice.

Q. The dining room?

A. Well, our dining room, it might be a little larger but we do not have the money with which to enlarge it. We can seat all the children at one time, however. It has two back windows and we have plenty of light.

Q. How many children are in the institution at the present time?

A. Forty-eight (48).

Q. All of them seated comfortably at the present time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The ventilation and light is sufficient?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The statement is made that the bread is made ready in a dark cellar and that after baked the bread is laid out in the cellar to cool. Is there any reason why these conditions should not exist?

A. I can not see any reason.

Q. Is it true that it is prepared in a dark portion of the cellar?

A. No, sir. We do not prepare it until evening and we would have to have a light any place, and the light is the same in all parts, so we would not therefore hunt a dark corner.

Q. Was this gentleman there in the evening?

A. He was not.

Q. Now then, the statement is made that absolute silence is requested at all meals. Is that a fact?

A. It is not.

Q. The children can converse at meal time?

A. Yes, sir, they can and do.

Q. As long as they confine themselves to the rules?

A. Yes, sir, as long as they do not get too boisterous.

Q. Now then, they state that a portion of the cellar is used for a play room during bad weather. Is there any reason why you should not?

A. I can not see any reason. They are all cement floor and very dry. I can not see why they should not use it for a play room. The ventilation is good and the light is good. All vegetables and flour is kept in the cellar and it would rot if the floor was damp.

Q. It is stated here that the sleeping quarters consist of two rooms for girls, two for younger children and one room for older boys in the attic. How about this?

A. We have three rooms for girls, one room on the second floor for our baby boys, then the dormitories on the third floor. The baby boys have their single beds and the dormitories have double beds, two in a bed. We have the front room on the second floor for the baby girls and they have single beds.

Q. You consider your sleeping quarters sufficient for present needs?

A. I certainly do. I consider them exceptionally good. Our rooms are well ventilated, being on the hill, they always get good air.

Q. The further statement is made that the bath and toilet facilities are inadequate. Do you consider them so?

A. I do not think they are.

Q. Please state how many bath tubs, etc., you have for the care of your forty-eight children,

A. We have the wash room on the first floor instead of in the basement.

Q. There are no wash rooms in the basement?

A. No, sir. We have three bowls in the wash room, a small bath tub and two toilets, one for girls and one for boys. Then we have one toilet in the laundry. On the second floor we have a bowl in the bath room where any child can go. Then we have a bowl, tub and toilet in the bath room. In the front there is a bath room containing a bowl and tub. There is no bathing facilities on the third floor.

Q. Then you do not consider them inadequate?

A. I do not.

Q. How many employes do you have at the home in addition to yourself?

A. Five.

Q. It is stated here that an old furnace in the cellar forms the larger part of your heating system. How about this?

A. That is untrue, this furnace being newly installed about two years ago.

Q. In addition to the furnace, what other forms of heating do you have?

A. A "Reznor" stove in the play room, properly guarded. The furnaces furnish enough heat for the bed rooms.

Q. Do you consider the buildings, as they are at present, sufficient to house and accommodate the present number of children which you have in the home?

A. I do.

Witness dismissed.

First Allegheny Day Nursery, Miss Hazel Fuller.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared Miss Hazel Fuller, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY ASSISTANT GENERAL AGENT W. G. THEURER, DEPUTIZED BY PRESIDENT F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. You may give your full name to the clerk, please.

A. Hazel Fuller.

Q. What are your duties?

A. Nurse. Caring for the children.

Q. Graduate?

A. No; practical.

Q. What experience did you have previously?

A. Was at the Home for the Friendless. I started in there very young. I was then the assistant. I could not stand confinement. I took the place at the Allegheny Day Nursery and I have been there for six years.

Q. Were you at the home when Mr. Abraham Osseroff came to make the inspection?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did he say to you?

A. When he first came in he gave me his card and told me he wished to get some information. He called up first. When he came over he wanted to go through from the attic to the cellar.

Q. Did he give you any reason why he wanted the information?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he give any authority?

A. Yes, sir; he said he was from the Board of Charities.

Q. How long was he in going through the house?

A. About one hour in going through the house. He came at three o'clock and left at seven o'clock.

Q. He evidently took into consideration the evening meal, which was your light meal?

A. Yes, sir. He said, though, that he would enjoy the supper himself.

Q. Did he state, at any time, his purpose in coming to the home or why he wished to investigate your home?

A. No, sir, he did not.

Q. After going through the home, did he say to you, or did he give you to understand that the home was well conducted?

A. Yes. He said everything was very nice.

Q. What did he say with regard to the supper furnished that evening?

A. He said he thought he could enjoy it himself. The Board ladies asked him to come out and see our supper. They had fresh apple sauce and these ordinary loaf cakes. I had individual saucers with these cakes on, with apple sauce over them. He then remarked that he thought he could enjoy it himself. Then we had hash in addition to that. I can remember that well.

Q. You were under the impression that Mr. Osseroff was a representative of the Board of Public Charities and had a right to go through?

A. Oh yes, I thought I must show him everything.

Q. After he went through did he ask about your system of records?

A. Yes. He wanted certain reports and we gave them to him. He asked regarding the rules and I told him we did not go entirely by those rules and did not want that systematic institutional way.

Q. Now then, did he say that your system of records was inadequate?

A. No, he did not even ask for the books. He just asked how many charity cases we had. If he had asked for the books we would have showed them to him. I just took Mrs. Clark's books and showed them to him.

Q. With your knowledge of the First Allegheny Day Nursery, would you consider everything adequate, to compare with the present number of children in the home?

A. Indeed I would.

Q. Do you consider the food served good?

A. I certainly do.

Q. What do you know about the statement that absolute silence is requested in the dining room?

A. That is certainly untrue. If anyone knows about that, I do because I am in there. You must maintain a certain amount of discipline. We have quite a lively time at the table but you must enforce a certain amount of manners.

Q. Is there anything else you wish to state?

A. I think our children are just like a large family and I would not leave the place for anything. I think Mrs. Anderson would have to discharge me to get rid of me. Sometimes I think I am a little too lenient with the children but you can hardly be too lenient with a child.

Witness dismissed.

Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Sister Anthony.

March 2nd, 1915.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. Will you please give your full name to the clerk?

A. Sister Anthony.

Q. What position do you hold at the House of the Good Shepherd?

A. Assistant Superior and Secretary.

Q. You are from the house on Lincoln Avenue?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have seen a pamphlet entitled "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, dated 1915." Page No. 69 records a report of an alleged visit by a person delegated as an agent for the Association in question. Do you recall the visit?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was he ever there?

A. No, sir.

Q. Does your institution care for any denomination or is it exclusively Catholic?

A. We have had all denominations; Catholics, Protestants and Jews, and make no distinction whatever.

Q. How can you account for the fact that this man makes a report on your institution and you, the secretary and assistant superior, not know of it?

A. It could not be possible.

Q. In case of your absence might the home be visited and you not know about it?

A. I am away occasionally. The Mother Superior never leaves.

Q. Did you inquire of her as to whether this man was there?

A. I did not inquire but Mother told me that he was not there. I called her attention to the alleged interview and she replied that none had been there.

Q. In case Mother Vincent and yourself were not there, who would likely be in charge?

A. Sister Immaculate.

Q. Is she present here today?

A. She is, yes, sir.

Q. What are the ages of the children in your institution, to the best of your knowledge?

A. Two and one-half to twenty-one years of age.

Q. What is the general character of the girls? What class?

A. They are juveniles, waifs, defectives and all classes.

Q. How many juveniles?

A. About eighteen.

Q. What is the population today?

A. One hundred and twenty-two.

Q. What was it in about July of last year, 1914?

A. I would have to find out.

Q. Does it vary much?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How do you dismiss them?

A. When we place them we look after them but when they are removed on an order of Court our responsibility ceases. In case we hear of any trouble concerning the girls after they leave, we notify the Juvenile Court officials.

Q. What methods of punishment do you resort to, in case the children break the rules or are otherwise refractory?

A. We isolate them from the others.

Q. Do you whip them or use any corporal punishment?

A. We have to do that. We whip them but not severely. Another form of punishment used is to make the girls write their names a number of times.

Witness dismissed.

Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Sister Immaculate.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared Sister Immaculate, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your name, please?

A. Sister Immaculate.

Q. You have heard the testimony of Sister Anthony, who is the secretary and assistant superior of your order at the Lincoln Avenue institution?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know her to be the assistant superior and secretary?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the absence of the superior or assistant superior have you ever had charge of the home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know of any time that the home has ever been in charge of anyone other than the three of you, within the last year?

A. No, sir; not in more than a year.

Q. Do you recall the visit which is recorded on page No. 69 of the "Report of the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, Pamphlet Number One, dated 1915"?

A. No, sir.

Q. You are positive of that, sister?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There is no possibility of a visit that you or the Mother Superior or the assistant superior would not know of?

A. No, sir.

Q. How long have you been in the order here?

A. Six years.

Q. Only six years?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What methods of punishment do you resort to, in case the children break the rules or are otherwise refractory?

A. We isolate them from the others, take them away from the other children.

Q. Do you whip them or use any corporal punishment?

A. Sometimes it is necessary but it is never severe. We sometimes make the girls write their names a number of times.

Witness dismissed.

Boys' Industrial Home, J. W. Cleland.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared J. W. Cleland, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your name, please?

A. J. W. Cleland.

Q. What is your title?

A. I am general superintendent of the Boys' Industrial Home at Oakdale, Pa.

Q. How are children admitted to the home?

A. Do you mean the different methods?

Q. Yes.

A. We get them through the Juvenile Courts of fourteen counties of the State. Also from all these different organizations such as the Improvement of the Poor, Children's Aid Society, etc.

Q. In addition to the children admitted through the Juvenile Courts, how are the others admitted? Do you keep a record of admissions?

A. Oh yes. We have a blank list of questions.

Q. Is there a committee on admission?

A. No, sir; the Board delegates the superintendent, that is, myself.

Q. Have you ever heard any criticism about the plan you have in force for the admission of children? Do you know of any way it could be improved?

A. I have not heard any in particular. We try to eliminate as much red tape as possible. We could hardly find a better way without some trouble.

Q. Do you require silence in the dining room during meal hours?

A. In one dining room we have 85 boys. We do not enforce absolute silence; only in the interest of order.

Q. Are the toilet and bathing facilities as ample as necessary in the institution?

A. Our main building has been enlarged considerably since this investigation. We have plenty of water now while we did not have then. Both of these facilities are ample. The new water supply was under course of construction at the time of the visit of the representative of the Public Charities Association. The water supply was completed in the Fall of 1914. We now have a fine arrangement of such facilities. There was a deficiency of that kind and I remember Mr. Theurer's' having called my attention to it on one of his visits.

Q. How about the charges regarding the privy?

A. That is the best that can be had, under the circumstances.

Q. Regarding the overcrowding, what have you to say?

A. Give us the money to build more cottages.

Q. How about the sewage sinking into an abandoned mine shaft, where the sewage is disposed of?

A. The question of sedimentation has several times been passed upon by the State Board of Health.

Q. What would it cost to put this institution in the ideal shape which is mentioned in the last paragraph of this article?

A. Not less than seventy-five thousand ($75,000.00) dollars. We have had plans drawn up and that is the estimated cost. We would be glad to do this if we had the money.

Q. Is there anything more you wish to state?

A. No, we have covered this pretty well.

Witness dismissed.

Miss Elizabeth Torrens.

Saturday, March 6th, 1915.

Before me, Francis J. Torrance, Commissioner of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, personally appeared Miss Elizabeth Torrens, who being duly sworn, as provided by law, deposeth and states as follows:

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY COMMISSIONER F. J. TORRANCE.

Q. What is your full name?

A. Miss Elizabeth Torrens.

Q. What is your position with the State?

A. State Factory Inspector.

Q. What district.

A. Special for the County of Allegheny.

Q. As such, you inspect such buildings as come within the pervue of the Department of Labor and Industry?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever visited the Davis Temporary Home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What date?

A. February 15th, 1915.

Q. Ever there before?

A. No, sir.

Q. Why did this work not come within the pervue of your Department previously?

A. The Woman's Labor Law, which passed recently, required a visit to all institutions to see whether or not women employes were complying with the provisions of the law. Until recently these institutions did not come within the pervue of our department, officially. Prior to that time there had been a great deal of discussion as to whether or not this law affected charitable institutions. The Attorney General, however, stated that it affected these institutions as well as factories, etc., any place where women were employed.

Q. When was this decision given by the Attorney General?

A. I think it was in July. I visited all the hospitals first and am just now getting to the homes.

Q. What was the condition of the Davis Temporary Home?

A. I considered it very good.

Q. What class of people are cared for?

A. Colored boys and girls.

Q. Did you have occasion to look at the bedding?

A. I looked at the mattresses, sheets and covers. They all seemed to be in very good condition and very clean.

Q. Did you happen to be there at meal time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you through the building?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would you consider it on a par with the private homes of the class of people cared for?

A. I consider it a very good home for colored people.

Q. Where is it located?

A. No. 6716 Simonton street, back of the Pt. Breeze church. It fronts on the railroad.

Q. You consider the home, in general, fairly good regarding sanitary conditions?

A. Very good.

Q. Did you examine the bathing and toilet facilities?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the condition?

A. The bath rooms are very good. The tub was washed out very clean; I noticed that particularly.

Q. What would you consider the management, from your visit? Was it good?

A. I just saw one woman. She seemed to understand her business.

Q. Did the children look well fed and well cared for?

A. Yes, sir. I only saw about six children and they looked fine. The others were at school.

Q. Those of school age were at school?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do they go to the public school?

A. Yes. sir; the Lincoln Avenue School.

Q. Did you ever visit the Coleman Industrial Home for Boys?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where is it located?

A. No. 1721 Bedford Avenue, I think. I do not exactly remember the number.

Q. About how many children were in the home at the time of your visit?

A. I have that in my report. I can not tell you off hand. I saw possibly fifteen boys the day I was there. I think the population was about 48. The boys I saw were practicing for the junior band.

Q. What is the general condition?

A. I thought it was very good. I did not see the sleeping rooms. Mr. Coleman had just finished white-washing that day. The place looked very good.

Q. Is that the first visit you paid to that institution?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the date?

A. February 17th, 1915.

Q. That was in response to a call from the Department?

A. Yes, sir; to instruct them regarding the operation of the Woman's Labor Law. I was not making inspections, I was visiting.

Q. Then you did not go through the house?

A. No, sir; just the first floor.

Q. You thought the place was generally well conducted?

A. Yes, I thought the place was all right. The boys looked healthy. I would consider it very good for the care of colored boys.

Q. Would you consider it as good or not as good as the homes they came from?

A. Much better.

Q. Did you talk with the management?

A. Yes. With Mr. and Mrs. Coleman.

Q. Were the children well fed, apparently?

A. Yes, they looked very clean, healthy and well fed.

Q. Have you visited the Home for the Friendless?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When were you there?

A. January 26th, 1915.

Q. Did you visit it in connection with the Department?

A. Yes, sir, regarding the Woman's Labor Law.

Q. What was the condition there?

A. I considered the condition very good. They have a much better building than those colored homes. I saw a number of the children and older girls who cared for them. I saw their dining rooms, dormitories and beds, also the bath rooms, toilets, etc., and considered the place very well kept.

Q. Would you consider the general condition and the purpose for which the home is maintained, as good as is necessary?

A. Why yes; I would consider it very good.

Q. Would you consider the toilet facilities there, housing the number of people they do, would be on a par with the provisions made for the same number of people employed or housed elsewhere?

A. Yes, I think they have ample toilet facilities. Their toilets are not put in the way most toilets are put in now, that is, they are not closed at the top. I do not consider this the best plumbing arrangement but the buildings have been built for some time and we could not expect them to tear them out.

Q. With the exception that their toilets may not be up-to-date, would you consider them sanitary?

A. Yes, they are very clean. The entire place is clean.

Q. Had you ever visited there before?

A. No, sir; it was not covered by our laws until recently.

Q. Have you visited the Home for Colored Children, on Termon Avenue?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?

A. February 15th, 1915.

Q. What was the general condition?

A. I considered it one of the best homes for white or black children. They have the advantage of good buildings and location. They are well located, on high ground.

Q. Did you go through the building?

A. No, sir; not on the second floor. One of the Board members took me through the kitchens and dining rooms. They were eating and I saw what they had. I did notice that they had meat.

Q. Was the whole satisfactory to you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how many children were there?

A. I can not tell you without consulting my report. The food certainly seemed to be ample and the children had as much as they wanted. It was their ordinary meal, as they had no time to prepare for my visit, not knowing that I was coming.

Q. Did you ever visit the Sunshine Children's Home on California Avenue?

A. Yes, sir; on February 4th, 1915.

Q. What is the condition there?

A. I thought the condition was pretty fair, that is, it was clean. They could use more space. It was not what you would call over-crowded but they should have a little more room in the dormitories.

Q. Are the toilet and bathing facilities sufficient?

A. I thought so. Their bath room was very nice and clean. The dormitories seemed crowded because the beds were larger than needed for the child occupying it.

Q. How about the bathing facilities? Are they sufficient?

A. I only saw two bath rooms. I think that would be enough. They may have more.

Q. Do you recall how many were there?

A. I think the children were at school and I only saw three of them.

Q. They go to the 11th Ward School?

A. Yes, sir. It is directly back of the home. The building stands nicely. They have good light and ventilation all around it.

Q. Were you in the dormitories?

A. Yes, all through the building.

Q. On the occasion of this specific visit, did you go through the whole house?

A. Yes, sir, I went through with Mrs. Newingham. She particularly showed me the beds and bedding, let me see the mattresses, etc. This was just a few days before their donation day.

Q. You would say it was clean?

A. Yes, sir, a child would be perfectly safe there. It seemed to be well managed and clean.

Q. Have you visited the First Allegheny Day Nursery?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is your opinion about that?

A. There were two ladies of the Board there. I just saw the first floor of that. It looked very nice. It does not have the institutional aspect which prevails in some other homes.

Q. You were there when?

A. February 4th, 1915, according to my records.

Q. Were you in the bakery?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you visited the Curtis Home, on Breckenridge Avenue?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the general condition?

A. I thought it was pretty good. I saw a number of the children and they impressed me as being nicely taken care of. The afternoon I was there many of them had their friends calling on them.

Q. Did you see the food served?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you see the clothing?

A. They all had nice clean and warm clothes. They wore little blue aprons, trimmed with white.

Q. What is the physical condition of the Curtis Home, regarding the property, etc.?

A. It is an old building kept in a very good state of repair. The home has quite a little ground around it and it is a nice place for children, in fact, a very good place.

Q. Did you see the beds or bedding?

A. No, sir, I did not see that at all.

Q. Were you in the dining rooms or kitchen?

A. No, sir.

Q. What date did you make this visit?

A. February 10th, 1915.

Q. Have you visited the Roselia Foundling Asylum and Maternity Hospital?

A. Several times.

Q. What was the date of your last visit?

A. July 30th, 1914, in accordance with the Woman's law. I have been there previously but do not recall the dates.

Q. Were you ever through the institution?

A. Yes, sir.

each and every institution.

Q. What is the condition of it?

A. I always considered it very good, very clean and nicely kept.

Q. Have you been in the dining room?

A. Yes, sir, at one time.

Q. Was it furnished essentially for such an institution?

A. Yes, sir, just like any ordinary dining room when I saw it. I will say now, there is not a squalid room in that institution and everything is scrupulously clean.

Q. Have you visited the Bethesda Home, on Locust Street?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When were you there?

A. February 18, 1915. I was just on the first floor, not upstairs. Was only in the reception room, or parlor. I saw some of the inmates of the home working in the kitchen.

Witness dismissed.

APPENDIX "C."

Report of William C. Theurer, Assistant General Agent of the Board of Public Charities of Pennsylvania, on existing conditions in various charitable institutions in Allegheny county, being the result of a special investigation of

The following children's institutions were visited and a complete report is attached hereto.

March 12th, 1915.

Hon. Bromley Wharton, Secretary,
Board of Public Charities,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Sir:—In accordance with the suggestions of President Torrance and Commissioner Gill, on the morning of March 8th, 1915, I started to inspect the children's homes against which certain charges are made by the Allegheny County Committee of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania.

These charges were the result of an investigation by one Abraham Osseroff, Executive Secretary of the Allegheny County Committee, and were contained in a printed report, designated as Pamphlet Number One. I took this report along with me and my inspections were confined wholly to the statements contained therein.

The first institution visited was the Pittsburgh Sunshine Children's Home. This home is located at No. 3532 California Avenue. It is a three story brick building, formerly used as a private residence, contains fifteen rooms and is surrounded by a very nice plot of ground, which is used by the children as a play ground. In addition to this play ground the older boys and girls have the use of the school play grounds, about two blocks away from the home.

There were 43 children in the home, 21 girls and 22 boys, four of whom were under school age but they attended kindergarten at the public schools in the morning.

It is not true that little investigation is made before the admission of a child to this home. The very purpose of the home, caring for children of working mothers, or those of such parents as can not properly care for them in their own home because of unfortunate circumstances, necessitates a proper investigation before the child can be admitted. These records should not become public property, and in this instance the investigator for the Public Charities Association did not get to see them. I most emphatically state that the records are sufficient for a home of this size and kind.

The statement made that the matron does not live in the home is not true. At the time the investigator visited this home Mrs. Mary White was the matron and she has been living in the home for two years past. There are four employes at the home to look after the care of 43 children and I deem that sufficient, in view of the fact that no laundry work is done at the home and that these four employes are required to care for the children.

With reference to the statement made "with the absence of sufficient and competent supervision the close association of boys and girls of from 12 to 14 years of age, of whom there are a number in this institution, becomes a matter of considerable concern," I found three girls in the institution to be 13 years or over, one of whom was past fourteen; four boys 11 years of age or over, one of whom was past thirteen. The arrangement of the sleeping rooms preclude any possibility of anything immoral taking place between the boys and girls.

Regarding punishments, I have never found anything out of the way in all my visits to this home and I do not believe there is any punishment, to speak of, other than a little spanking of the children at times, which is most necessary even in the best regulated homes.

I found the food served the children to be of a very good quality, well cooked and sufficient, even though there was not much variety for each meal. For lunch I found the children eating vegetable soup, bread and butter, graham wafers and water to drink. In this vegetable soup were small pieces of lamb meat and it was more on the order of a lamb stew. For breakfast that morning, the children had cream of wheat, bread, butter and molasses, with milk to drink. For dinner in the evening they had buttered toast, lima beans, stewed prunes, milk, bread, butter and soda crackers.

In the dining room I found four solid oak tables and it is true that table covers are not used. It is not true, however, that the children have no other dishes except granite drinking cups. I found plates, saucers, knives and forks, and plenty of other dishes. The dining room, while a little crowded, serves the purpose very well and is not fitted up in a "squalid" fashion.

I found the kitchen to be of sufficient size, cleanly and well adapted for the work; containing two wash sinks, a large range, two serving tables and other conveniences. The store room is of sufficient size and contains a sufficient quautity of food stuffs to provide rations for a two weeks period.

The statement made that the only ice chest is in the cellar is untrue. In the pantry, adjoining the kitchen, is a very nice ice chest which has been in use by the institution for several years. In addition to this there is another ice chest in the cellar in which an extra supply of ice is kept during the summer months.

This home has two nice play rooms and they are well adapted for the children's recreation. I found the sleeping quarters for the children well provided for, beds good, bed clothing very good and cleanly. The hospital room is well adapted for that purpose and at the time of my visit one of the boys of the home was occupying it.

The toilet and bathing facilities are sufficient. In the basement there is a toilet and on the first floor there is a nice large wash bowl; second floor a bath tub, two toilets, two wash bowls, one for girls and one for boys. On the third floor there is a bath tub, toilet and wash bowl.

I found the children's clothing, while not the best that could be bought, very good and of sufficient warmth, so that when you would meet the children on the street you could not distinguish them from the children of the average working man.

I found this home to be in very good condition, children well cared for and I have no hesitancy in saying that when homes are provided for them elsewhere they will measure up, in standards, to the children of some of our best families. The home was heated by gas stoves and each stove is protected with fenders.

In conclusion, I wish to state that this home is doing a most excellent work for the amount of money expended.

HOME FOR COLORED CHILDREN.

This home is situated on Termon Avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh, on a high piece of ground overlooking the Ohio River in both directions. It is a most magnificent spot and well adapted for the work. This is one of our best institutions and the work being done in the care of colored children is exceptionally good.

This is the institution of which four photographs are reproduced in the report of the Public Charities Association, one of the home building, one of the children, taken on the rear porch, one showing the basement play room, now a gymnasium, and one showing the so-called dungeon, used for punishment of little children. This so-called dungeon, has not been used for this purpose for several years. This institution is also the place where the children were said to have been fastened to the bannisters. The investigator received his information, regarding the bannister and dungeon punishment, from the new superintendent, who, however, had no personal knowledge of the facts. It was at my suggestion that a new matron was selected for the home and that improper forms of punishment even though not cruel, were abolished. She takes exception to the statements printed and says that she was wrongly quoted and the report, as printed, is misleading and untrue.

There were sixty-seven (67) children in the home on the day of my visit and of this number 45 were entirely charity, not one cent being received for them. Five (5) of these children came through the Associated Charities, for which pay was promised but never received.

I found so many of the statements made in the report of the Public Charities Association, regarding this home, to be untrue, that I will not take time to answer them individually but as a whole will state that the institution is doing a very good work, and they have exceptional facilities for so doing.

The older children now go out to public school. The system of records kept by the matron, school teacher and secretary of the organization, are sufficient to give all the data needed with reference to all the children. The play rooms and play grounds afford every facility for the recreation of the boys and girls.

P. AND A. HOME FOR THE FRIENDLESS, No. 423 PARK WAY, PITTSBURGH, PA.

This is one of the oldest institutions for children in Allegheny county, being established in 1861 and incorporated in 1862. While the institution is under Protestant control, all kinds of children are accepted.

There were 166 children in the institution on the day of my visit, 30 of whom were under school age. Sixteen of these attended kindergarten at the public schools in the morning. I found the personal relationship between the management and the children, existing in this home, to be very good, considering the class of building and the fact that the children were housed under one roof.

The food provided is very good, well cooked and varies to a great extent. It is served in a very large dining room, light and airy, children being seated at long tables, using stools to sit upon. There is nothing to complain of on this account, although the management would like to provide better facilities for their children had they funds to do so.

Regarding the statement that the educational facilities, as now provided in this institution, are inadequate, I wish to state that the children of school age go to the public schools and those of kindergarten age go to the kindergarten school provided under the public school system.

It is true that this institution has suffered somewhat, in the last two years, from contagious and infectious diseases, but this misfortune was not due to lack of management nor lack of medical supervision. Every precaution was taken and when the home was under quarantine the management was forced to do the next best thing, teach the children in the home. It would be absurd to think of providing facilities for their proper education in the home, because the institution might go for years before being placed under quarantine again. In this case, if proper facilities were provided for the instruction of the children in the home, they would be more than useless during this period.

Regarding industrial training, the great majority of the children in this institution are not yet ready for that. There is quite a difference of opinion regarding the age at which children should take up industrial training but the manual and educational training should prevail until they are at least fifteen years of age.

The recreation facilities provided by this institution are most excellent considering the location of the home. The boys' play room is 30 feet by 27 feet in size, light and airy with individual lockers for each boy. The girls' play room is 40 feet by 28 feet in size, light and airy with individual lockers the same as the boys. The kindergarten children have a separate play room, as well as one provided for the infants.

Regarding the bathing and toilet facilities, there are provided for the boys 16 wash basins, 4 bath tubs and 6 toilets. Each boy has his own individual towel, wash rag, comb, hair brush and tooth brush. The 30 children in the kindergarten department have their own toilet and bathing department, 2 bath tubs, 2 wash bowls, 2 toilets, and individual towels, wash rags, etc. The girls have 3 bath tubs, 12 wash bowls, 3 toilets, as well as the additional toilets adjacent to their dormitories. In addition, the boys have three outside toilets in one corner of their play ground. In the whole institution there are 18 toilets, or one for every nine children now in the home.

The outside recreation facilities consist of a play ground each for the boys and the girls, entirely separate, and to the rear of these play grounds is a large open space owned by the institution and used by the boys in the summer as a ball ground.

The medical supervision of the children is very good and no blame can be attached to the management as all the usual precautions against contagious diseases had been taken by the medical staff to prevent the epidemics referred to in the report.

The main building is a large four story brick and stone building with basement. While the toilets in the basement and outside are of the old type, those on the second, third and fourth floors are of the latest type and all are in excellent condition.

The equipment of the building, as a whole, is very good and the supervision by the management is excellent. I consider this home one of the best in the State. Two summer homes are maintained by this institution, one for the boys and one for the girls. At each of these institutions sufficient fruit and vegetables are raised to not only maintain them during the summer months but to help in the maintenance at the city home during the fall and winter.

FIRST ALLEGHENY DAY NURSERY AND TEMPORARY HOME, NO. 3025 PERRYSVILLE AVE., N. S., PITTSBURGH, PA.

March 9th, 1915.

This institution is located in the old Thomas Marshall homestead, a 2½ story frame residence with finished basement and attic. The home is high and dry and is surrounded by about three acres of ground on which the children play and romp and have a good time in general.

There were 47 children in the home, the day of my visit, 25 boys and 22 girls. The age limit is 4 to 12 for girls and 4 to 10 for boys. Regarding the charge that no systematic records are kept, I found the matron to have a record of the name, age, nativity, parents' names, where the child came from, when it was taken into the home, and for what reason it was taken in. The nurse, also, has a daily record of each and every child, the name, when the child came into the home, when it was taken out from time to time by the parents or friends, how long it was away from the home and when it was returned. The matron also keeps a financial record of payments made to the home and when she turns this money over to the treasurer, secures a receipt for same. The secretary and treasurer also have a record of each and every child. The chairman of the admission committee also keeps a record of each child, the visits to the home by members of the committee, the references, etc. I consider the records sufficient and complete.

I found the kitchen and dining room quite large enough and well equipped. The food furnished is good and of the best quality. Meat is given the children three times a week and eggs three times a week, bread and butter each meal, milk to drink at breakfast and supper, water at dinner time, cereals at different times and plenty of fruit at each breakfast. The institution has two large refrigerators, in which supplies are kept for daily use, also a large stock room with at least two weeks' supply of food on hand. There is also a room in the cellar in which canned fruit, put up in the summer time, is kept. This institution bakes its own bread and the statement regarding the baking and the preparation of the bread in the cellar is not true. This is a finished basement with plenty of light, not the least bit damp and, for cleanliness, the equal of most bakeries. I regard the facilities for baking as being sufficient in every detail.

The statement made that after school hours the older children are kept busy at house-work is not true. They have plenty of time for recreation and enjoy it to the fullest extent. The recreation facilities are exceptionally good.

The sleeping quarters are very good and on the third floor the room containing nine beds, intended for 18 boys, complained of, is, I consider, the best room in the house. The statement made, an old furnace in the cellar is supplanted by old gas stoves in most of the rooms, including some of the dormitories, is not true. Furnace heat is used for the first and second floors but does not reach the third floor. Gas stoves are used in the play room and in the help's quarters and where the children come in contact with the stoves, they are properly guarded.

ST. JOSEPH'S PROTECTORY FOR HOMELESS BOYS, PITTSBURGH, PA.

This institution is located at No. 552 Vallejo Street, Pittsburgh, in the building formerly occupied by the St. Paul's Orphan Asylum. The main building is a large four story brick building and at the rear is a three story brick industrial building, used as a printing shop.

At one end of the building is a large play ground of sufficient size for baseball or football purposes. The main building is heated by a hot water system and the old gas lights are now supplanted by a complete electric lighting system. About a year ago, or possibly eighteen months ago, I made several complaints to the management regarding the equipment of this institution and today it has undergone extensive repairs, which are almost completed. The main building has been repainted and refinished throughout, from the top floor to the basement, including the dining room, kitchen, school room, dormitories and private rooms for the help.

New toilets and bathing facilities have been supplied throughout the building. Regarding the educational work, this is carried on within the building, with the exception of several boys who attend High School outside. The course within the building compares, and is equal to the ordinary course taught in the parochial school system and is under their charge.

When completed, this institution will have a fine gymnasium for the boys and the recreation facilities will be most excellent.

COLEMAN INDUSTRIAL HOME FOR COLORED BOYS, PITTSBURGH, PA.

March 9th, 1915.

This institution is located at No. 1721 Bedford Avenue. The present home is owned by the organization and was formerly used as a double residence. It is an old brick building, needing may repairs but in the last year the home has undergone quite extensive repairs, made wholly by the superintendent with the aid of the boys. The boys have even erected and finished a brick building, to the rear of the kitchen, one-half of this building being used for the storage of coal and the other half being used for the storage of other supplies.

It is not true that this building is vermin-ridden, and in many places dilapidated and filthy. I have been in this institution three times, within the last year, and on each occasion have found it very cleanly and at no time have I found any vermin.

The age limit of this home is 6 to 14, and at the time of my visit they had 47 boys, 22 of whom were placed there by the Juvenile Court. The Juvenile Court officers visit the home regularly.

The food served is fairly good and well cooked. The dining room is large enough, although the equipment could be better, and possibly would be better if the institution had more funds. The kitchen is well equipped and a model of cleanliness. The sleeping quarters, while in some places needing repairs, are nevertheless clean, the beds very good and substantial, each bed having a mattress, bed sheet, two double blankets and a bed spread, as well as a pillow.

The toilet facilities are ample for the work and it is not true that the bath tubs and toilets are located in a dark, remote part of the cellar. The cellar is a finished basement, plenty of light and good ventilation. There are two bath tubs and toilets located here. On the first floor is a toilet, on the second floor a bath tub and toilet. Each of these are accessible to the children and are kept in good condition.

The clothing worn by the boys is fairly good and they have plenty of it. While, of course, their outer garments are patched, in some cases, still I do not consider this detrimental to the institution or the boys in any way.

The records kept by this institution, while not of the best, are, I consider, sufficient for their needs. As a general rule, about half of the boys are Juvenile Court boys and the institution depends entirely upon the record of the Juvenile Courts.

It is not true that this institution suffers from an almost total lack of proper management. I consider Mr. and Mrs. Coleman in a class by themselves in the handling of colored children and the results shown by them, in their seven years work in Pittsburgh, justifies the statement that they are efficient.

PITTSBURGH NEWSBOYS' HOME, LOCUST AND STEVENSON STS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

March 10th, 1915.

The Newsboys' Home is a large, brick and stone, five story building, fire-proof throughout, adjoining which is the laundry and power plant, one story in height and constructed in a similar way.

On the day of my visit there were 98 boys in the home, ranging from 11 years of age, the youngest boy, up to 19 years of age. This institution is, in fact, a home for working boys and any boy out of work can go there and stay until he can secure a position, when he is expected to pay a certain amount each week, according to his earning capacity for board and room. It is not true that the youngest boy at the home was 6 years of age. The youngest boy I found to be 11 years of age. It is not true that the per capita cost per week is $7.00. If the mortgage debt, for which interest is charged in the maintenance accounts, were deducted the per weekly cost would be $4.56 for each boy.

There are 25 boys in the home, at the present time, out of work. This institution receives some boys from the Juvenile Court and the results of the work along this line is exceptionally good.

The statement made that "the decidedly institutional aspect of the work done by this home does not allow sufficient approximation to real home life to satisfy the needs of any child or to supply the boy's natural craving for home environment," is not true. Any institution is necessarily open to this criticism but in the case of this home, it is reduced to the minimum. If the boys did not spend their evenings there, either in the gymnasium, the library or some other department, they would be loafing around the pool rooms, possibly the saloons or some other place equally degrading, which would naturally lead the boy astray.

The dormitories I found to be in first class shape. The two large rooms divided off into compartments, to give each boy a private room, I found also to be in very good order. The beds and bed clothing were cleanly and of sufficient quantity to keep the boys good and warm. In most of these compartments, together with the bed, I found a chair and small dresser.

The superintendent of this home, Mr. Briggs, and his wife, who is the matron or house mother, are very efficient and have had experience in similar work in the State of Massachusetts, before coming to Pittsburgh.

The main industry in this home is the Printing Department. In this department, presided over by a foreman, there was a lady employe and seven boys, who were learning the printing trade, all residents of the home. The financial records of the home are in good shape and sufficient for every purpose. The charge made that the home conducts no investigation before the admission of a child is true, other than to determine whether or not the boy is homeless. Any homeless boy is welcome in the institution.

The bathing and toilet facilities are most advantageously located and entirely adequate. Taken as a whole, the institution is doing a very good work and both Superintendent Briggs and his wife are to be commended for the able manner in which they conduct the institution.

CURTIS HOME FOR DESTITUTE CHILDREN, NO. 2541 BRECKENRIDGE AVENUE, PITTSBURGH, PENNA.

March 10th, 1915.

The Curtis Home was first organized to care for fallen girls, then changed to a home for needy women and children and it now cares for girls only, although homeless women are taken in and cared for, from time to time, until they can secure a position.

This institution is looked after by a very competent board of lady managers and the superintendent of the home, Mrs. Elizabeth Strickler, is a very efficient woman. There were 31 girls in the home, ranging in age from four years up, also two old ladies who are there temporarily. This home is maintained in an old frame residence building of three stories and finished basement. The home has an admission and dismissal committee and each and every case is investigated, as far as the Board of Managers deem necessary, before being admitted to the home. The statement made that a few questions by the matron, in the reception room of the home, is all that is necessary to have the child or woman admitted to the home, is not true. Each case must go through the admission committee, although in some cases neglected children found on the streets needing attention, were taken into the home immediately. For this good work the institution should be commended, rather than censured.

This is the institution in which Mr. Osseroff served notice upon the Board of Managers and the superintendent that all the girls should have a physical and mental examination. For this purpose he took Dr. McCready, Dr. Hamot and Dr. Wagner to the home. Each girl, in turn, was brought into the room, stripped to the waist, and put through both a physical and mental examination. Some of the young ladies objected rather strenuously but to no avail. Mr. Osseroff remained in the room all this time making records of each and every case. He also secured the name and family address of each and every girl in the home, sent out and had their home investigated, asked the parents or the next of kin whether they were satisfied as to the girl being in the home, whether they could not provide a home outside for her, and many other questions of a similar nature. He also sent a young lady to the home, in the absence of the superintendent to inquire from the cook whether or not the children were properly fed, what variation was made in the feeding of the children and whether or not she was satisfied with her present position. Since that time Mr. Osseroff has made a typewritten report to the home, giving in detail, the examination of each and every child, made by the physicians, stating that this one was normal, that one was subnormal, the other one was of a low state of mentality and should not be in the home, etc.

I found the food served the children to be of the best quality. For the three meals served on the day of my visit the children received the following: For breakfast, fruit, oatmeal and milk, fried mush, bread and butter, and milk to drink. Eggs are given to the girls twice a week. For dinner, vegetable soup, roast or stew, bread and butter, fruit, and water to drink. For supper, baked potatoes, stewed corn, bread and butter, rice and milk.

I might say, with reference to this institution, that the Board of Lady Managers have had under consideration, for some few years, the erection of a new building. They realize, as well as anyone else, that the present building is not what they would like to have but they did not feel disposed to go ahead with the erection of a new building until they had sufficient money in sight to pay for it.

I found the home to be in very cleanly condition, the dining room not dark and sqaulid as stated, bed rooms, beds and bedding in very good shape, as a whole, well kept. The appearance of the children showed the excellent care they were receiving.

DAVIS TEMPORARY HOME, NO. 6716 SIMONTON STREET, E. E., PITTSBURGH, PA.

March 11, 1915.

This institution was founded by the Colored Womens' Relief Association and their present property consists of a frame, three story and basement, residence, owned by the Association. There are twelve (12) rooms in the building.

While the building is old and needs some repairs, the children housed therein are cared for in a much better manner with much better results, than if cared for in their previous homes. The home furnishings are plain and while not sufficient for their needs or what the management would like to have, they still are sufficient to allow the Association to do very good work.

The age limit of this home is 2 to 14 and their are no children in the home older than 14 years of age. There were 45 children there the day of my inspection, 24 girls and 21 boys. Of these 45 children, 33 went to public school, being of school age, 8 went to the public school in the morning for kindergarten work, while 4 children under age remained in the home.

It is not true that little investigation is made of children before admission. The association has an investigating committee and no child is taken into the home until the papers are duly signed by this investigating committee. I attach hereto an application blank of questions asked and the admission blank used by this institution, for your information. The matron of the home has a record of each and every child, their age, when they were admitted to the home, when discharged, etc. The chairman of the investigating committee and the committee keep all the other records.

The children were all healthy looking and do not appear as though they were half starved. Bread and butter is given for breakfast and supper every day. At breakfast each child is given cocoa or milk to drink and milk to drink also for supper. For dinner they have all the bread they want, but no butter, with navy beans and side meat, or a stew. On Sundays they have roast meat, roast chicken being furnished one Sunday each month. The statement made that the children are not allowed to speak at meal time, is not true. During my presence the children were quite lively and no effort was made to prevent talking.

While the kitchen and dining room are not lavishly equipped, with the addition of several good chairs to take the place of several that are broken, I believe the equipment would be sufficient. In this home there has only been one death in eight years, which is an exceedingly good record even for the best equipped and best maintained children's institutions.

The sleeping quarters, while needing some repairs to the floor and walls, are in a very cleanly condition, beds and bedding very good and the ventilation exceedingly good. The clothing worn by the children is fair. It is of sufficient quantity and warm, even though some of the girls and boys do have a few patches.

The matron, Rosa Robinson, had previous experience in a colored home at Washington, D. C., before coming to Pittsburgh to take charge of this home. The bathing facilities consist of one bath room containing a tub, toilet and wash basin, as stated. However, the matron stated that was sufficient for their work and no inconveniences were suffered thereby. The children are bathed at least once a week and in some cases twice a week.

In conclusion I would say that considering the amount of money expended, the children are well provided for and the present management should be commended for their good work rather than hindered by an attack of this kind.

HOLY FAMILY ORPHAN ASYLUM, EMSWORTH, PA.

March 12th, 1915.

Father Caesar Tomaszewski, Superintendent, assisted by Fifteen Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth.

This institution consists of 11 acres of ground, on which are three buildings, the main building of brick, two stories in height with accommodations for 200 children, the old home building originally built as a residence, now occupied by some of the sisters, and the power and laundry building, built of brick, situated in the rear of the main home. The main building was built for a children's home and is well adapted for the work. There are four entrances to this building, which lead into large corridors. The light and ventilation in the building is most excellent.

The main dining room is 80 feet by 35 feet in size, with accommodations for 200 children. There are 10 outside windows opening into the dining room and 8 inside windows opening into the main corridor; 4 doors, 2 to the corridor and 2 to the kitchens. Adjacent to the dining room, and between that and the main kitchen, are two pantry and refrigerating rooms. The main kitchen is 30 feet by 30 feet in size, with two doors and eight windows to the outside. In the center of the kitchen is a large range and the other equipment is adequate. Adjoining the kitchen is a large stock room, 30 feet by 15 feet, with built in cupboards, bins and drawers. These are all located on the first floor.

On this same floor are located the boys dormitories, four in number, containing 120 well equipped, sanitary, iron beds. Located on this floor also is the sisters' sewing room, boys' lavatory and bath room containing six bath tubs, five toilets, two urinals and sixteen wash basins, with individual towels, tooth brushes, etc., for each boy. Adjoining this wash and toilet room is the boys' play room, about 40 feet by 30 feet in size. The girls' play room is on the second floor.

Leading from the first to the second floors are two large stairways, thoroughly fire-proof, one at either end of the building. At one end of the building, on the second floor, is located three school rooms, in charge of three sisters. In these three rooms the children are taught two languages, their own and the American, together with other studies equal to the eighth grade in the public schools or the complete grammar grade in the parochial schools.

In the center of the second floor, to the rear, is located the chapel, equal in size to the main dining room. Next to the chapel, to the left, is the girls' wash room and lavatory, consisting of 6 bath tubs, 7 toilets, 14 wash basins, individual towels, tooth brushes, etc., the same as for the boys. Both wash rooms are large and the ventilation and light very good.

Adjoining the lavatory, on the left, is the girls' play room and adjoining the girls' play room, to the left, is one girls' dormitory. This dormitory contains 35 beds, all in clean condition, and there are nine large windows which give excellent light and ventilation. Across the hall from this dormitory is an exact duplicate for girls, containing 32 beds. These are both located in the left hand end of the building. To the left of this dormitory is another dormitory for girls under school age, containing 29 beds, having excellent light and ventilation. This is known as the kindergarten department and is in charge of a special sister at all times.

On the second floor, also, there are three large linen closets. The equipment of this institution, as a whole, is very good. The personal relationship between the management and the children is most excellent and a short visit to the institution will soon demonstrate this feature. The children are in love with the sisters and show it in every action.

It is true that no facilities are provided for manual training because it is thought that the children are not old enough for that class of work. To the left of the main building is the frame building now in use for sisters' sleeping quarters, as well as for sleeping quarters for ten of the older girls. This building was used as an orphan asylum previous to the erection of the new building. There is a room used as detention quarters where each child is kept, for a certain length of time, before being admitted to the home.

The records of the home, I found to be up-to-date. A complete card system, containing a card for each and every child in the home, is kept. On this card is written a complete history, so far as they are able to get, of each and every child. The financial records of the institution are kept in separate books.

Father Tomaszewski, the superintendent, is thoroughly imbued with the work, giving up a $5,000.00 position as pastor of the largest Polish church in the Pittsburgh district, in order to take charge of this little home. What money, outside of that given by the State, is raised by this much devoted Father, through lectures, entertainment, etc. This institution is very worthy, caring for Polish, Slavish and Lithuanians, and most every other nationality of children.

BOYS' INDUSTRIAL HOME, OAKDALE, PA.

March 12th.

This institution is presided over by J. W. Cleland and consists of two units, the main building, located at Oakdale and the farm, about two miles from Oakdale. About three acres of ground surrounds the main building, which is situated on a hill above Oakdale. On the farm are located two cottages, workshop, farmer's residence, two barns and a dairy building.

The older boys are kept on the farm, the younger boys at the main building in Oakdale. On a previous visit to this home, last fall, during fruit season, I found that there were certain things which the institution wanted, viz., better bathing and toilet facilities, which they could not have on account of the Borough of Oakdale not having a good water supply nor a good sewage disposal plant. At that time the Borough of Oakdale was installing their new water supply and it was the intention of the management of this institution to thoroughly equip the home with much better shower baths, and other washing facilities, as well as better toilet facilities. On this trip I find that this has been done. On the farm property, owing to lack of money, the same conditions exist and the institution management are not disposed to go into debt to erect a sewage disposal plant until they have the necessary funds for so doing. The water supply on the farm is fairly good, what water they have being excellent.

The sewage disposal is handled in a manner which has met with the sanction of the State Board of Health. This is only temporary and, as I stated before, as soon as funds are available, a complete plant will be installed. This institution is doing a most excellent work, considering the class of boys which they handle.

The capacity of this institution is 145, and at the time of my visit they were caring for a like number of boys. Several times, the institution has been overcrowded, caring for as many as 160 boys at a time. The methods in use are modern and the teachers employed are very efficient.

The investigation made at the time a boy is admitted is as complete as it could be. Most of the cases handled are Juvenile Court cases and the management of the institution depend upon the Juvenile Court records for their information. The inmates of this home come from all parts of Western Pennsylvania and it would be next to impossible to employ investigators to travel around over the different counties, in order to get additional information which, as a rule, would be of no material benefit when it was received. The card system of records, which is employed, is well kept and up-to-date. The financial records are in the form of a voucher system and very complete. The food served the children is exceedingly good, plenty of it and well cooked. The dining rooms are large, with plenty of light and ventilation, and adequate for the purpose.

The medical supervision of the children is sufficient; besides two local physicians, from time to time, specialists from the city being called for special work. The statement made that no systematic effort is made to determine whether or not a child is normal or subnormal, is not true. The mere fact that the superintendent or the teachers come in contact with these children every day, is sufficient to determine, in short order, whether the child is normal or subnormal, much more satisfactory than a single days examination by a physician.

The bathing facilities and toilets are sufficient for every use, new equipment having lately been installed throughout the main building, and this was known to Mr. Osseroff at the time he made his investigation. The recreation facilities, for the boys, are excellent. They have ball grounds and tennis courts, both at the main building and on the farm.

The statement made that, at the farm residence, the toilet accommodations are inadequate and that the outside privy and chicken coup next to it, was filthy and kept in an uncleanly condition is untrue. On the day of my visit the outside privy was very cleanly and it is cleaned out, from time to time. The chicken coup adjoining, I found to be in a very good condition and no apparent odor was noticeable.

The statement made that the sewage from Barrack Cottage is piped to a large opening in the ground, from where it sinks into an abandoned mine shaft, is true. This was done with the full knowledge of the State Board of Health.

In conclusion, I would say that to adopt the suggested improvements by Mr. Osseroff, would necessitate the expenditure of from $100,000.00 to $125,000.00. Some of his suggestions are all right while others are absured and not necessary.

ROSELIA FOUNDLING ASYLUM, PITTSBURGH, PA.

March 15th, 1915.

This institution is located at Cliff and Manilla Streets, and is under the management of the Sisters of Charity, Sister Victoria being the Mother Superior. The buildings consist of a three story brick residence facing on Cliff Street, with a three story wing extending back, on Manilla Street, to the corner of Bedford, and a four story addition on Bedford. Adjoining the three story residence building on Cliff Street is another residence building, 2½ stories high, built of brick, which is now used as a nurses' home. While the two buildings facing on Cliff Street were formerly used for residence purposes, they are in good condition and so arranged to meet the present needs. The new additions, on Manilla Street and Bedford Avenue, are new and up-to-date.

The capacity of this institution is 250, 175 children and 75 mothers. There are 11 nurses and 16 sisters engaged in the work, 151 children and 54 mothers being in the home today.

The statement made by Mr. Osseroff, that permission to see the most important parts of the building was refused and that the data offered was only of the most meager sort, is misleading. The most important part of this home is the children's department and Mr. Osseroff was allowed to go all through this department. He was refused admission to the private maternity department, or in other words, into private rooms containing patients who were paying the regular hospital rates. This institution cares for both public and private patients and Mr. Osseroff was rightly refused admission to the private department, and should have been refused admission to the public department, in view of the fact that the sisters had received information to the extent that he had questioned each and every inmate in similar institutions he visited, with reference to their past history and many other things which concerned him not.

Every endeavor is made by the sisters to provide homes for their wards outside of the institutional walls. These children are placed through both Catholic and Protestant child placing agencies.

With reference to the recreation facilities, there are two play rooms for children, on the first floor; one for babies on the second floor, and another one on the third floor. In these play rooms are arranged swings, sliding boards, roller coasters, in addition to many other individual play things which the children have access to. Opposite the institution, on Cliff Street, is a large recreation plot, properly fenced in, containing about half an acre, on which are erected sliding boards, roller coasters, sand boxes, a play house and several tents, which are in use all through the summer months, when the weather will permit.

The dormitories for children, those for waiting mothers, the delivery rooms and maternity wards, kitchens and dining rooms, were all inspected and found to be in first class shape. The bathing and toilet facilities are adequate and adjoin each ward and dormitory.

The six convalescent porches are constantly in use by mothers and children. Those mothers not able to pay their way are required to spend six months in the institution and the training they receive in the care of their children, and other work, serves to put them in good shape to face society once again.

This institution maintains a staff of 12 physicians and one house physician. Six of these physicians are on the general maternity staff, four on the children's staff, with one specialist on the nose and throat, one on the eyes and one on skin diseases. The medical supervision is excellent. The sisters' quarters are located in the original building facing on Cliff Street.

The statement further made by Mr. Osseroff that "for its own benefit, this institution should welcome a thorough and intensive investigation of its work," is met with the counter-statement from Sister Victoria, the sister in charge, that she does welcome any investigation by those in authority but that she will permit no individual to come into the institution to question the unfortunate women with reference to their misfortune. She further states that this is private work for the institution alone and that their reports given to the State Board of Charities will show whether or not they merit the assistance which the State is now giving them. The further statement, that this institution is doing public, and not private work, is misleading as the institution does both.

Taking into consideraation the criticisms, or in other words the attack, made by the Public Charities Association, through its authorized representative, Mr. Abraham Osseroff, on the children's institutions of Allegheny county receiving subsidy from the State, a copy of his report being with me at all times during my investigation of these same institutions, I wish to state that I have not found them warranted.

In some cases I did find the physical make-up of the institutions lacking, in some respects. Those in charge of such institutions would be only too glad to make some changes which they deem necessary but owing to the great drain, not only on the treasury of this grand old Commonwealth, but on the public purse strings as well, they have been able, with much hard work, to raise only sufficient money for maintenance.

Again we might say that the children housed in these institutions are fed, clothed and administered to in a much better manner than they would have been in the previous environment from which they came.

Respectfully submitted,

WILLIAM G. THEURER,
Assistant General Agent.

REPORT OF INVESTIGATION OF CURTIS HOME

2541 BRECKENRIDGE AVENUE
PITTSBURGH, PA.

Monday, November 2, 1914.

Exact Copy.

INVESTIGATION OF CURTIS HOME

Monday, November 2, 1914.

Curtis Home was first organized in the year 1894 for the purpose of providing care and shelter for fallen girls. Its location at the time was on Rose street. From there the Home was moved to Fulton street, and then to the building now occupied by the Jewish Home for the Aged on Breckenridge Avenue. The present home is an old frame building on a small sized city lot at 2541 Breckenridge avenue. Since its foundation the object of the home has been changed and at present it aims to provide a home for needy women and children, girls only being received. During recent years, however, the work with children has been by far the largest part of its activity.

Care of the Children.

During the year ending May 31st, 1914, this institution cared for 101 children. During the same period, 40 children were returned to parents, 6 were sent to other institutions, 2 were placed in private homes, and 14 were otherwise discharged, leaving 39 children in the institution at the close of the year. The per capita cost per week was $2.57. Girls only are accepted, and those between the ages of four and fourteen. These age limits are not adhered to, however. The ages of the 30 children in the Home at the time of this investigation varied from four to eighteen years. The religions represented were: Protestant, 27; Jewish, 2; no preference, 1.

Girls are accepted between the ages of four and fourteen. These age limits are not adhered to, however, and vairations are common. Colored children are not received. No admission fee is charged and payment toward the support of children is graded according to the ability of parents to pay, but the management of this institution utilizes no efficient means of ascertaining this important fact.

The investigation before the admission of a ward is handled in a haphazard way. There is no systematic method of obtaining data upon which can be based a sane decision as to whether or not a child is actually a needy case or an appropriate ward for this institution to handle. A few questions by the matron, in the reception room of the Home, answered by those most interested in having the child admitted, is, as a rule, the extent to which the study of any case goes. There is no efficient effort made to determine whether actual home life is still a possibility for the child under consideration; or, if the child is an institutional charge, whether its parents or relatives are paying toward its maintenance to the full extent of their ability. Because of laxity in the study of its cases, this institution necessarily at times pursues the easier method of burdening the charitably inclined public with duties which should properly be carried by others. Stigmatizing and degrading, as dependents, those who very often are not dependents at all, follows, as a logical and actual sequence, improper methods in the admission of new wards.

In the words of a socially minded and enlightened member of the Board of Directors of this institution: "It seems that the parents of the children are simply getting us to keep the children until they are fourteen years of age and will be able to work for them."

The records of children kept by this institution are limited to a little card, which bears only the most meager data with regard to name, age, religion and parentage of the children. An adequate system of records is an absolute necessity. The financial records are kept by the secretary of a large real estate company.

The personal relationship between the management and the children is very good. Very litte of the institutional spirit is to be found here and the tendency, on the part of those in charge, is toward the provision of a homelike place for the children. The facilities for the care of the children, however, are entirely inadequate. The building is too old and totally unsuited to its present use. The furnishings and equipment are too poor and too meager to supply even the essential needs of growing girls.

The food served the children is fair. There is no stereotyped menu and variety is aimed at in the preparation of the diet. The children eat, however, in a basement dining room which is very dark and dismal. The use of this room for a dining room should be discontinued and a more suitable one found or provided. The kitchen, which adjoins the dining room, should also be moved to better quarters.

Breakfast: Bread, butter, cereal, milk.
Dinner: Beefstew, bread, butter.
Supper: Milk or rice pudding, vegetables.

Medical Work.

The medical work of this institution is very efficiently done by the physician in charge.

Education.

Educational provision is entirely through the public school system. The Home does no educational work within its walls. All children of school age are sent to the public school in the vicinity of the Home.

Recreation.

For recreation the children have a medium sized play room and the outdoors during fair weather. There is, however, no systematic provision for play.

Dormitories.

The sleeping quarters provided for the children are not good. The garret bedrooms particularly are low, dreary and very poorly ventilated. Space now utilized for beds on the garret should not be used for sleeping purposes at all.

Clothing.

The clothing used by the children is fair.

Discharge.

Children are dismissed from the Home by the matron through a Dismission Committee.

Building and Equipment.

The building is an old, and in some places dilapidated, three-story and basement frame house, formerly used as a residence. It is entirely unsuited to its present purpose. It is, however, kept in as good condition as is possible under the circumstances. It is heated with individual gas stoves in the rooms, and fire protection is afforded through two fire escapes—one at the front and one at the rear of the house.

The sleeping rooms are distributed throughout the house. On the first floor is the matron's bed room and a bed room with three beds for girls. These rooms are fair. On this floor are also a private parlor, a medium sized play-room for the children, a library and a reception room.

On the second floor are six bed rooms, containing 19 beds, which are fair. The beds are kept in good condition. There are also two bath rooms on this floor, which are kept in sanitary condition.

The third floor is a garret, which is divided into space for seven beds. Space now used for five beds should not be used for this purpose, being entirely unsuited for sleeping accommodations. The ceilings are very low, and besides the beds there is little or no furniture. Thorough ventilation is an impossibility.

In the basement of the building, and from the front building line, totally underground, is the dining room, of which mention has already been made. The kitchen adjoins it.

Recommendations.

1. A complete system of records should be instituted, preferably a card system, giving in detail the record of the child, its family history and physical development.

2. There should be an efficient system of investigation before the admission of a new child. Appropriate application blanks should be provided and an active committee made to feel its duty in providing ways and means for properly carrying out this phase of the institution's work. If possible, one of the existing agencies equipped to do the work might well be called in to take charge of the family investigations.

3. No child should be admitted unless it is clearly demonstrated that institutional care is its only possible disposition, and even then children should be accepted only as a temporary expedient.

4. It should be the aim of this institution to leave, as soon as possible, its present ill-adapted building and seek more suitable quarters elsewhere. Until better quarters are provided, however, some of the rooms of the house might be utilized to greater advantage. Though a parlor may be a necessity as a meeting room for the Board and on other occasions, yet, because the sleeping space for children in this building is so limited, and in some places so poor, and particularly because a number of anaemic girls are in extreme need of plenty of fresh air, the parlor on the first floor should be used as a sleeping room, with arrangements made for proper and adequate ventilation. For Board meetings and administration purposes the room now used in part as a library might be available.

5. Discharge of chidlren should be under the careful guidance of an active dismission committee. Every child should be carefully followed up after leaving the institution.
